BBC GETS THE BOOT

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian foreign ministry ordered the BBC today to close down its radio and television operations in India by Saturday and withdraw its correspondents, a foreign ministry spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the decision was conveyed to the British high commissioner, Sir Morrice James, today after word was received from London that the BBC refused to discontinue showing a series on Indian poverty.

B.C. Judge Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — A member of the British Columbia Judicial Council said Tuesday Provincial Court Judge Bernard Isman, 63, has been suspended from his duties pending investigation of an incident alleged to have occurred Aug. 7.

Cariboo District Judge Kenneth Arkell, a member of the commission, confirmed that the suspension had been ordered, but declined to discuss details of the alleged incident.

NO CHARGES

The Sun says it has learned the incident involved routine investigation by Vancouver police and RCMP of suspicions of prostitution and drug use against a woman. It says no arrests were made and no charges laid in the investigation.

The suspension order, handed to Judge Isman Monday, was signed by Provincial Court Judge Cyril White, chairman of the judicial commission.

Judge White was away from Vancouver Tuesday and unavailable for comment. He is scheduled to return Sept. 8.

HEARING

Judge Arkell said a hearing will be held at a date to be set and "all sides will be given an opportunity to be heard before a further decision is made."

The seven-man judicial council has power to suspend provincial court judges temporarily. Permanent removal would require an order-in-council by the provincial cabinet.

Judge Isman has been on the bench here since 1962.

With slogans, stickers and speeches, women liberationists demanded equal rights today in a United States-wide demonstration for jobs, free abortion and 24-hour child-care centres.

Little active support for the cause was shown by Canadian women although members of the Women's Liberation Movement Tuesday set up picket lines in front of The Edmonton Journal demanding an end to want ad classifications which they said "foster discrimination against women."

NO SYMPATHY

In Vancouver today members of the Women's Liberation Movement said they plan no actions in sympathy with those in the U.S. Lack of liaison between Canadian and U.S. liberation organizations, differences in problems confronting women of both countries and a rift in the local movement were cited as the reasons.

In the U.S. the National Women's Strike Coalition, sponsor of Strike for Equality, had urged women to stay off the job if possible.

The Commerce and Industry Association in New York said it had checked 30 large firms and found a few women had asked for and been givn the day off. Figures were not available.

ALL ON HAND

"We're pretty advanced here," she said. "About 40 per cent of our departments are managed by women."

The sponsors, who also urged women to stop performing household chores

Jordan Troops Battle Guerrillas

Times News Services

Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian security men battled in downtown Amman today, with one guerrilla reported killed and three civilians wounded. Lebanese demonstrated against guerrillas in the Biblical city of Sidon and in Beirut.

The cause of the Amman street battle was not learned immediately. But eyewitnesses said a group of guerrillas on one side of the street and security men behind a parked car on the other blazed away at each other with pistols and submachineguns. Joint army-guerrilla patrols raced to the scene, stopped the fighting and made several arrests.

It was the eighth such incident reported since the guerrillas vowed to sabotage the ceasefire agreement in which King Hussein of Jordan joined Egypt and Israel on Aug. 7.

The demonstration in Sidon took the form of a general strike in the wake of street battles Monday between guerrillas and pro-Nasser followers of Maaroui Saad, the city's representative in parliament. Two persons were killed, more than a dozen wounded and Saad was kidnapped for a time by the guerrillas.

Saad's followers called the strike because one of his relatives was still being held by the guerrillas, entrenched behind sandbags on roofs and at street intersections.

The demonstrators in Beirut were from the South Lebanese village of Chebaa. Blaming the guerrillas for Israeli strikes against their village, they sealed off the main street outside the office of the Palestine Liberation Organization with barricades of burning tires and demanded that the guerrillas

City 'Hesitant' To Block CPR

By PETER McNELLY

The City of Victoria decided not to oppose the E and N Railway's bid to end Dayliner passenger service at an informal meeting held at least three weeks before the Canadian Transport Commission hearings began, Ald. Peter Pollen said today.

Pollen said he, other aldermen, Mayor Courtney Haddock and top city staff attended the meeting. He said Haddock and city manager Dennis Young told the meeting a stand against the E and N would jeopardize land negotiations between the city and the CPR.

Acting mayor Percy Frampton and Young today denied knowledge of the meeting. An in-camera meeting of city council was held the day before the hearings began, and as a result, city solicitor T. P. O'Grady was instructed to attend the hearings with a watching brief.

This gave O'Grady the right

Pollution Curb On New Cars Set

The provincial government has officially empowered itself to ban the sale of new cars which fail to meet pollution control standards after Sept. 1.

But no standards have yet been set, an official said, and enforcement may not begin until Jan. 1, 1971.

The new power, which also includes a potential ban on operation of cars violating standards, is contained in an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act passed at the last legislative session.

It isn't known whether the B.C. standards will exceed those already in effect in Ontario for new cars and already incorporated in new Ontario-built cars in B.C.

Government officials indicated earlier this year that operating standards for pollution control devices on existing motor vehicles would be phased in gradually after the new car restrictions were law.

No Decision Reached On Postal Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet today discussed the continuing postal dispute, but Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp said no decision has been reached on what may be done if current mediation efforts fail.

He said the cabinet will discuss the issue again early next week.

Mediator Thomas O'Connor said Tuesday night that a "considerable gap" still remains between the two sides in the dispute.

O'Conner issued a formal statement Tuesday night with the official purpose of commending the 27,000-member Council of Postal Unions on its decision to suspend rotating strikes from Thursday to Monday to deliver old-age pension cheques.

Closed by strikes today are the main post office and 41 staff offices in Toronto, Cobourg, Ont., Regina and Thunder Bay, Ont.

OTHERS SHUT

Service also was suspended by the post office at nine staff offices in the North Bay, Ont., district and Picton, Ont., as well as four in the Saskatoon district and five in the Calgary district.

But in the statement, O'Connor, a Toronto labor relations specialist, also said:

"There is a considerable gap that must be bridged to achieve a fair settlement as desired by both parties. Both negotiation committees are ably led and are capable of doing the job."

Congressmen Urge Freeze On SST Funds

WASHINGTON (WP)—A joint subcommittee of the United States congress recommended today that all federal funds be withheld from the 10-year-old effort to build America's supersonic transport (SST).

Every argument used to justify federal support for the controversial project was disputed by the economy-in-government subcommittee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), a long-time foe of the SST.

Cong Keep Up Attack On Cambodia Capital

PHNOM PENH (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces kept up their attacks against Phnom Penh's outer defences for the third day today, but a Cambodian military spokesman said: "The worst of this latest Communist assault appears to be over."

Cambodia's military command believes the Viet Cong are trying to establish a supply and infiltration route to the Mekong Delta along old Viet Minh trails used before 1954.

The Viet Minh trail was used before the 1954 Geneva agreements that ended the first Indochina war. It followed an approximate line from the Laotian border past Kompong Thom, 75 miles north of Phnom Penh around the end of the Tonle Sap Lake and Lompong Chang, 50 miles northwest of the capital, and into the mountains of southwest Cambodia.

Maj. Am Rong, the Cambodian military spokesman, said a certain amount of movement has been spotted along the old route, with Kompong Thom under constant pressure.

War Defoliant Ban Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate refused by a 62-22 vote, to ban United States use of plant-killing chemicals in the war in South Vietnam.

Opponents of the measure said defoliation of forests to expose enemy troops and destruction of enemy crops are saving American lives on the battlefield.

Bare Facts Given By Rejected Nudist

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Let's get down to the bare facts," Judge Edward S. Northrop said as he heard testimony about the refusal of the Baltimore police department to hire a nudist as probationary patrolman.

Police Commissioner Donald P. Pomerleau told the judge Tuesday that he declined to hire the nudist, John J. Bruns III of Glen Burnie, Md., because "nudism is not a commonly accepted mode of life."

Pomerleau also said Bruns's membership in Pine Tree Associates Inc., a nudist club, would prevent the 30-year-old man from complying with a requirement that patrolmen "carry side arms 24 hours a day."

Pomerleau was the only witness to testify in the $50,000 damage suit brought by Bruns after he was denied the job in 1968.

Bruns said he was first among 40 men on a civil service eligibility list. The 39 others were hired, he alleged in the suit.

'Cheque' Just Cowed Up and Never Said Moo!

LONDON (UPI) — Punch Magazine today paid its most senior writer with a cheque written on the side of a cow.

The writer, Sir Alan (A. P.) Herbert, 80, cashed the cheque for five pounds ($12) at a bank near St. Paul's Cathedral.

In 1930, Herbert wrote about a man presenting a cheque written on a cow to the tax inspector.

"We thought we'd celebrate Sir Alan's 60th year with Punch by doing something connected with his campaigns," Davis said. "He's been campaigning for 60 years."

Sir Alan said "I was campaigning against the income tax process when I wrote about the cow. The system hasn't gotten much better since then. I think if everybody paid their tax bill with a cheque on a cow, it would shake the state into doing something about the system."

Sir Alan led the cow into the bank, where the chief cashier handed over five new one-pound notes ($2.40 each). The bank manager wrote "paid" across the cheque.

In the columns of Punch and as an independent member of parliament for many years, A. P. Herbert helped win with wit and wisdom the reform of liquor and divorce laws and of entertainment and betting taxes.

In the current issue of punch, published today, "APH" looked back over the 60 years since the magazine accepted his first contribution — "a horrible piece of verse for which I was paid one guinea (about $3)."

Herbert's greatest foe has been the income tax. In 1962 he had to pay a surtax and accompanied his payment with a scorning poem. The tax man replied, in verse, that the people's champion had sent 30 cents too much. Herbert admitted defeat this way:

"I thank you, sir, but am afraid
Of such a rival in my trade:
One never should encourage those—
In future I shall pay in prose."

. . . WOMEN MARCH

they consider menial and to take children to offices, timed the strike to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the adoption of the 19th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, giving women the right to vote.

TAKE OVER SHOW

At the defence department information office in Washington, some female secretaries posted a series of protest posters made from file folders. They urged that the Pentagon Athletic Club be opened to women and complained that in government men are called deputies and women secretaries.

On the floor was a trash basket filled with women's underwear, including a bra, lacy pink panties and a girdle, symbolic of what feminists complain is the sexiness forced on them.

Representatives Margaret Heckler (Rep. Mass.) said in a statement: "As a nation, we can ill afford to deprive ourselves of the vast resources of womanpower on conquering our country's ills."

NIXON JOINS CALL

President Nixon, noting the suffrage anniversary, issued a proclamation Tuesday asking Americans "to recognize the great debt we owe to those who dedicated their life's work to the cause of women's suffrage."

He added: "Let us all recognize that women surely have a still wider role to play in the political, economic and social life of our country."

Several politcians endorsed the women's cause. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller proclaimed today Women's Rights Day in New York State. Mayors James Tate of Philadelphia and Peter Flaherty of Pittsburgh took similar action in their cities.

Senator Charles E. Goodell (Rep. N.Y.) held a news conference with Betty Friedan, a leader of the National Organization of Women — NOW — and other feminists and announced plans to introduce new federal legislation for women's rights.

MOST COME OFF

"If it's not an absolutely fabulous success," she said, "then they will say that women don't want rights . . . they're happy where they are."

The strike coalition, at a news conference in New York Tuesday, urged women to boycott Silva Thins cigarettes, Ivory Liquid detergent, Prestine feminine deodorant and Cosmopolitan magazine.

The women accused the cigarette of portraying women as "objects of contempt" in their advertising; said of the detergent. "We feel older women have something to offer to society besides soft hands and clean glasses;" and said the magazine is "geared to selling women as sexual objects."

The New York women also were angry with city officials who said feminists would be limited to one lane of Fifth Avenue in their early-evening march to a Bryant Park rally.

Mrs. Friedan said suffragettes had the whole avenue when they marched to celebrate and "we can have it again."

"This is our hour of history and we are going to take it."

She said: "I am not threatening violence, merely expressing determination."

One woman who disagreed with the feminists was Susan Young, 22, of Lethbridge, Alta. Participating in a beauty contest in Montana, she was asked about women's liberation.

"Any girl with a head on her shoulders can get anything she wants out of a man. Honey, I've got better things to do than change tires."

She won the contest.

In New York demonstrators passed out a parody of The New York Times — a product of the national organization for women, which was called the New York Times.

The columns contained an interview with "Nick Dixon," alleged head of a masculinist group, a movie review of a film rated "W", meaning women must accompany men, and a sports story by "Ruth Babe."

Some of the feminist strategy seemed puzzling. In Pittsburgh, four women pelted windows of a radio station with eggs before they drove off in a car. Studio officials said they were unable to figure it out unless they had offended some listeners by airing a feature called "Great Women in History."

Later, a speaker at a Pittsburgh suffrage rally told a cheering crowd of bra-less and blue-jeaned listeners that her group threw the eggs because a disk jockey "dared" them to try something on the air.

Drug Problem 'Frightens' Pentecostals

Prime Minister Trudeau disregards briefs and letters, so "evangelical Christians" must protest proposed liberalized drug laws through the news media and large public meetings, said Rev. Gerald Morgan of St. Catharines, Ont.

Morgan was one of 337 voting delegates to attend the 27th biennial general conference of the Pentecostal assemblies of Canada that ended Tuesday at Metropolitan United Church in Victoria.

The implications of the Le Dain commission report on the non-medical use of drugs was debated by the delegates during the conference business sessions.

A resolution brought forward early in the sessions urged that "Parliament retain all present laws on drugs and that all levels of government energetically apply the law."

'SATANIC CONSPIRACY'

Rev. Gordon Upton of Ottawa moved an amendment to the resolution stating that Pentecostals "go on record as opposing any proposed legislation which would liberalize laws related to the control of hallucinatory drugs."

In a report to the conference Rev. George Upton of Abbotsford warned the conference delegates:

"We are victims of a cruel Satanic conspiracy to destroy our Christian institution, to disrupt out economic economy, to corrupt our youth to utter destruction, to confuse us and frighten us from our Christian principles."

Escapers Caught Hiding in Bush

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Three escaped prisoners, including two convicted murderers, crashed through a police road block early today but were captured two hours later when they abandoned their car and were found hiding under bushes.

The three, Robert Desjarlais, 28, Douglas Letendre, 26, and Glen Wayne Burnett, 25, were the last to be recaptured of seven men who escaped Monday night from the maximum-security Prince Albert penitentiary.

Police said the three held up two youths who were sleeping in their car near MacDowall, Sask., about 20 miles south of Prince Albert, and ordered the youths at knifepoint to drive south.

The three abandoned their car and ran into the woods but a police dog picked up their scent and found them under the bushes after an hour's search.

WAS SERVING LIFE

Desjarlais was sentenced to life last September in Edmonton for the 1965 knife slaying of Rosalie Johnson at a house party. He was found in March, 1969, in Hawthorne, Calif., and while awaiting trial tried to escape from the Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., jail but was caught scaling a wall.

Letendre was sentenced to life for the 1962 murder of a Calgary service station operator. He was paroled in August, 1969, but was returned to prison after pleading guilty to armed robbery and kidnapping involving two Edmonton taxi drivers.

Burnett had been serving five years for an armed robbery in North Battleford, Sask.

THE WEATHER

Things are looking up again weather-wise.

The weather office at Victoria International Airport is predicting mainly sunny weather for Thursday. A low tonight of 50 degrees and a high Thursday of 70 degrees is expected.

Winds in exposed areas over the Juan de Fuca Strait should reach speeds of west 15 m.p.h., decreasing at night. See Page 8 for details.

France Charges Mainland Youth

MULHOUSE, France (Reuters) — Vancouver student Leigh Morton, 24, was jailed Tuesday charged with smuggling drugs after police reported finding 1,300 doses of the hallucinatory drug LSD in his boots.

Morton was arrested as he entered France from West Germany at the Chalampe frontier point Monday night.

Police said they found 50 grams of marijuana stuffed in his boots along with the LSD, which they said is probably worth around $7,000 on the illicit market.

Vic West Housing To Up Enrolment

The chairman of the Greater Victoria school board's building and grounds committee said today the board has told Education Minister Donald Brothers that a prospective low cost housing development three blocks from Victoria West elementary school could substantially increase school enrolment.

Peter Bunn said the board used the development possibility to strengthen its argument with the government to take some action concerning the Vic West school.

The board is waiting for approval from the government for the transfer of five portable classrooms to the school site to avoid putting the 600 students on split-shit classes Sept. 8.

NEEDS APPROVAL

The board decided to move the portables to the site in July at a cost of $18,000 when it ruled the existing 62-year-old classroom building unsuitable for use this September but needs government approval under the Public Schools Act before going ahead.

The housing development on the city-owned land bounded by McCaskill, Hereward, Griffiths and Langford has attracted two or three local construction firms which want to build the low-income families and senior citizens project.

Peter Crisp of the city planning department said the preliminary investigations of such a project have been done and the next step would be to prepare the property for sale and development.

The advisory planning committee would be looking at the development at its next meeting about the end of September and could make a definite proposal concerning zoning, conditions of sale and development to council by October, Crisp said.

He added that if project proceeds without serious difficulties occupancy could be by September 1971.

If the project were about 60 to 80 units, it would add about 280 people to the area including up to 120 school-age children. This would be about four additional school classrooms some of which would be needed at the Vic West school.

Bunn had unkind words for the Government inaction on the Vic West situation.

He described the whole situation as "very, very upsetting" in the last eight years he has been involved with the school board.

"We are told to resolve the problem and get the okay in 1960 to phase out the school. Why the hell are parents and kids put through this?"

. . . CITY

to cross examine CPR representatives, but not to present a brief.

Pollen said the meeting he is talking about took place several weeks before the commission hearings began. He supported Oak Bay Ald. Brian Smith who Monday accused Victoria of being afraid to oppose the E and N before the commission.

Smith told Oak Bay council Monday that the City of Victoria was too busy with "under the table" negotiations with the CPR to send a representative before the commission formally opposing the E and N application.

LAND TRANSFER

The city is negotiating with CPR over the transfer of the Ocean Cement Ltd. Wharf Street plant from Inner Harbor to CPR-owned land near Bay Street.

Frampton today said the transport commission hearings had nothing to do with negotiations with the CPR.

Frampton admitted that he may have been on vacation during the time Pollen alleges the meeting to have occurred. A check with city clerk records show no evidence of the meeting.

But Pollen says this is because the meeting was informal. Council did adopt a motion on Aug. 13, after the hearings had ended, opposing the E and N's bid to stop Dayliner service.

COPY SENT TO PM

Copies of the motion have been sent to Prime Minister Trudeau and Transport Minister Don Jamieson.

"There were so many people taking a stand, they (council) felt that there was adequate representation from the municipalities most directly involved," Frampton said.

Ald. Clyde Savage, chairman of council's traffic committee, said Victoria's transportation problems are rapid transit, effective roads and a regional bus system.

But Pollen said this view is short-sighted. "We're going to have to have a high-speed railway passenger corridor over the next 20 years. It's essential for the future development of transportation on the Island."

Pollen estimated 1.5 million tourists a year would be visiting Victoria by 1980.

If the city continues to build high-rise apartments, this will create traffic and population problems which will require passenger service on the E and N Railway.

And he said the E and N's move to stop passenger service is "only the first step" to closure of their line.

"If the city wanted to put forth a comprehensive brief, they could have," he said. "I'm not saying there's a conspiracy between the city and the CPR. The thing is there's no positive direction for the future. The city is just thinking how much they can get for themselves."

Frampton disagreed.

"I don't think we're being short sighted. That is his opinion. I can't say so," Frampton said.

But Pollen said the city's concern for moving Ocean Cement amounts to "prejudicing the long-term transportation capability of Vancouver Island."

"I'm not being vindictive," Pollen said. "But I'm worried about the effects of this short sighted planning and management."

protect them or move out of their village.

Following the opening round of peace talks in New York with UN representative Gunnar V. Jarring as go-between, Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah flew to Jerusalem to report to his government. Tekoah's departure was no surprise, having been announced last weekend.

Jordanian Ambassador Abdul Hamid Sharaf returned to his post in Washington, saying he would return whenever Jarring called him back.

In Tel Aviv, Israel formally detained today two Algerian passengers of a British airliner held here for the last 12 days.

The chief-of-staff, Lt.-Gen. Haim Bar Lev, issued an order against the two, Maj. Khatib Djelloul and Ali Belaziz, under emergency regulations dating from the time of the British mandate and empowering him to order the detention of persons suspected of security offences.

Arab guerrillas will set up a "revolutionary court" to try Palestinians who support a peaceful settlement or an independent Palestinian state as a substitute for the total liberation of Palestine, according to the Amman newspaper Al Fatah.

The paper, which speaks for the central committee of all guerrilla organizations, said Tuesday "there are certain Palestinian quarters which go along with a peaceful settlement" of the Middle East conflict.

"The arm of the Palestinian revolution," it warned, "is able to reach and traitor wherever he may be and carry out the people's verdict."

The statement contrasts sharply with earlier O'Connor comments made after his appointment was announced last Wednesday. In weekend interviews he said he hoped the dispute would be settled before Sunday and significant progress would be seen by today.

The issue of higher pay for casual labor is believed to have been settled in negotiations and one source has indicated that agreement has been reached on the length of time that must be given postal workers before their shifts are changed.

The central program that must be agreed on before a settlement is possible includes wages, fringe benefits and job security.

Opinion of both government and union sources was divided Tuesday night on why O'Connor had made reference to the wide gap that must still be bridged.

The unions are known to have been angered by O'Connor's earlier statement and some sources say his latest comments may be nothing more than an attempt to cool tempers and smooth the bargaining process.

REFLECTS CONCERN

Others, notably government sources, say the statement reflects O'Connor's deep concern with the relative lack of progress so far in the mediation effort.

The mediator himself would not add to his official statement.

The cabinet meeting today is not expected to produce any action on the 11-month-old contract dispute. Prime Minister Trudeau, on a Caribbean vacation until next week, has said he will allow a week to 10 days for a settlement through mediation.

O'Connor has set Sunday as his personal deadline for reaching an agreement or breaking off talks.

Pop Festival Chiefs Deny LSD in Water

FRESHWATER, Isle of Wight (Reuters) — A hippie demonstration and a rumor that LSD was injected into a water supply brought the first threat of trouble to a mammoth pop festival which opens here today.

A British domestic news agency reported Tuesday that a public health official had been called into inspect the water supplies feeding the festival's catering enclosure.

The organizers of the festival, Fiery Creations, quickly denied reports that LSD was injected into the water. But, they said, there had been some trouble with over-chlorination.

Groups of English fans who were among an international advance guard camping near the festival site spent most of Tuesday morning obliterating slogans and four-letter words daubed over fences by a group of American hippies who had demonstrated the night before for "free music."

The group, calling themselves The White Panthers, tried to pull down fences surrounding the festival arena.

As a gesture to many fans who arrived without enough money to buy tickets or in the belief that the entertainment was free, the organizers announced Tuesday that no admission charge would be made for the first two days of the festival.

A spokesman for Fiery Creations said they stood to lose £20,000 (about $50,000) by making this gesture.

The organizers have poured more than $500,000 into this, the third Isle of Wight festival, which promises to be the biggest musical event of its kind ever held n Britain.

The organizers estimate the crowd—already 30,000-40,000—will swell to 250,000 by the weekend when such artists as folksingers Joan Baez and Canadian Leonard Cohen, guitarist Jimi Hendrix and jazz trumpeter Miles Davis will be featured.

Local Members To Attend Vet Convention

Six local delegates have been chosen to attend the 30th biennial dominion convention of Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada in Vancouver Aug. 31 to Sept. 4.

G. W. Ball, J. L. Aubry, Frederick Newell, Anton Emerick, C. G. Stevens, and P. S. Copp, will represent Victoria at the five-day convention.

Highlight of the convention will be the veteran's parade to Victory Square Cenotaph at 6:30 p.m. on Sept. 1.

Minister of Veteran Affairs Jean Dube and Recreation and Conservation Minister W. K. Kiernan will be guest speakers.

FOR EXPANSION

Jubilee Unveils Long-Term Plan

By DON VIPOND

The Capital Region's hospital board got its first look today at a long-term development proposal for Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The master plan, prepared by Vancouver architects Thompson, Berwick, Pratt and Partners, envisages expansion and renovations worth $14.3 million.

That estimate is about half a million dollars less than the cost predicted by consultant Harvey Agnew in the massive survey of the region's hospital needs his firm completed two years ago.

CARRY SHARE

If the plan is completed, it would bring Jubilee to the point Agnew recommended if it is to carry its share of the hospital load predicted for 1986.

Jubilee has 521 acute care beds. The master plan would bring it to 660. Because some of the old beds would disappear with the changes, there would actually be 177 new beds. The net gain would be 139 beds.

But the bulk of spending would go to update and expand facilities for ambulatory care, out-patient care, diagnostic services and day-care surgery.

The master plan would have Jubilee execute a slow-motion about-turn over the years. With the addition of a large north block, the main entrances would shift from the south to north side of the complex.

COURTYARD

The five-storey north block would be separated from the existing hospital by a courtyard. The block would replace and consolidate service facilities. It won't have a basement level because the cost of blasting it from rock would be prohibitive.

The main floor would house the emergency and admitting departments, outpatient surgery, gift shop, main lobby, some diagnostic facilities, chapel, doctors' lounge and a number of other services.

Second floor of the new block would have the central supply department and design is such that 60 per cent of the hospital's beds could be reached without use of elevators. Administration, dietary, cafeteria, education facilities and library would also be on this floor.

The plan proposes development here in two stages so the hospital operation can be maintained while construction is under way.

Accommodation for 90 pediatric patients and 27 adults or adolescents will be provided on the fourth floor. On the fifth floor there would be a new maternity nursing unit of 60 beds, new-born nurseries with 70 bassinets and a new obstetrical suite.

The hospital's present operating rooms are adequate to service all the new beds.

All buildings, new and old, would be linked by a central service corridor or "spine" running along the south side of the new north block. It ties all points to the central supply department and would enable every building in the complex to be reached under cover.

The master plan points out that development should be to the north on the property because the buildings in the way there date from 1890 to 1911. Some have been condemned but are still is use. All usable buildings are to be retained.

MORE PARKING

The parking lot to the south of the hospital would be retained but a larger parking lot would be added to the north.

The plan has been under study by the provincial government and a technical committee of the regional hospital board.

Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director, warns that much more remains to be done before the public sees any direct action as a result of the architects' report.

"This is not a green light to proceed with a master plan. The report is just a total concept of what Jubilee should be moving towards."

GUIDELINE

Among them would be a referendum. Ratepayers throughout the Capital region would be taxed for 40 per cent of the building funds and they must approve the referndum by a 60 per cent margin. The provincial government contributes the other 60 per cent on capital hospital costs.

Pickles says he is anxious the public not be misled into thinking the master plan for Jubilee is a cut-and-dried affair.

"It isn't. It's a plan which provides us with guidelines for the development of Jubilee on a long-term basis. And it should be noted that the cost figures are based on present-day construction costs, not on costs that might face us five or 10 years from now."

GALLUP POLL

Liberals Retain Commanding Lead

By the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion
(World Copyright Reserved)

The shot-in-the-arm which the national Liberal party got from the provincial party's win in Quebec last spring is still showing effect.

The seven percentage point gain shown for Trudeau's party in Gallup's June political report holds firm in the latest coast-to-coast study, as party loyalties of Canada's electorate have changed hardly at all between spring and midsummer.

"IF A FEDERAL ELECTION WERE HELD TODAY WHICH PARTY DO YOU THINK YOU WOULD FAVOR?"

The trend, since February last, compared with the June, 1968 election:

	Lib.	PC	NDP	Soc. Cred. and Others
CIPO pre-election report
June, 1968	47%	29%	18%	6%
Election June 25, 1968	46	32	16	6
February, 1970	43	27	19	11
April	40	28	22	10
June	47	26	20	7
TODAY	47	27	19	7

Conservatives do somewhat better in Western Canada than elsewhere in Canada, and show comparative strength there.

All the percentages used in the above table are based on those eligible voters who had an opinion on the question asked. Some 31 per cent of the sample either didn't have a political choice, or declined to let Gallup opinion reporters know what it was. Since the 1968 election, the percentage of undecided voters has ranged from a high of 38 per cent to a low of 27 in the institute's studies.

New Rules in Force

A SPEAKER AT THE HERITage Tomorrow conference of Canadian scientists, engineers and technologists in Halifax this week struck a pertinent note when he warned the gathering that the real accent on the environmental problem today is social rather than scientific. People have come to realize that the "environment" is not something separate from them and their lives; it is the frame and background in which their lives must be spent, and their well-being depends on the state of their surroundings.

Those surroundings may be the beach at their door, the meadow on the hillside, the streets of their city or the water reservoir a hundred miles away. It may be the factory or the mill nearby, it may be the forest cover of a million square miles which determines the climate and the content of the atmosphere.

The big point of today's concern for the environment is that it is not merely a matter of discussion for scientists or engineers but the subject of conversation and action by the housewife and the man in the street. It took many years for this situation to arise. Industrial pollution, public litter, ruination of rivers, creeks and lakes, destruction of whole countrysides with no regard for the secondary effects — these were the day-to-day facts of existence for mankind long before the Industrial Revolution. They increased with the increase in population.

And almost overnight as accumulated poisons began to kill or injure people, as outdoor places became recognizably befouled, as danger signs went up on once-favorite swimming beaches and fishing pools, and even the air of cities and the food in stores were found to have contamination — people came to realize that they were faced with a critical situation that would rapidly worsen unless something was done about it.

Much of what could be done lay in the hands of individuals — they could stop littering public places, burning garbage, maintaining faulty septic tank systems. But larger sectors of the problem lay in the domain of industry and commerce, and the people's pressure had to be exerted through their power as consumers or through the enforced actions of their governments.

Now the concept is firmly grasped, and the cause of conservation and preservation is gaining momentum. But there is much to be done. This cannot be a fad or a thing of temporary fashion; we must face conservation and anti-pollution as permanent requirements for mankind; there can be no let-up so long as the population increases and new areas of our environment show signs of deterioration and decay.

There remain, too, the larger considerations of major alterations in the globe's atmosphere, its temperature, its ability to support life as we know it. Suddenly, the age-old frontier is gone, the lands over the hills or beyond the sea are largely occupied. There is no new place to go when we have used up where we are. A whole new situation faces the human race, and nature's stern ultimatum is "learn or die."

Confusion Over Cambodia

IN SLIGHTLY LESS THAN FOUR months the Nixon administration has almost completely reversed itself on its public pronouncements concerning Cambodia. When President Nixon addressed the American people on April 30, 1970, he said, "The aid we will provide will be limited to the purpose of enabling Cambodia to defend its neutrality — not for the purpose of making it an active belligerent on one side or the other . . . We shall avoid a wider war."

But on August 23, 1970, enroute to Vietnam, Vice-President Spiro Agnew said, "We are going to do everything we can to help the Lon Nol government" in Cambodia because, "the whole matter of Cambodia is related to the security of our troops in Vietnam." The vice-president's remarks are just the latest chapter in a confusing round of conflicting statements that have issued from the Nixon cabinet during the last seven months.

Such pronouncements drain the so-called "Nixon doctrine" — which described the Far Eastern theatre as "Asian initiatives in an Asian framework," — of credibility. But deeds speak more loudly than words. And last Monday the United States State Department announced a Cambodian aid program of "up to $40 millions" in small arms, ammunition, communications equipment, spare parts, training and possibly aircraft. It has been conceded that military aid may rise higher.

The U.S. mission in Phnom Penh has climbed from 11 to 50 persons in recent months and U.S. combat planes are flying an estimated 80 missions over Cambodia each day. In addition a multi-million dollar economic aid plan for Cambodia is in the planning stages.

All these United States initiatives appear to be a long way from "Asian initiatives in an Asian framework." Before the allied military incursion into Cambodia the country was relatively peaceful although Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops occupied isolated sections. Now Cambodians are fighting each other. Newsmen report that Cambodians are shooting at South Vietnamese allies as often as they fire on Communists. Perhaps the upsurge in Cambodian military activity is coincidental with the United States invasion. But one thing is plain amid all the confusing talk emanating from Washington: the war has widened and it may be escalating in Cambodia.

A Job Well Done

MOST OLD SALTS WHO SAW the Queen of Victoria after a Soviet freighter almost sliced the ferry in half shook their heads in disbelief and prophesied that the ship would need several months in drydock to repair the gaping hole amidships. But quick action by the provincial government and round-the-clock shifts at Burrard Dry Dock Ltd. will have the Queen plying the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen run by this Saturday, only 27 days after the tragic accident in Active Pass.

The extended Queen, capable of carrying 192 cars, was sorely missed at the height of the tourist season, necessitating long waits for some travellers at peak hours. That the ferry will be back in service before the Labor Day weekend is a credit to the government and the workmen.

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

Hey, Hey, Folks, Getcher Subsidies Here

THE agreement between the federal government and Control Data Corporation appears at first glance to contrast rather oddly with the government's professed concern about foreign ownership. What is the external affairs committee, with its 51 per cent Canadian dream, to make of this latest development? While some ministers spirit-wrestle in committee, other ministers — notably Jean-Luc Pepin and Jean Marchand — clutch at U.S. capital allied with technology and calculate the employment benefits expected of it in Toronto and Quebec City.

Western

It is perhaps the more remarkable that the case of hospitality to outside enterprise is supported by what used to be the standard arguments of economic nationalism. Mr. Pepin points to our trade imbalance in computer products and warns that, unless we develop industrial capacity, this may assume serious dimensions. This, it may be recalled, was one of the principal justifications of the automobile agreement.

Why do we require a balance category by category when, at last report, we had an over-all merchandise surplus of record size? Ought we to be importing wheat since, in this category, there is an obvious imbalance of the reverse type?

Or again: "Our examination of the industry's situation . . . showed that while Canada was rapidly becoming one of the world's best customers for computing systems and software, it was not gaining a commensurate share of the world market for computer products and services." Why is this an alarming situation? Many advanced industrial nations buy ships from foreigners although they certainly do not have a "commensurate share of the world market" for ships.

The shares argument sounds very much like the percentage story customarily recounted in Ottawa by representatives of the textile, electronics and other protected industries. Even when their sales go up, they suffer.

Nightmares about projections suggesting that their share of the Canadian market (to which they apparently believe they have some god-given right) is on the decline.

What may interest the taxpayer in the Control Data case is that he is expected by his government to pay more than 40 per cent of the cost of establishing this firm in Toronto and Quebec City. This is an outright gift worth upwards of $23 million. Is the government buying a 40 per cent interest in the corporation? Not at all. It is playing the kindly Santa Claus. Naturally the government hopes to obtain a yield in taxation from a profitable enterprise. But the company will be taxed at the same rate as other companies which pay their own way.

Computers Imported

No doubt the computer business is important technologically. No doubt it is good to have industrial development and research in Canada and to develop indigenous Canadian skills. There is always something special about any enterprise on which the department of industry turns a kindly eye.

But how can it be shown that all this generosity was really necessary? It is a fact, agreeable to the government, that the Control Data Corporation has graciously consented to come to Canada and to establish its facilities where the government wishes them to go. But is there not a fair chance that, as a multi-national company, it might not have had an interest in Canada comparable to that of other multi-national concerns, even if there had been no huge subsidy from the taxpayers?

Some of the background is known and suggestive. Control Data entered this country through an agency in 1963. Two years later it established Control Data Canada Ltd., which took over the agency as a subsidiary. Later it made other acquisitions. Such take-overs (to use a term in ill repute) surely indicate an interest in Canada presumably not unrelated to a perfectly legitimate quest for profit.

Operates Around World

According to Mr. Beaugonin, vice-president of international operations, "Control Data operates in 27 countries around the world." Evidently, therefore, it is a company of wide perspectives and not one which would willingly overlook the opportunities in Canada; a nation ranking rather high in the industrial scale.

Any taxpayer will believe that it comes the more willingly because of the $23 million welcome mat. But if the long-term opportunities are so favorable, would it not have come anyway from sober profit considerations?

It may be, however, that Canada is attractive for other reasons. Governments in Canada tend to stand by industries that fall on hard times. Mr. Pepin says: "The most difficult task, that of meeting competition in this most competitive of industries, is still ahead." Indeed, it is. Any company will weigh the risks, and it may be reassuring to know that in the business of granting subsidies our government over the years has shown an ingenuity and fortitude that must inspire business respect.

Computers have many uses. One of these days a minister may employ one to find out how many subsidies the government is paying to how many groups in our subsidy society and for what reasons (probably long forgotten in some cases) they were paid in the first place.

Letters to the Editor

Wanton Destruction

Last week a beautiful old oak tree was brutally, and so unnecessarily, mutilated. It is realized that progress is designed for the good of the majority and, with this in mind, the writer and the majority of the residents affected in the Royal Oak area by the highway improvements, sacrificed property without protest and endured the noise and dust and other inconveniences pursuant to construction without complaint.

Ruthless and unnecessary mutilation, however, is a horse of another color and should be publicized in the hope that those concerned may be persuaded to consider local residents in future planning.

The oak tree so arbitrarily and ruthlessly hacked, lies on the west side of the new by-pass road which runs parallel to Viewmont Avenue. It is located on private property.

B.C. Hydro, in their wisdom, placed their poles on this side of the road when, with a little foresight — no real intelligence required — it could so easily have been seen that by placing their poles on the east side no trees would have intervened to obstruct their wires. Why, then, not choose the obvious location, thereby not only helping to preserve what little beauty remains in this area but also saving the cost involved to mutilate this and other trees?

Considering the apparent arrogance and dictatorial attitude of those in the top echelon of the all-powerful B.C. Hydro, it can only be assumed that some of this attitude towards environment and lack of consideration towards local residents has filtered down through the rank and file of Hydro employees. I can think of no other reason why an employee would so desecrate such a noble tree unless, of course, they choose some one who has neither an eye for beauty nor training in pruning.

Surely it is time something was done to curtail such wanton spoliage of nature when it is not necessary in the name of progress. — Irate resident.

Tarnished Image

When may we expect Mr. P.M. (Playman) Trudeau and his "trained seals" to do something about the postal strike?

Why not lay off Mr. Kierans for a start? And you might also tell the posties (in French, so that the union leaders get the picture) that their image has gone down the drain for all time, because of their stupid and heartless tactics. — E. W. Abraham, 1125 Faithful Street, Victoria, B.C.

Children's Teeth

In your issue of August 21 in the letters column, H. H. Bridge states he thinks fluorides should not be put into drinking water, and I can assure him, from the viewpoint of a family doctor's experience with children, that good wholesome food cooked with pure nourishing sugar makes a child active and such a child develops a healthy body and strong teeth which are not a prey to cavity formation which comes from defective nutrition leaving weak tooth foundations.

Sugars in food make calcium and phosphorus form the strongest teeth possible. — William A. Costain, M.B., M.D., Rtd., Charter House, 1103.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From the Times of August 26, 1910:

Mayor Morley dropped a hint at last evening's council meeting that he considers the present system of civic government a failure and that if any improvement is to be secured there will have to be a board of control or some such body to take the place of the present plan. "If we had such a system it would be possible to let contracts for all the supplies we need at the beginning of the year, instead of having the matter drag on for months as so often is the case," the mayor said.

Doctors' Incomes

It is with a sense of futility and sadness that I must feel compelled, in this democratic society, to interpret the significance of the recently published incomes of British Columbia doctors. I will also speculate why I think the government was so motivated to produce these figures for public knowledge, and in so doing, by their obvious invasion of privacy, alienated the entire medical profession.

The general reaction of the public to these figures must be one of astonishment and even anger. It has to be realized that these figures are of gross income and not net income and in order to illustrate this difference I will publish my personal statement of income and expenditures.

Gross income reported in newspaper	$25,983.00
Gross income year ending September 30, 1969	$25,747.87
Expenses:	$12,838.38
Net Income	$12,909.49

My average work week is 55 hours and based on a 49 week year my hourly wage rate is approximately $4.75. My gross income is comparatively low in the published figures and therefore one may say that I do not represent the average doctor. Each physician is an individual with his own goals and aspirations; if some wish to work longer hours — see more patients — employ assistants — that is their prerogative. That's the way of life in a democratic society. What often is too easily forgotten is that most doctors are highly skilled and trained individuals. It requires at least eight years of post graduate high school training to qualify as a general practioner and 12 years to become a specialist.

These previous statements do not excuse those physicians who may be abusing medicare by over-utilization — a form of greed which is by no means peculiar to the medical profession. The B.C. Medical Association has a committee presently working which was formed to investigate those physicians whose incomes are unreasonable. This committee has already informed the profession that they are liable to investigation at any time, and if any individual physician is unable to justify his billing practices, disciplinary action will be taken.

I now come to the question on everyone's mind: Why did the government publish these figures? This year the Medical Association will be negotiating for specific fee increases. In previous years the guideline for negotiation has been the cost of living index (if the index goes up or down a specific percentage, then so do doctor's fees). This year I feel the government is going to renege on their previous policy and not grant any fee increases despite the fact that in the past two years there has been a considerable rise in the cost of living. By publishing doctors' incomes the government will gain public sympathy against any further fee increases. One could speculate further and state that the government is even considering placing the doctors on a straight salary basis — or in other words a completely socialized medicare. This would mean disaster to the standard of medicine now enjoyed by the people of B.C.

The objective of the government is to economize. In making a refusal to increase any fees certain portions of the medical fee schedule would continue to be ludicrously low. For example these are some specific fees which are presently in use:

House call (between 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.)	$8.10
House call (between 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 a.m.)	$10.80
Circumcision (infant)	$9.00
Confinement (pregnancy) — including prenatal care, vaginal delivery, post natal care and all less serious complications	$108.00
Telephone advice	no fee

These above fees affect primarily general practitioners. I am certain that specialists could also point out certain inequalities in their fee schedules. It may be that some fee items should be reduced, and now is the time to sit down and objectively determine a fair fee schedule for all types of doctors and all forms of procedures.

If the government truly wishes to economize they could also level their guns at the public. Some people rarely use their medical plan; the majority use it intelligently; a minority are persistent visitors to the doctor's office. This last group often have the attitude of "it's free and available — why shouldn't I get my share." With the present system of computer-based tabulation it would be a relatively simple manoeuvre to isolate the public into three groups: the under-utilizers, the average, and the over-utilizers. These groups could be determined every year and subsequently assessed three different premium rates, according to utilization. In those cases who require extraordinary care (the aged, the unlucky, the destitute) special compensation could be made.

British Columbia has basically a good standard of health care — let it not be jeopardized by any further government goofs. — A. W. Emery, M.D., Park Road, Richmond, B.C.

Junior Achievement

The question of why some teen-agers find summer employment while others roam the streets, is a mystery to most parents.

Perhaps the following true story may give part of the answer. A 16-year-old Grade 11 student at Victoria Senior Secondary School wanted a job. He listed potential employers and made his calls, one by one. Three gave him applications to complete. His total business experience was one year in Junior Achievement, completed in May.

On arriving home on his first day of job-hunting, two employers had phoned and left their numbers. By noon the next day he was working.

Any student, from Grade 10 to 12, who wants to work next summer, should enquire through their school how they can take advantage of the free Junior Achievement program starting in September. — Wm. G. Henderson.

Middle East: Logic Succumbs to Fervor

The following is excerpted from a speech delivered in the U.S. Senate Monday by the Arkansas Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

By J. W. FULBRIGHT

The myths that shape events in the Middle East are the oldest myths of all. Some derive from religion.

The contested land is a "holy" land; more than a place for raising crops and building cities, it is "sacred soil" for three great religions. Jerusalem contains both the Wall of the Temple, which is sacred to Jews, and the Dome of the Rock, which is sacred to Moslems. Neither can hold exclusive title to the city without also owning the other faith's shrine.

Now, as in the days of the Crusades, religion exacerbates the issue because, now as then, the behavior of the belligerents is more affected by the zeal with which they hold their beliefs than by the humane ethics taught by their respective religions. Now, as in the past, it is hard to strike a bargain over sacred soil.

Then there are the myths of mutual victimization. Perhaps I should say the half-myths, because both Jews and Arabs have victimized each other, though surely not with the deliberate and malign intent that each attributes to the other.

The Jews are obsessed with the fear of a repetition of the Nazi holocaust, and the Arabs do nothing to allay this fear with extravagant talk about "holy wars" and about throwing the Jews into the sea. These threats have understandably alarmed the Israelis in much the same way that Khrushchev's talk of "burying" us agitated Americans a decade ago.

President Nasser and King Hussein have both, in effect, repudiated such draconian threats, but the Israelis seem not to have noticed the disavowals. As survivors of genocide, they can hardly be expected to distinguish with perfect clarity between Nazi crimes and Arab rhetoric. All they know is that they came to Palestine in peace, settlers in an underpopulated land, but have been allowed no peace; they have fought three wars they never wished to fight and still their enemies remain implacable, refusing even to talk to them, contesting—until recently—their right to survive as a state.

Nontheless, the Arab-Nazi analogy is a faulty one; it clouds the distinction between the myth and reality of Arab intent—whatever these may be.

The Arabs, for their part, perceive Zionism as a new form of Western imperialism. Having lived on the land of Palestine for thousands of years, they can have little sympathy for the historic sentiments of the Jewish diaspora. It is, I should think, impossible for them to put themselves in the place of the Jews, whose cultural attachment to their ancient homeland sustained them through centuries of dispersal and persecution.

The Arabs are on a different wave length. While the Jews prayed for Palestine — "next year in Jerusalem," they said in their prayer — the Arabs inhabited the land. They could not see the Jews as the Jews saw themselves: as refugees from genocide seeking safe haven. What did this have to do with the Arabs? They had done the Jews no harm and could see no reason why they should compensate the Jews for the crimes of Europeans.

In fact, to Arab eyes, the Jews were Europeans, armed with European skills and technology, coming on the heels of other Europeans to drive them from their homes and steal away their lands.

In its way, Zionism has seemed to the Arabs even more threatening than the old European imperialism. The British and French after all were only establishing colonies and, bad as that was, colonies come and go. But the Jews were establsihing a homeland, and homelands do not come and go.

On the contrary, once established, they are likely to expand. The Jewish state actively encourages immigration from all over the world, creating for Arabs the specter of a Jewish drive for "Lebensraum" which could only mean the annexation of even more Arab lands. Some elements within Israel and the world Zionist movement openly proclaim the need of a policy of expansion, which must give rise to a fear among Arabs not unlike that felt by the Jews when the Arabs talk of throwing them into the sea.

To the Arabs, in short, Zionism is not a program of deliverance or a persecuted race but a foreign conquest bolstered by strong ties between the conquering people and the most powerful governments of the west.

The Israelis, for their part, have hardly profited from their military successes. They have gained territory and they have established their military superiority, but they have failed to gain what they most want: security.

In 1967, they felt desperately insecure along the Gaza Strip frontier; today, they feel desperately insecure along the Suez Canal, so much so that they and their friends abroad seem almost to have forgotten that it is not their own but Egyptian territory that they are defending so tenaciously.

One begins to understand the spheres-of-influence psychology, which causes a nation to believe that it can have no security at all until it has robbed its neighbors of all semblance of security.

Surrounded by hostile neighbors, holding down occupied lands inhabited by a million Arabs, plagued by Fedayeen attacks and oppressed by the costs of armaments, Israel is a desperately insecure nation. That is clear, but it is anything but clear that her present policy of relying on military superiority is ever going to alter the situation.

If the Suez frontier does not provide security, what boundary would? And even if the United States provides all the Phantom jets the Israelis want and the electronic jamming gear which may neutralize the SAM-2 and SAM-3 missiles, it is unlikely that Israel will gain more than a respite; the Russians will soon enough come up with something else.

After the First World War, the French tried to gain security in somewhat the same way that Israel seeks it today. They too were confronted with a potentially powerful but momentarily weakened antagonist and they tried to perpetuate that situation by occupying the German Rhineland, temporarily detaching the Saar and compelling Germany to pay reparations.

The effort to make France secure by keeping Germany weak was a failure. Now, 25 years after the Second World War, France has nothing to fear from Germany although Germany is strong and in possession of all of the western territories France once wished to detach. France is secure now not because Germany has lost the power to threaten her but because she has lost the wish to do so.

The analogy is imperfect and simplified, but it holds. Israel will be secure when and if the Arabs lose the wish to threaten her. Eliminating that wish should be an object worth pursuing from Israel's point of view.

As victors, the Israelis are in a position to be magnanimous without being suspected of "weakness"—which is something nations worry about whenever they are thinking about behaving sensibly. But thus far they have shown little inclination to trade their conquests for peace.

Instead, they cling to the advantages won by their military victory of 1967, which is a rapidly wasting asset. One insecure frontier has been traded for another and all that the future seems to hold is continuing conflict, as threatening to the outside world as it is to the Arabs and Israelis.

★ ★ ★

Because the conflict is a threat to the outside world, it cannot be left solely to the humors of the belligerents. I have never fully understood why some of our statesmen feel that it would be a heinous crime for external parties to "impose" a solution. Under the U.N. Charter, the Security Council has full authority—possibly even the obligation—to impose a settlement upon warring parties who fail to make peace on their own. The very premise of the charter is that warring nations can no longer be permitted immunity from a world police power.

As far as the United States is concerned, it is worth recalling now and then that the U.S. Charter is a valid and binding obligation upon us, ratified as a treaty with the advice and consent of the Senate. As to the Arabs and Israelis, they too are signatories to the charter, and no one can say they have been denied a fair opportunity to settle their differences peacefully and on their own.

They might now be reminded or their commitment under Article 25 of the charter, which states that "the members of the United Nations agree to accept and carry out the decisions of the Security Council in accordance with the present charter."

I think it would be a fine thing — a useful step forward for civilization — if, in the absence of a voluntary settlement by the parties, the United Nations were to "impose" a peaceful settlement in the Middle East. It would be an equally fine thing if the United Nations could "impose" a settlement in Southeast Asia.

As if the Arab-Israeli problem were not enough, the great powers have made their own special contribution on the mythology of the Middle East by infusing the crisis with the hocus-pocus of geopolitics. The Middle East, in geopolitical terms, is something far more abstract than an oil-rich desert contested by feuding Semitic peoples.

Beyond that, it is the "Gateway to the East," the "Hinge of NATO" and the crucial cockpit of the historic Russian drive toward warm water. By sending planes and missiles to Egypt, the Russians are not merely bolstering a shaky client; to the X-ray eye of the geopolitician, they are embarked upon a drive to convert the Mediterranean into a "Soviet Lake."

The "vital interests" of the great powers are, in fact, involved in the Middle East — primarily because those powers have chosen to become involved. The ultimate danger is that the Arab-Israeli conflict could draw the superpowers and the world into a nuclear war — and that certainly is a matter of "vital interest" — but the danger is not inherent in the local situation, nor is it predestined by fate. It has come about because the great powers have surrendered much of their own freedom of action to the bellicose whims of their respective clients.

There is of course one way — in case anyone still cares — in which the great powers are obligated to intervene: as members of the United Nations Security Council charged by the charter with the responsibility to "decide what measures shall be taken" in response to a "threat to the peace, breach of the peace or act of aggression." Instead, the Soviet Union and the United States have played the role of co-belligerents to their respective clients, arming and financing them, committing their own prestige to the issue and, in so doing, converting a local conflict into a potential world conflict.

All that can be said in mitigation is that both great powers have shown a certain prudence by holding back at times on the arms supplied to the warring parties.

Finally, there is the myth of militarism, and that affects all of the parties. Each clings to the notion that another round may settle things — although three wars have settled nothing — or that some new weapons system will stabilize the balance of power — as if either side would accept the other's notion of what it takes to establish a proper balance.

Since the June war of 1967, the Egyptians have acquired vast arsenals of Soviet weapons, including air support and advanced ground-to-air missiles, and they have launched a "war of attrition." What has it gotten them? The Israelis have been compelled to stop their deep penetration air raids, but they still hold the Sinai; until the cease-fire, they were bombing Egyptina installations on the west bank of the canal round the clock and they have every prospect of acquiring additional Phantom and Skyhawk jets from the United States so as to re-establish their version of the balance of power.

Nor has any of this new Egyptian hardware wrung any political concessions from the Israelis. Prime Minister Meir explicitly rejects the borders of 1967 and, instead of offering concessions, Foreign Minister Eban contributes pithy ironies about recognizing the right of the United Arab Republic to exist.

THREE POINT MOTORS

GOVERNMENT AT HILLSIDE

NOW HAS DATSUN

PRIVACY COMES FIRST

Trudeau, the Five-Day PM

By ANTHONY WESTELL

Pierre Trudeau has been remarkably successful in taming the man-killing job of prime minister.

His main fears when he was considering whether to run for the office was that he would be worked beyond his capacity — literally, to distraction — and denied a reasonable private life.

The doubts were well founded on the experiences of previous prime ministers in modern times, as the pace of government has speeded up. Both John Diefenbaker and Lester Pearson were thoroughly wearied by the demands of office and unable to give of their best judgment, a significant factor in the series of crises which overtook their last months in power.

But Trudeau organizes his time so well that he works on the average a five-day week, with weekends off, and manages frequent short holidays, often combining the private pleasures of canoeing or skiing with public business.

And he has persuaded, or bullied, the press to keep well clear of his private life.

Even newsmen who argue that they have a right, as representatives of the public, to be kept informed of the prime minister's movements and private engagements, as the Washington press corps keeps tabs on the president, no longer bother to press their case. They have been tongue-lashed in the past for prying, arousing Trudeau's temper as nothing else has done, and flatly denied information so often that it seems pointless to persist.

★ ★ ★

At the close of his northwestern tour last week, Trudeau retired to a ranch in the Cariboo country of British Columbia.

Whose ranch and where? The aides declined to tell newsmen who had been reporting the trip up to that point, insisting that it was a private occasion.

The newsmen for the most part accepted the explanation and trailed back to Ottawa, leaving the prime minister to the enjoyment of his privacy.

Few if any newsmen in Ottawa now think it worth the effort or the unpopularity to try to penetrate the screen around the prime minister.

Behind this screen, he is able to take frequent relaxed weekends at his official summer home on Harrington Lake, where he entertains friends quite unknown to the press and the public.

On other weekends, he goes to Montreal to see his mother, or to a family summer place in the Laurentians with few people outside the immediate entourage even aware that he has been away from the capital.

The respect for Trudeau's privacy extends beyond the press to the general public. Crowds of tourists still stand around for hours on Parliament Hill waiting for a glimpse of the glamorous great man as he emerges from his office. But when he appears in public on what are obviously private occasions, people treat him that way.

When he wants to go to the movies, he lines up for tickets at the box office, and after the show he may go to a popular restaurant for a snack. He is immediately recognized, of course, and a few people usually say "hello," but he is left pretty much to himself and his companion.

On the other occasions, informality has backfired. When Trudeau showed up wearing a light jacket and an Ascot at the dinner-dance given by the governor-general for Prince Charles recently, there was a good deal of private tut-tutting and even some public comment to suggest that the PM had deliberately put down the Queen's representative.

In fact, it seems to have been a case of fouled up staff work. One of Trudeau's aides forgot to tell him that the original invitations specifying informal dress had been changed to black tie, severely embarrassing the PM, who made his displeasure known to the staff the next day.

But barring such accidents, it is clear that Trudeau is firmly in control of his own life, imposing his style on the prime ministership rather than being made a slave to the office.

The Deceleration Warning Unit.
The least it can do is save your car.
The most it can do is save your life.

The rear end of your car is one of the spots most vulnerable to accidents. As a careful driver you can look out for the car in front of you, but how can you protect yourself from the man in the rear?

The new Deceleration Warning Unit by Instamatic Signals gives you the protection you need. With this unit installed, taking your foot off the gas to slow down causes two amber lights on the rear of your car to flash for 4 seconds. This gives the driver behind the advance notice he needs to slow down safely.

Installing this unit on your car might save you hundreds of dollars in repair bills. It might save you or someone in your family a painful whiplash injury. It could even save a life. Installation instructions are enclosed. Do the job yourself, or have a service shop do it. It could easily be the best investment you have ever made in your car.

$24.95 plus installation and lamps. At service stations, automotive outlets and department stores. Approved for use by the British Columbia Motor Vehicle Branch.

Peru Survivors Of Earthquake Now in Houses

By SIMON MILLER

LIMA, Peru (Reuters) — Welfare workers have won the race to house hundreds of thousands of survivors of Peru's tragic May 31 earthquake before the September rainy season begins.

Government spokesmen say all the survivors in northern Peru areas devastated by the tremor have been housed in emergency shelters.

The shelters add an incongruous splash of bright color to the scene of wrecked stone and adobe brick houses, left behind by the quake which wiped out 46 towns and villages and damaged 70 per cent of another 160 communities.

The program was drawn up by the National Emergency Committee and its first priority was to distribute temporary housing, food, clothes and bedding.

As the survivors settle down in their new homes, they begin regular work in the ruined towns, clearing rubble and occasionally disinterring yet another corpse.

The devastated area is enormous, stretching from the coastal port of Chimbote to the Huaylas Valley in the interior, where most of the deaths and the damage occurred.

HITS WIDE AREA

The area affected was 83,558 square miles, equivalent to Belgium, Holland and half of Denmark, and an estimated 800,000 to one million persons were left homeless.

The military government of President Juan Velasco Alvarado adopted two plans, one a short-term scheme involving the immediate housing of the survivors, and the second a long-term program to rebuild the towns and villages.

The rainy season set a time limit of Sept. 1 on the first plan, which the government said was accomplished with the help of aircraft, field hospitals and personnel, food, and other aid materials, including money, from countries around the world.

Fully-equipped field hospitals from Chile, France, Brazil, Russia, West Germany and Cuba are still at work in various parts of the Huaylas Valley.

Under the reconstruction program, foreign technicians and specialists are working on plans for rebuilding, based on methods of construction used in other earthquake-prone areas of the world.

Engineers, geologists, and seismologists are participating in the program, which will cost an estimated $517 million over a period of two years.

MANY HELPING OUT

Eight regional planning centres, each housed in tents, are organizing the reconstruction of eight cities in the area—Chimbote, Casma, Huarmey, Huara, Caraz, Carhuaz, Yungay and Recuay. Some will be rebuilt at new sites away from natural dangers such as landslide areas or below mountain lakes.

This is the case of Yungay, until the earthquake a picturesque tourist city of approximately 30,000. Today a hard-packed layer of mud and rock entombs 20,000 of its citizens, killed by the avalanche when a lake above it overflowed.

The money to support the reconstruction will come from the Peruvian government and various other sources. Individual countries have given more than $1 million, the Inter-American Development Bank will lend Peru $35 million and the U.S. Agency for International Development another $7.4 million.

The amount donated in material aid amounts to millions of dollars.

But the Indians of the Peruvian valleys, who spend their lives at altitudes of more than 10,000 feet, tend to look upon outsiders and government officials as foreigners and treat them with distrust, preferring to go about their own business as they have done for centuries.

Cosby Alters Course

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Negro comedian Bill Cosby, who has said at times he would like to quit show business and teach school, has applied and been accepted as a student at the University of Massachusetts. Cosby, whose current television show cast him as a high school gym teacher, was accepted as a graduate student in the School of Education, a spokesman said.

Police Court

John Wayne Pitchko, 32, no fixed address, was sentenced by Judge William Ostler Tuesday to three years in the penitentiary for uttering forged documents worth a total of $2,337.

Pitchko, pleaded guilty to an 11-count charge on Monday and to four similar charges last week. Offences were committed in Victoria and Saanich.

"Surely you realize that you are on the brink of being an habitual criminal?" Judge William Ostler asked him.

"Yes, your honor, but I don't know which way to turn," replied Pitchko.

"There's one way not to turn and that's to crime," said the judge.

Pitchko's record includes six prison or jail terms since 1966 in B.C. and Ontario, mostly for false pretences.

Pitchko admitted to police that he was wanted by Ontario police. He was serving a three-year term in Toronto when he got a three-day pass in March to look for his wife and did not return after he found her.

He will have to return to face charges in Ontario after he completes his sentence here.

Student to Spend Year With Mexico Family

DAVID WEST

Esquimalt Secondary student, David West, 16, will study Spanish the painless way next year.

David, a resident of 1168 Highrock Place, flies to Mexico Sept. 6 to spend a year studying at a Spanish-speaking school in Jalapa, the capital of the Mexican state of Veracruz.

He is one of six Victoria Grade 11 students chosen by the Rotary Club of Victoria to participate in its annual student exchange program.

David is an old hand at the student exchange routine. On July 28 he returned from a 10-day exchange visit to Montagny Quebec, with the Young Voyageurs program.

He has studied Spanish for two years and while in Jalapa will be living with a Spanish-speaking family and speaking exclusively Spanish. That includes talking about Canada before the Jalapa Rotary Club.

"I'm going to have to puzzle about it," David admitted.

The students are selected on the basis of written essays and personal interviews before panels of Rotarians.

David has been active in volunteer work at the Victoria Boy's Club for some years, a fact he thinks may have influenced the judges in his favor.

What is he particularly looking forward to during his stay in Mexico?

"Just everything I guess. Learning a new language, meeting new people, getting to know a little bit about the country."

He will be entering first year at a college in Mexico but will probably have to take Grade 12 when he returns to Victoria, the only less-than-rosy part of the whole trip.

The exchange students are cautioned not to embarrass their hosts by commenting on some of the more unpleasant spectacles in the countries they visit, said David's mother, Mrs. James West.

"David was told that he must be prepared to see a lot of poverty down in Mexico. But this is their way of life there. They don't pay much attention to it and he shouldn't either."

Cholera Stopped Soon—Scientist

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The outbreak of cholera in the southern Russian city of Asurakhan will be stamped out in the near future, a woman scientist said Monday in the Communist party newspaper Pravda.

Academician E. Ermolayeva also advised Pravada readers that fruit and vegetables from the cholera-hit city are not dangerous if properly washed because virus could not survive for more than two days on the surface of food.

Oriental Day Set At Fair

An Oriental Day will be one of several feature attractions at the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society fair at Saanichton over the Labor Day weekend.

The fair will be opened Saturday by Laurie Wallace, deputy provincial secretary.

The Lion Dance, a Chincese pantomine called the boatman scene and the Chinese art of self defence will be staged at the fair's bandshell Sunday afternoon.

Bessie and Jack Tang will be in charge of Oriental Day.

Other attractions will include Highland dancing with young dancers competing from the mainland and Vancouver Island on Saturday, a three-day horse show, and on Monday afternoon the Sing-Out-Victoria group, gymnasts, a costume animals parade and a pumpkin parade.

A wide variety of vegetables, fruits and flowers will be exhibited in the fair's main hall. Deadline for entries is Aug. 29.

In the livestock exhibition, a steer will be raffled. The winner will also win a deep freeze. Drawing will take place at 6 p.m. Monday.

Workers Continue Farm Strike

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — Lettuce spoiled in the fields and supermarket produce prices climbed today in the third day of a strike by thousands of laborers in the Salinas and Santa Maria valleys, the United States salad bowl.

Lettuce, normally requiring daily harvesting, will have to be plowed under if the strike continues another few days, a growers' spokesman said.

Wholesale lettuce prices at the Golden Gate Produce Terminal in San Francisco have nearly doubled—to $5 to $6 for a carton of 18 to 24 head.

With no negotiations in prospect, both sides are girding for a prolonged fight. The issue is a demand by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee that it be given contracts for the laborers who harvest crops in the valleys.

An estimated 10,000 workers are involved, but the long-range stake, the growers say, is some 55,000 California farm workers employed by more than 200 growers.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Late remnants of cloud cleared in the interior through the evening though a thunderstorm was reported in the Kamloops area at mid evening. The north coast region was still reporting good patches of cloud and visibilities were still restricted in the Skeena Valley due to smoke.

These areas continued generally sunny today under the slowly increasing influence of higher pressure and dried air along the coast. In the south coast the low cloud present much of Tuesday showed breaks overnight and was expected to clear out this afternoon, all regions will be sunny Thursday as the higher pressure area slowly builds with the interior temperatures showing some warming.

Tourist Lodge Returned

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario cabinet has decided to give back John Buck's tourist lodge in Haliburton, Ont.

The decision on Mr. Buck's odd case is contained in the latest issue of the Ontario Gazette.

Mr. Buck found out in April that his lodge on Lake Kashagawigamog had been dissolved as a business almost three years ago and its assets forfeited to the Crown.

He ran afoul of a law requiring all Ontario corporations to file annual returns with the government. The lodge was legally owned by Deer Lodge (Haliburton) Ltd. in which Mr. Buck and his wife were the only shareholders.

According to a petition sent to the cabinet, Mr. Buck said he had instructed his Toronto accountant to file his 1966 and 1967 tax returns in June 1967. But they were not filed until the following November.

In the meantime, the government had exercised its power under the Corporations Act to dissolve the company. The company could have been revived within a year, but for reasons unknown to Mr. Buck the application was never filed.

A heart attack in the 1968 season kept Mr. Buck out of business for that year and in the meantime, deadline for revival passed. He resumed business in 1969 assuming that the company's charter had been revived.

And it was not until last April when he tried to sell the lodge for $125,000 that lawyers advised him that the province had taken over the property.

The cabinet decided Mr. Buck had a "good moral claim" to the lodge and gave it back to him.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

Lots of people who take vitamins in the wintertime say that they think it isn't necessary to take vitamins in the summertime, when there is plenty of sunshine. The answer, my doctor says, is that you need to take vitamins all the year round.

In summer, you speed up your physical activity if you are normal and are taking advantage of the recreational advantages of warm weather. Because the summer months are hotter than the other months of the year, the two factors of heat and activity combine to create in your body an increased need for vitamins.

In the winter, you get less exposure to sunshine. You probably eat less fresh fruit and the cold weather demands that your body manufacture more energy. So you need vitamins both in January and in August.

BROTHERS KEEP VIGIL IN PARK NEARBY

Jury Deliberates on Panther Trial

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A Superior Court jury begins deliberations today in the trial of Lonnie McLucas, a Black Panther charged in the shooting death of a fellow party member 15 months ago.

Supporters of the 24-year-old Panther organizer kept a vigil at a park area across from the courthouse. They say it will last until McLucas is free.

McLucas is charged with kidnapping resulting in death, conspiracy to kidnap and to murder, and binding with intent to commit a crime. The body of the victim, Alex Rackley of New York City, was found in a swampy area about 20 miles from New Haven.

Lawyers for the prosecution and the defence wrapped up their arguments Tuesday, the 24th day of court sessions since the jury was chosen.

Outside the courthouse afterward, about 250 young demonstrators momentarily blocked the departure of the cruiser carrying McLucas back to jail.

McLucas has testified he did not know in advance that Rackley would be killed, but has admitted he fired a shot into the victim's apparently lifeless body after being ordered to do so.

Pleading for acquittal, defence lawyer Theodore I. Koskoff argued that McLucas has been charged with a crime that "came out of the sadistic, demented mind of George Sams."

Sams, 24, of Detroit, is a Panther who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the slaying.

State attorney Arnold Markle said McLucas learned Rackley was doomed when Sams told the victim he was suspected of informing on 21 fellow Panthers arrested several months earlier in connection with an alleged bombing plot in New York City.

Panther leaders were going to use Rackley as "a symbol" to "teach the other brothers, 'Don't get in our way'," Markle said.

McLucas is the first of eight Panthers charged in the May 21, 1969, slaying to come to trial.

Testimony by Sams and Warren Kimbro, who also pleaded guilty to second-degree murder after admitting he fired the first shot at Rackley, formed the nucleus of the state's case.

Sams testified he carried out the execution on orders from Panther leaders, including Bobby G. Seale, the national chairman. Seale was arrested in Augusut, 1969, and testified Friday in McLucas' behalf.

Sams was permitted to testify after a court-approved psychiatrist said his intelligence was just above the moron level.

Tenders Coming For New Crossing

VANCOUVER (CP)— Tenders for a new crossing of First Narrows, the entrance to Vancouver's harbor, will be called within several weeks, Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday nght.

"But we don't know whether it will be a bridge or a tunnel," he said. "They might call tenders for either or both because the costs won't be that far apart."

Estimated cost is between $100 and $150 million, including approaches.

The problem now is financial, Mr. Davis said. "The next big step is assessing costs by all the authorities involved to find out who pays for what and how."

A two - volume, 150,000 - word report containing recommendations and estimates done by the Swan Wooster-CBA engineering consortium is being studied by the federal government, which will pay most of the costs.

Mr. Davis said he preferred a tunnel for aesthetic reasons, as a bridge would have to cut a swath through Stanley Park, which already includes the three - lane roadway to Lions Gate bridge.

Growers' Wine

Net earnings of Growers' Wine Co. Ltd. in the first half are up 16 times what they were a year ago, while sales are up 16.5 per cent.

President Larry Anderson reports earnings of $304,000 compared with $19,000, or 8 cents a share against 1.1 cents for class A, or 24.4 cents vs. 1.1 cents including extraordinary items.

Sales were $2 million, up from $1.7 million a year ago. The extraordinary income amounted to $200,000 from the sale of fixed assets.

Anderson said his successor is H. Derek Haxell, former manager of marketing services.

Union

Union Acceptance Corp. Ltd. had net income of $487,000 in the six months ended June 30 compared with $365,000 a year earlier, based on operating income of $5.25 million and $4.88 million, respectively.

President G. F. Edgar said the cost of borrowing funds was higher due to more borrowings and more expensive short term rates. Otherwise, operating expenses dropped by $30,000.

Asarco

More than twice the number of common shares requested for an exchange offer were tendered to American Smelting and Refining Co., the New York firm reports.

Asarco asked for 2.089 million shares to be exchanged for 2.82 million common shares of General Cable Corp. plus cash, but received 6.2 million Asarco shares. They will be accepted on a pro rata basis.

In July Asarco sold 2.028 million shares of General Cable to British Insulated Callender's Cables Ltd. at $24 a share.

Esso Chemicals

Esso Chemicals Canada, a division of Imperial Oil Ltd., says it has suspended plans for a polypropylene plant at Sarnia, Ont., until conditions on the chemicals market improve.

The company announced in June, 1969, it would start construction this year and begin operations in 1971. A spokesman said because of the general slowdown in the Canadian economy no date has been set to begin construction but the project has not been cancelled.

New Court Proceedings By Cornfeld

GENEVA (CP-Reuters) — Bernard Cornfeld, former chairman of the giant Investors Overseas Services mutual funds group, said he will file a suit today saying the annual shareholders meeting of IOS in Toronto June 30 was invalid.

Cornfeld was removed from the IOS board at the Toronto meeting. He said today his suit will be filed in New Brunswick but did not say in what city and gave no further details.

He also said he has filed an injunction against a New Jersey company to prevent it from making a big loan to IOS.

The company is International Controls Corp. and reports have said the planned loan would be between $10 and $15 million.

WANTS TO NEGOTIATE

The former chairman, currently involved in a battle for control of the mutual funds group, said the IOS management is showing no concrete evidence of readiness to negotiate with him.

Cornfeld said he returned to Geneva Tuesday night especially for talks with the IOS chairman, Sir Eric Wyndham-White, but had not been able to see him.

Last week company employees passed a resolution calling on IOS management and Cornfeld to start serious negotiations to prevent a destructive proxy battle for control between the two parties.

If no settlement is reached this week, the company will be obliged to fix a date for the special meeting of shareholders called by Cornfeld at the beginning of this month.

PHYSICIST NEW CHIEF OF PENN CENTRAL CO.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Gaylord P. Harnwell, retiring next week after 17 years as head of the University of Pennsylvania, has been elected chairman, president and chief executive of the Penn Central Co., which owns the biggest railway system in the United States.

Directors meeting Tuesday named the 62-year-old atomic physicist, a Penn Central director since 1958, to succeed Paul A. Gorman, who had held the post only two months following the ousting of Stuart T. Saunders.

Paydirt Found In Pollutant

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the first companies to discover paydirt in pollutants is a Dayton, Ohio, firm that collects fly ash from big smoke stacks and converts it into a building material.

Dayton Fly Ash Co. started in business back in 1960, when environment was a household word only to sociologists and ecology was known only to ecologists. The firm was founded by a father-son team, John and Bart Thomas, who had hired out the year before to remove fly ash, a troublesome byproduct of finely pulverized coal burned by power companies, from the tall stacks of Dayton Power and Light Co. Tait station.

The Thomases had some experience in the sand and gravel business and decided to see if the fly ash they were removing and dumping had any value. After some research and much leg work, they determined that the fly ash was money going up in smoke because it made a good cement extender in ready-mix concrete and concrete blocks.

GOOD RETURN

The fly ash, which the power companies were paying $2 per ton to get rid of, reacts with lime in the concrete mix and forms calcium silicate to improve the final qualities of the mix. Thus fly ash delivered to concrete mix makers at $6 to $7 per ton can displace a significant portion of the cement, which costs $22 to $23 per ton.

Power companies have been paying as much as $17.5 million a year just to trap the fly ash before it gets out into the atmosphere and to get rid of it.

The Edison Electric Institute estimates that only about 5.2 million tons out of the 30 million tons of fly ash produced in utilities' stacks each year is recovered for byproduct use.

Dayton Fly Ash isn't the only company in the business now. There's enough competition to comprise a fly ash council. With so much raw material still available and the utilities willing suppliers, the drive is on to develop further uses.

OTHER USES

Dayton Fly Ash, which became a subsidiary of American Metal Climax, Inc. last year, thinks fly ash can be used to reduce land sinking in areas where underground mining has been conducted. Pumped into the mine shaft through bore holes, the fly ash takes up water by hydroscopic action, expands and exerts a strong upward force.

Dayton also has patented a system that uses fly ash for extinguishing mine fires and the company thinks one day methods will be found for extracting alumina, iron oxides and carbon from fly ash in commercial quantities.

Dayton says its 1970 sales will reach 95,000 tons and expects them to jump to 169,000 tons the following year. In more than one sense, the sky's the limit for the one-time waste product, the firm believes.

Toyota Ranks Fourth

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan's Toyota Motor Company ranked as the fourth-largest car maker in the world in regard to number of cars turned out during the first half of this year, Toyota said last week.

Toyota was ranked sixth for the comparable period of last year, but it outstripped Chrysler Corp. and Fiat of Italy in the six-month period.

Trade Deficit Wiped Out Since Franc Devaluation

PARIS (Reuters) — In one year since the devaluation of the franc, France has more than doubled its foreign currency reserves, increased its exports by 40 per cent and virtually wiped out a large trade deficit.

On the world's foreign exchange markets, the franc continues to show strength and Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing can look back with satisfaction on the year since devaluation.

Announcement of the 12.5-percent cut in the value of the franc in August, 1969, caught the financial world by surprise.

Only eight men in France knew of the decision made a month earlier and the tightly-kept secret was not forecast by any financial pundits.

Despite former president Charles de Gaulle's refusal to devalue, the world generally believed it to be necessary sooner or later.

But a package move including a revaluation of the West German mark was thought most likely.

RESERVES UP

The success of the devaluation and Giscard d'Estaing's economic recovery plan, helped by the West German mark revaluation, has bolstered France. valuation, has bolstered France's reserves by $2,350,000,000 from the $1,290,000,000 remaining a year ago.

Without devaluation the Bank of France's coffers would have been empty by early 1970 Giscard d'Estaing said.

French industry has been working at full capacity since the devaluation and has become more export-orientated.

Exports in June, 1970, were 40 per cent higher than in the previous June.

The increased revenue has permitted the Bank of France to repay all short-term debts. Giscard d'Estaing has announced the bank's intention to repay the first $200 billion of the $985 billion standby credit granted by the International Monetary Fund to support the franc through the first months following the devaluation.

Blanket exchange controls slapped down in November, 1968, in de Gaulle's attempt to avoid devaluation have been eased substantially for French tourists going abroad.

Some sectors of industry have been given concessions to allow foreign investment.

BUY BANK NOTES

Another sign of confidence in the economy was shown recently when the Bank of France agreed to buy back French bank notes from foreign banks at the official market rate.

The bank had deliberately not intervened on the market for some time and bank notes changed hands at three per cent below the official rate, making illegal export of bank notes less attractive.

Even gold, the traditional refuge of the Frenchman in times of monetary uncertainty, no longer attracts interest in Paris.

Rollicking Good Time Is Had at Pender Islands Fair

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"So deck yourself out in your finest array . . . with a heigh ho, come to the fair!" I've been humming that tune, singing it and whistling it this last couple of days.

Forbes

Not because I've been over at the PNE in Vancouver. Rather, because I attended the Pender Islands fair last Saturday and had a rollicking good time.

Day before (Friday) the committee in charge worked from dawn until dusk, setting up the fair. Saturday morning the judges were at work. Then, in the afternoon at 1:30, doors were opened to the public for three hours only.

In that time the little hall was jammed with residents, summer vacationists and weekend visitors.

When I managed to get inside I wondered how the judges could possibly have made up their minds.

I saw tomatoes as big as saucers, peaches fairly bursting with juice, plums of all kinds, including tiny damsons, and apples it was hard not to pick up and crunch into, they looked so inviting.

★ ★ ★

Pender Islands residents are justifiably proud of their flower gardens so one section was given over to dahlias, roses, sweetpeas, spider asters, zinnias, marigolds, velvety pansies and many other blooms, all vying for title of best in the show.

Field flowers were included in an "arrangement" category that produced some imaginative entries. One was an "all green" development.

"Not to push the color," whispered the person in charge of this section, "rather to stress that green is a sumbol of growth."

Judge of the baking entries had to work her way through more than 40 cakes before she even looked at bread, bus, cookies and pies.

Jamie Scott Corbett, a committee member, told me that this judge looked first at each cake for over-all effect.

Then she cut a good serving slice, crumbled a bit in her fingers and looked at it closely for texture, smelled it to determine ingredients and rolled a piece around in her mouth to get the flavor.

With that completed she went back and selected a dozen cakes from the 40 or more, gave them an even closer examination and finally pulled out three winners.

There was a junior baking section too. Here boys outdid girls, not only in number of entries but in gathering the prizes.

The day was hot. The hall was stifling. Perspiration stood out on the foreheads of those in charge. Make-shift paper fans were much in evidence. Tea was served across the road and down a slope some distance from the hall.

No one seemed to mind. This was their fair. Everyone knew everyone else. And while each entry may have been a winner in the eyes of the person who brought it in, there was good natured acceptance of the judges' decisions.

★ ★ ★

Someone called — "too bad you missed the prize, Jim."

He grinned and ansered — "it doesn't matter. They'll make a darned good salad for tonight's supper."

I asked Percy Corbett, a Pender Islander "from away back," who ran the fair himself for many years, how long it had been going on. His educated guess was "well over 40 years."

From his book shelves he pulled out a copy of "A Gulf Island Patchwork" to show me that even before that time (in 1901) a Pender Islands man, A. H. Menzies, entered an Ayrshire bull and some poultry at the Willows Fair in Victoria and came away with second and first prizes.

Another year at the same fair, in a contest for the most milk and butter fat produced by a cow of any breed over a two-day period, Lady Buttercup of Pender, a Jersey owned by Menzies, won first prize.

★ ★ ★

"We've had bigger turnouts in the old hall," Percy Corbett said at the end of the day. "This place is too small but, right now, it's all we've got."

The community is working on it, he added and by next year, "it might be a lot better."

So, "deck yourself out in your finest array . . . with a heigh ho, come to the fair."

Make it the one at Saanichton on Labor Day weekend. Of course, it will be much larger than the Pender Islands fair but you'll get the same over-all pattern of friendship and fun.

Welfare Ruling Appealed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A formerly locked-out installation mechanic Monday appealed the ruling of Mr. Justice Thomas Dohm that prevented victims of labor disputes from receiving social assistance.

The appeal was filed by lawyer Tom Berger on behalf of Ross Alden, 25, listing three grounds on which he claims the judge erred in dismissing Alden's application for an injunction against Welfare Minister Phil Gaglardi.

Alden sought to restrain the minister, his deputy and those in his department from denying welfare to people in need because they were on strike or locked out.

In his Aug. 14 judgment Mr. Justice Dohm of the B.C. Supreme Court ruled that the legislature never intended that people who leave their employment due to labor disputes could expect to be supported out of the public purse.

Alden was refused welfare following the construction industry lockout but is now back to work.

L.Q. stands for "lighting quotient" and it can be almost as vital as a student's I.Q. for ensuring good grades. Studying for long hours is one of the hardest jobs our eyes have to do, but comfortable lighting — free from glare, annoying contrasts and disturbing shadows — can make it a whole lot easier. So you tire less quickly, concentrate better, get through more in fewer hours.

Now that it's "back-to-books" time once again, make sure your student's I.Q. benefits from an adequate L.Q. Get him or her a new College Study Lamp, available at leading stores and electrical dealers everywhere. Because it's scientifically designed to meet standards of the Illuminating Engineering Society, it gives the ideal level of desk illumination and the maximum protection against eyestrain. Look for the "College Study Lamp" tag and help your boy or girl make light of the deskwork this coming term.

Adanacs Dodge Bottles In Wild Playoff Opener

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Burrards edged Coquitlam Adanacs 8-6 Tuesday night in a hard-slogging first match in the Western Lacrosse Association playoffs that produced 109 minutes in penalties.

Burrard's burly Brian Ansley and Coquitlam's Bill Robinson squared off in the opening period. In the second, Ansley was knocked to the floor unconscious by Harry Wooley of the Adanacs.

A free-for-all ensued, with Adanacs' Dick Crompton getting three five-minute fighting penalties and a game misconduct, while teammate Kevin Parsons was assessed five minutes for fighting and a 10-minute misconduct. Wooley got two minutes.

Burrard's Don Cameron got five minutes for charging, five for fighting and a 10-minute misconduct with Dennis Quigley and Dennis Nagy of Vancouver getting five-minute fighting penalties.

Fans at Kerrisdale Arena also got into the spirit, raining bottles onto the Adanacs' bench as coach Bob Marsh struggled to maintain order among his players as they attempted to dodge the bottles.

Referees Jim Gray and Barry Balance set a five-minute intermission after the dust settled and tempers cooled for the remainder of the game.

At the time of the eruption, Vancouver led 7-2.

Allen Tasker paced Vancouver with three goals while Dave Litzenberger chipped in two. Singles were added by Gord Frederickson, Gord Liebscher and Bob Holmes.

●

Official league statistics released Tuesday confirmed that John Allen of Coquitlam Adanacs had nipped Nirmal Dillon of Victoria Shamrocks by one point for second place in the regular-season individual scoring race.

Allen finished with a second-best total of 63 goals among his 107 points while Dillon had a leading total of 70 assists with his 106 points.

Runnaway-leader Wayne Goss of New Westminster finished the season with a high of 71 goals and 136 points.

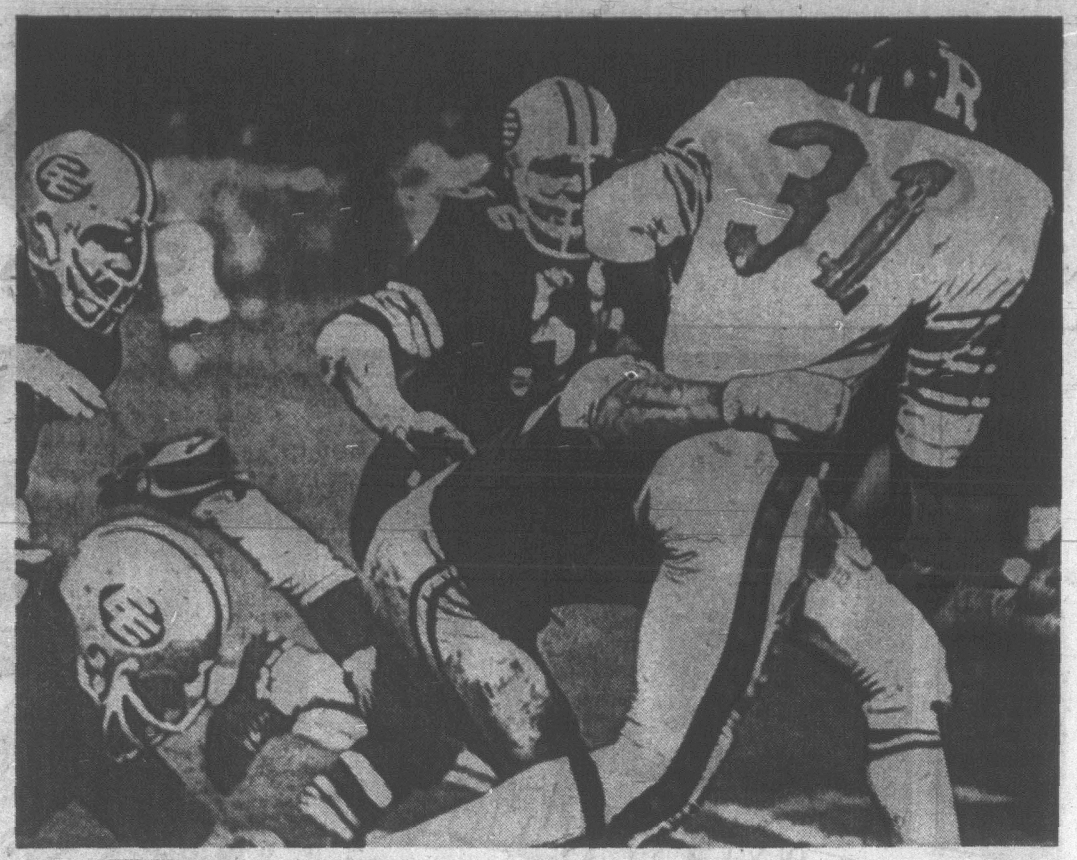
BARBER'S CHAIR IN GRID CAMP

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Coach Carl Depasqua brought a barber along for the opening of football practice at the University of Pittsburgh.

Displeased with the long hair sported by some of his athletes, he ordered a group of them into the barber's chair at Pitt Stadium for a trim.

He said the haircuts would not be a regular item of training camp.

"Some of them were a little shaggy," Depasqua said. "I just want it neat and trim, that's all."



ESKIMO DEFENDERS were equal to task on this play Tuesday night in Canadian Football League game at Edmonton as they stopped Ottawa's Al Marcelin (31) short of goal line. However, Rough Riders found several holes in vaunted Edmonton defence as they charged to 31-23 triumph.

BILL WALKER

More on racing, and now that club-house privileges have been approved for Sandown, why not go whole hog and press for a beer-garden as well? Losing while lolling in the sun would be much more pleasant. Besides, then you could hear the PA announcer, which you can't now in the bedlam they call the tea room.

Meanwhile, school is still out, and will be until Saturday, on whether the quarter horse is here to stay, and whether quarter-horse racing is more interesting than the thoroughbred variety. But one thing is definitely certain. Regardless of what type of racing goes on at Sandown, the premises will most certainly have to be improve upon. You know, it really wouldn't take that much to make it an attractive park, the setting is perfect enough.

Then perhaps, too, that blithe spirit upstairs wouldn't have to keep intoning those dreadful words: "Ladies and gentlemen, please get your mutuel tickets early . . . these are hand tickets . . . the betting will close . . . etc."

Or who said:

"This is not an invitation to wager."

And did you know that it was 40 years ago on August 16, 1930, that the new $30,000 grandstand at the Willows was opened . . . Tea Ball, ridden by Emil Sporri, won the feature by three lengths over Nannie Frances, which later became the dam of the outstanding B.C.-bred Franworth . . . Match this, for a sign of the times, with the fact that the purse in Saturday's Futurity at Vancouver's Exhibition Park will be in excess of $32,000 with at least $22,000 for the winner, making it western Canada's richest horse race . . . Which makes it fitting that the winner should be decorated by the finance minister, Premier Bennett . . . He's the special guest, and should be interested . . . Ex-Park is one of his best producers in the revenue field . . .

A recent search through the files was interesting, too, for it brought to mind the forgotten fact that in the distant past of horse racing, a Negro was one of the premier hardboots. Isaac Murphy, who rode between 1884 and 1900, is generally regarded as being one of the greatest riders of all time . . . He is acknowledged as having had the highest winning percentage of all jockeys . . . Then, of course, there was everybody's favorite, Ed "Snooper" Garrison . . . Ed Who? . . . Yes, this is the fellow whose name lives on and on, in sport cliches . . . It was his strategy with a horse to hold back until the final possible moment, and then to come on with a strong run in the stretch for a spectacular finish, often to win it all in the last stride or two . . . Which is why today that anything close and exciting in a sporting way, is called, you guessed it: "A Garrison Finish."

It may have been overlooked by many on Saturday's race card at Sandown, but the man of the hour, jockey Jack Palmer, was ever alert during the running of the races, particularly in the fifth . . . That's when Van's Money Man threw his jockey . . . Palmer's reaction came in the stretch run . . . he was seen to look over his shoulder, probably to see if he had a close pursuer, but more than likely to spot the loose horse . . . because he later pulled up alongside the riderless horse and held that position until the outrider appeared . . .

Jockeys, it is known, come in small packages, but how small is small? . . . The lightest winning jockey on record was a lad named Kitchener who weighed just 49 pounds when he won the Chester Cup in England in 1844 . . . The jockey with the longest service was Levi Burlinghame who died in 1947 at age 95 . . . he rode his last race when he was 80, and quit then because he broke his leg in a tumble . . . He was 60 years in the saddle . . . And on the side of youth put the name of Jimmy Taylor of the English Jockey Club . . . he was 10 when he rode in his first race at the Catterick Bridge course in 1939 . . .

I suppose that this could go on for ever . . . racing lore is that deep . . . for instance, it was the fashion 60 years ago to have a mixed race program for jumpers, flat racers, and trotters . . . And it was that long ago, this month, that such an event was held at Hastings Park (Ex Park) in Vancouver . . . The purses ranged from $150 to $1,000 . . . In this month's B.C. Thoroughbred magazine, there was an item quoting the Vancouver Daily World that "the mare Josephine was left standing at the start of one race, apparently the fault of her rider." The news account continued: "In protest of the manner in which this horse had been dealt with, timekeeper Gibson threw down his alarm clock and left the box." . . . Whether the timekeeper returned or not is not known, but someone should have grabbed that alarm clock. . . They don't make them that way any more . . . Good night, Jack.

Angels Touch Off Own Explosion; Pirates Plucked

By Associated Press

A bomb scare failed to materialize in Minnesota but nearly 700 miles east the California Angels set off an explosion of their own, posing a definite threat to the Minnesota Twins.

The bomb threat occurred in the fourth inning of the Twins-Boston Red Sox game Tuesday night and Metropolitan Stadium was evacuated by the 17,697 fans for 44 minutes before play was resumed.

Tony Conigliaro slammed a homer in the eighth inning and the Red Sox held off the Twins for a 1-0 triumph. In Detroit, the California Angels blasted the Tigers in a doubleheader, 6-4 in 12 innings and 10-6.

The double victories by the Angels placed them a dangerously close 3½ games behind American League West Division leading Minnesota.

In other AL action, Dave McNally won his 20th game of the season—the first major leaguer to make it—and the Baltimore Orioles trimmed Oakland Athletics 5-1, Chicago White Sox edged Washington Senators 4-3, the New York Yankees nipped Kansas City Royals 2-1 and Milwaukee Brewers nudged Cleveland Indians 4-2 in 10 innings.

SAID SET FOR 10:30

Police informed the Twins at 10:30 p.m., EDT, of the telephoned threat and it was announced over the public address system that the male caller said the bomb would go off at 10:30 p.m.

The evacuation was orderly and without panic with some 2,000 fans, players, police and vendors gathered in the centrefield area. The rest of the people milled in the parking lot.

After a 27-minute wait the fans were allowed to return to the stands and the game was resumed at 10:57 p.m.

Bill Zepp went seven innings for Minnesota, giving up only four hits before Tom Hall came on in the eighth and surrendered Conigliaro's 25th homer.

Jay Johnstone capped California's second-game explosion with a grand slam homer in the Angels big six-run ninth inning, overcoming a 6-4 Detroit lead.

The Angels fell behind 4-0 in the opener but eventually won it in the 12th on Fregosi's sacrifice fly and a run-scoring double by Johnson.

Dave Campbell drove in three runs, including a ninth-inning winner, as the San Diego Padres plucked the Pittsburgh Pirates' feathers 4-3 Tuesday night in a game marked by Roberto Clemente's encounter with a runaway chicken.

The Pirates' superstar, making his first visit to San Diego since revealing a 1969 brush with would-be kidnappers in the California city, was given the bird as he took his right field position in the first inning.

A fan dropped the chicken onto the field—in a symbolic gesture—and it strutted past Clemente before being collared by a pursuing ballboy.

BRAVES TOP METS

Clemente had claimed he was returning to his hotel with a bag of fried chicken after a game against the Padres 15 months ago when he was abducted by gunmen, who threatened his life but eventually released him unharmed—and even returned his midnight snack.

Despite the loss, the Pirates retained their three-game lead in the National League East as second-place New York Mets bowed to Atlanta Braves 7-6 and third-place Chicago Cubs lost to Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1, Philadelphia Phillies nipped Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in 12 innings; Houston Astros topped Montreal Expos 6-3 in 13, and San Francisco Giants trimmed St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 in other NL games.

PADRES WERE DOWN

The Padres made up a 3-1 deficit before beating the Pirates. Campbell also hit his 10th homer in the first inning and singled home a run in the seventh. Ollie Brown, in the eighth, hit his 22nd homer.

Rookie and Pass Thefts Lift Riders Past Esks

EDMONTON (CP)—Place-kicker Ivan MacMillan and seven interceptions, one short of the Canadian Football League record, gave Ottawa Roughriders a 31-23 win over Edmonton Eskimos in an interlocking game Tuesday night.

MacMillan, 18-year-old rookie sensation from the Ottawa Valley community of Alexandria, accounted for 13 points with three field goals, three singles and a convert as the Rough Riders took their first victory in three Eastern Football Conference starts.

The interceptions, two each by Wayne Giardino and Al Marcelin, set up two touchdowns, a 32-yard field goal by MacMillan and a single before 19,221 rain-soaked fans.

The Eskimos, with four straight losses and a 1-5 record for fourth in the Western Football Conference, have allowed 22 interceptions this season, 16 short of the CFL record shared by Ottawa and Edmonton.

"We beat ourselves again," said Edmonton coach Ray Jauch, referring to the interceptions and the Eskimos' lack of punch in scoring territory.

BLOCKS UPSURGE

Marcelin stopped an Edmonton rally midway through the fourth quarter when he hauled in a pass thrown by Rusty Clark in the Ottawa end zone. Clark, who replaced quarterback Don Trull in the second quarter, attempted the pass on a first-and-five situation on the Ottawa six.

Earlier, Marcelin took the ball on the Ottawa 30 from Joe Poirier who had intercepted a pass on his own 19. Marcelin rambled to the Edmonton 11 and MacMillan kicked a single on a wide field goal attempt during the last play of the second quarter.

Rookie quarterback Gary Wood scored an Ottawa touchdown on a one-yard plunge and threw a 12-yard pass to Hugh Oldham for another. Oldham's touchdown erased an 8-6 deficit and gave Ottawa a 13-8 margin, a lead they never relinquished.

INCREASED MARGIN

With Ottawa leading 21-15, Giardino increased the margin taking the ball out of the air on an attempted pass to Tom Nettles and running 26 yards for a touchdown. Marcelin tipped the ball out of Nettles' hands and Giardino grabbed it before it fell to the ground.

Halfback Terry Swarn, who caught eight passes for 157 yards, scored an Edmonton touchdown on a 28-yard pass from Clark. Henry King got another on an 11-yard pass from Mike Eben who took a handoff from Trull. Eben picked up the final Edmonton touchdown on a 44-yard pass from Clark.

CUTLER KICKS FIVE

Dave Cutler, who has missed eight successive field goals including two against Ottawa, booted three converts and two singles.

Asked about key players not producing for the Eskimos, Jauch said:

"If we're not getting the type of play we want, we can replace anybody. If the people are not consistent I'm not afraid to cut anybody . . . I don't care who he is."

Patenaude Places 11th In Marathon

TORONTO — Jack Foster, a 38-year-old New Zealander who only started running five years ago, placed first in a 180-man field Tuesday to win the Canadian National Exhibition international marathon.

Foster covered the 26-mile 385-yard course in a time of two hours, 16 minutes, 23 seconds in humid, 75-degree weather.

Alistair Wood of Scotland was second with a clocking of 2:18.31 while Foster's team-mate Jeff Julian was third in 2:18.48, giving the team title to the New Zealanders.

Victoria's Norm Patenaude ran his best-ever time of 2:30.28 but had to settle for 11th spot.

Mols Feel Sting Of Sharp Pearce

Paced by the solid pitching of Brian Pearce, Denford Electric defeated Molsons, 3-1, at Central Park Tuesday to win the best-of-five Victoria Major Men's Softball League semi-final series in four games.

Denfords, who finished fourth in regular-season play, will meet league-champion Bate Construction in a best-of-seven final series starting at 6:30 tonight in Central.

Pearce allowed the brewers only three hits while striking out eight to post his ninth victory of the season for the Electricians.

Molsons had taken a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Art Jones doubled and scored on an infield error, but singles by Paul Morrison, Pearce, Paul Baines and Wayne Forland in the second, plus another error, produced all of Denfords' runs.

Great Britain Scores Sweep

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Jaroslav Drobny and Gerry Oakley won the last two singles matches Tuesday as Great Britain completed a 5-0 victory over Canada in the Stevens Cup international senior tennis team eliminations.

Britain now faces the defending United States team of Bobby Riggs, Vic Seixas and Straight Clark in the Challenge Round starting Thursday.

Drobny, a Czechoslovakian and winner at Wimbledon who now lives in London, rallied to defeat Jacques Giguere 7-9, 6-4, 6-4. Oakley added the fifth point by beating Jean Marois 6-3, 8-6.

BOMBERS' ROOKIE SENSATION . . . . . PRAISED BY COACH

Something Sensed About Senst

It's still a bit early to tell about John Senst, Winnipeg Blue Bombers' pass-catching No. 2 college draft choice. But taking his record up to now he's earning his keep.

Bomber head coach Jim Spavital sensed John had what it takes.

"I like something, although I wasn't quite sure I knew what it was," said Spavital of John's training camp.

"He had a knack of finding the open spot and had those good, natural moves. He's running his patterns better all the time and he's a good, coachable young man."

The rookie wide receiver earned his praise by catching six passes for 131 yards in his first two starts.

Senst, of Oakville, Ont., will be making his third starting appearance tonight when Winnipeg takes on Toronto Argonauts in a Canadian Football League game.

A product of Simon Fraser University, Senst has a B.A. in political science.

"Receiving's strictly a question of confidence," he says.

"You have to know you're going to catch the ball. My biggest hurdle has been learning not to fight myself because if you start that you start wondering if you're going to catch the ball."

Senst shudders a bit when he recalls his first night in the CFL.

In a pre-season game in Hamilton, the young receiver took a pass from Wally Gabler, turned to run and found big Angelo Mosca perring down his throat.

Slick Sailing by Ficker Gets Intrepid in Front

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Intrepid took the lead at the start on the skilful manoeuvring by her skipper, Bill Ficker of Newport Beach., Calif., and defeated Valiant by 3 minutes, 24 seconds Tuesday in the final trials to determine this year's defender for the America's Cup.

The victory was Intrepid's second in three races between the two boats and her fifth against one defeat in the final trials which started one week ago. Valiant is now 4-2.

Weatherly and Heritage, the other two boats which started the final trials, have been eliminated by the New York Yacht Club's America's Cup committee.

Valiant's skipper, Bob McCullough of Riverside, Conn., seemed to be in a position to block Intrepid before the start and forced her away from the starting line.

FORCED TO TURN

But McCullough was forced to turn away from the line and kill his boat's speed to avoid crossing the line too early and being recalled.

Intrepid led by 1:22 seconds at the first mark, rounding it more than 300 yards ahead of her opponent. She added five seconds to her lead on the second leg, mainly because Valiant's crew was slow in getting its spinnaker set.

Valiant reduced her deficit to 150 yards on the third leg and rounded the third mark only 53 seconds behind.

TOUGH TACKING DUEL

McCullough then initiated a gruelling tacking duel on the fourth leg, hoping either to wear down Intrepid's crew or to force them into a costly mistake.

The two boats tacked 39 times in 32 minutes, and at the end of that time Intrepid had increased her lead.

The two boats are expected to race today and to continue racing on an almost-daily basis until the New York Yacht Club decides which is the best boat to defend the America's Cup.

The international trials to determine the America's Cup challenger will be resumed today with Australia's Gretel II holding a 2-0 lead over the French yacht France in their best-of-seven series.

NASCAR'S LATE MODELS HEADING FOR WESTERN

Something new to Canada will appear at Western Speedway on Sept. 7.

This date will mark the first time that competition in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's late-model division has been staged north of the border.

Cars racing in this division are the same 1968-70 model vehicles that run at Riverside and Daytona.

Canuck Schedule Suits Island Fans

The home schedule of the Vancouver Canucks contains some benefits for Vancouver Island fans who plan to catch some of the National Hockey League action this winter.

Canucks open their 1970-71 campaign — their first in the expanded NHL — on Friday, Oct. 9.

The breakdown of Canucks' schedule shows 15 Tuesday games, eight on Friday, seven on Saturday, seven on Sunday and one on a Monday and one Wednesday.

The weekend fixtures may be welcomed by Vancouver Island fans who have to contend with late-evening transportation difficulties if they wish to return from the mainland.

The Friday dates will suit fans who do not have to work Saturdays. In addition, five of the seven Saturday games will permit Island fans to return the same night.

Five Saturday games are scheduled to start at 5 p.m. in order to accommodate a national telecast.

All Sunday games start at 2 p.m.

Don Gets Win But Gary Out On 28th Hole

VANCOUVER — Victoria's Don Marsden remained in contention for the title Tuesday during the first round of match play in the Pacific Northwest junior golf championships but a little of the spotlight was stolen by another Victorian—Gary Ferguson.

Ferguson fought for 28 holes before succumbing in a fourth-flight tussle to Tom Larigne of Olympic Hills, Wash. This worked out to 10 extra holes over the 6,038-yard, par-71 Marine Drive layout.

Marsden, meanwhile, stayed alive in the championsip flight by defeating Mike Roll of Portland, 6 and 5.

Mark Daniel and Stephen Berry, both of Vancouver, were the only other Canadians remaining in the championship.

COURNOYER SIGNED

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvan Cournoyer has been signed for his seventh National Hockey League season with Montreal Canadiens.

Closing Surge by B.C. Misses by One Stroke

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Doug Roxburgh's improved putting and club selection gave him a par-68 round and Rob Ferguson fired a 72 at the Brightwood Golf and Country Club here Tuesday, but their efforts weren't quite enough to help the British Columbia squad to the Canadian junior interprovincial golf team championship.

Quebec, bolstered by a nine-stroke lead they picked up in Monday's opening round, held on for a one-stroke victory in the nine-team event and finished with a combined team total of 595.

Roxburgh of Vancouver and Dan Talbot of Beloeil, Que., playing in the final threesome of the round Tuesday with Michael Hogan of Red Deer, Alta., held the key to the title.

Talbot had a 70 Monday, low for the first round, but faltered in the second round as Roxburgh picked up momentum and sliced strokes off the Quebec lead.

LACKED JUDGEMENT

On the 18th hole, Roxburgh, an 18-year-old from the Marine Drive Golf Club in Vancouver, put his approach shot on the edge of the green. It was about 25 feet from the pin. He two-putted, placing his first effort about a foot to the right.

Talbot, bothered by club judgment throughout the round, placed his third shot on the fringe, to the left of the cup. He two-putted and finished eight strokes over par at 76. His round gave Quebec the victory. B.C. was second at 596, and Ontario third at 598.

Roxburgh, named Monday as an alternate to the team to represent Canada in the world amateur team matches at Madrid, Spain, in September, knocked five strokes from the game he played Monday.

The round was good enough to give him individual honors in the 36-hole team competitions. He finished with a 141, two strokes better than Bill Laughlin of London, Ont.

Hogan shot rounds of 71 and 73 for an 18-hole total of 144, good for third place in individual scoring.

B.C. closed the gap as Rob Ferguson of Victoria cut six strokes, Gerry Kitson of Richmond cut four from his game and Roxburgh lowered his count by five strokes. Keenlyside added five strokes while the B.C. total fell 10 strokes from the previous day's performance.

Only One 'Clean Car' Checks In At Campus—Under Its Own Power

By DAVID HOFFMAN

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (WP) — Thirty-six hours after the great cross-country clean car race was flashed across its starting line, only one clean car had reached the University of Michigan campus here Tuesday. Under its own power, that is.

The car, a non-descript 1970 Plymouth, burning unleaded gasoline, had logged approximately 780 miles. There are 2,820 still between it and the finish line in Pasadena.

Another clean car, a Javelin steamer, arrived on scene Tuesday under something else's power. It came atop a panel truck. An unknown number of other low-pollution automobiles were presumed in nearby Detroit having their emissions tested by "the enemy."

The youthful clean car drivers, each a full-time student, joked that were it not for Detroit manufacturers, they'd not be inching coast to coast to dramatize the evils of pollution. They'd be playing guitars and chasing girls.

Hence, Detroit becomes the enemy. But not too much of one. Many of the cars now racing were donated by the industry.

As one young man explained it (he asked not to be identified), there are two reasons why no one knew where the clean cars were Tuesday evening:

RAN OUT OF GAS

First, students manning the "national race information centre" in Chicago decided they were overworked and fatigued, so they temporarily shut down the centre and rested. Passeneger-observers in the race cars thus had no one to report their positions to.

Second, the mobile race control van ran out of gas somewhere in Ontario. The van is to accompany the drivers at all times. As its frustrated control team thumbed at passers-by, a Worcester polytechnic institute entry paused to offer a five-gallon can of unleaded gasoline. The offer was accepted.

About 30 of the 42 starters reached Toronto at the end of Monday's first day of driving. Several others were reported to have reached Toronto Tuesday. Some say a few cars are still in Toronto.

In general, the less-sophisticated the car, its fuel and power plant, the more successful has been the driver. At 4 p.m. Tuesday, there were seven starters undergoing exhaust emission tests in the U.S. air pollution control administration's Ypsilanti laboratory. None defied description.

Ingo Leslie Deters of the University of Michigan was behind the wheel of a 1970 Chevelle donated by General Motors. As technicians bottled his car's exhaust gas Deters was asked how much pollution America was being spared simply because the race cars had been modified?

80 PER CENT REDUCTION

"There was about an 80 per cent reduction," he said.

The engineering student was asked how much such modifications might cost car buyers, assuming all hardware was mass produced and that the manufacturer's did not use the occasion to raise prices in general?

"About 3 or 4 per cent of the sales price of my car," he said.

It has taken months of negotiation to line up 74 battery recharging stations between Massachusetts and California for the five all-electric entries. Alas, it is probable that few will ever be used.

The five electric entries are either in need of repair or travelling via truck. Among the drivers and their supporting technicians there is consensus that the electric-powered vehicles should have had their own race, one involving stop and start intracity driving. Not even the cleanest clean air partisan has proposed the use of battery power on such a grand tour as this one.

RC Church Scandal Growing in U.K.

LONDON (AP) — While a Vatican newspaper tried to deflate a growing scandal over recruitment of Indian girls for Roman Catholic convents in Europe, a British newspaper published new reports implying that church officials in India had profited from the traffic.

Mother Madeleine, head of Our Lady of Providence convent in Hampshire, told The Daily Mirror she paid $750 apiece or 10 novices to Rev. C. V. Puthenpura, who operates a training institute for girls in southern India's Kerala state.

The mother superior said she believed the money was for the girls' air fares and expenses of their preparation in India.

The Daily Mirror reported another British convent, St. Lucy's, at Medstead, paid Father Puthenpura $650 each to have five novices sent from India.

The scandal erupted Sunday when the London Sunday Times reported that European convents short of novices had "bought" more than 1,200 Indian peasant girls for $600 to $700 each.

Second Thoughts By Scientists

By JOHN SOOSAR

HALIFAX (CP) — A proposal to seek a Canadian bill of rights for the environment in the form of a federal environmental quality act was adopted at the first national conference of Canada's scientific community Tuesday.

But some of the 100 delegates had second thoughts.

The resolution before the conference of the Scientific, Engineering and Technological Community of Canada (SCITEC) passed with only one dissenting vote.

When the dissenting delegate expressed "great reservations about . . . speaking out in the name of 250,000 Canadian scientists," several others joined in questioning SCITEC's authority.

SCITEC was formed last January by about 60 Canadian professional groups encompassing a cross-section of the sciences in an effort to provide the scientific community with one voice.

Mr. Morris Katz, a professor of chemistry at York University, chairman of the conference workshop which recommended the environmental quality act, was joined by several other delegates in defending SCITEC's action.

If delegates did not present some specific resolutions and suggestions for SCITEC action "then we will have another exercise in futility and this will end up as just another conference where views were aired but the result will not reach any kind of audience . . ." Dr. Katz said.

Dr. M. H. Edwards of the Royal Military College stid the wording of the resolutions was such that it did not commit member associations.

SCITEC will urge the federal government, in consultation with the Canadian Council of Resource Ministers and Provincial Governments, to develop "an environmental quality act or acts to establish and commit to legislation recognition of the individual and collective rights of ordinary citizens to a clean and healthy environment."

Most existing environmental and pollution legislation was negative and fragmented and the "mere double negative of 'fight pollution' is not sufficient or comprehensive enough," the committee said in urging an act transcending all existing legislation.

The conference also adopted a resolution calling for the establishment of a committee on environmental quality. It would help develop priorities on a national and regional basis; prepare an inventory on pollution research; provide advice on an interpret monitoring and arrange symposia.

SCITEC also will establish an education committee charged with interpreting environmental science and technology to the public and assisting in the development of studies on environmental problems at all levels of education.

CPR Proposals For 'Canadian' Rapped in Briefs

By JOE WILL

CALGARY (CP) — Opposition continued Tuesday to the Canadian Pacific Railway plan to make its debt-ridden Trans-Continental passenger service lose less money.

The four briefs presented to the Canadian Transport Commission public hearing during the day criticized the plan as inadequate to cure the ills of the Canadian, official name of the train.

Their position was similar to that taken Monday by the Alberta government which said the plan was a poor attempt and the CPR should be told to produce a more acceptable set of proposals.

J. J. Frawley, counsel for Alberta, went further and said the plan was no more than an excuse to make the Canadian so high-priced and undesirable as a passenger service that the railway would be permitted to discontinue its operation.

The whole question of the daily passenger service's economics was raised in October, 1969, when the CPR said the route was losing money and applied to the transport commission to stop service.

The commission agreed it was losing money—$15,171,024 in 1968—but ordered the railway to continue in the public interest and formulate a plan to reduce the deficit. The federal government pays 80 per cent of the operating losses in such a situation.

The railway proposal called for a rise in fares of between 10 and 25 per cent, fewer trains during all but the three summer months and smaller trains at all times.

T. P. James, chief of passenger service, said under cross-examination the fare increase would work only if the Canadian National Railways would also raise rates to prevent CPR from losing customers along competing routes.

Calgary Mayor Rod Sykes said Tuesday to place such a condition on the proposal was "simply irrational and foolish in the extreme" particularly when the CPR plan did not indicate the CNR had been consulted.

W. G. C. Boyd, representing Local 955 of the United Transportation Union, said the cut in service on the route between Montreal and Vancouver was "further evidence of the planned degradation of CP (Rail) service."

Mr. Boyd a 53-year-old baggageman who would likely be thrown out of work if the service was cut, said the railway had made no effort in recent years to encourage passenger use of the Canadian.

Montreal's Police Strike 'Unavoidable'

By PIERRE VENIOT

MONTREAL (CP) — Could the Oct. 7 strike by Montreal's 3,700 policemen have been avoided?

Apparently not, according to testimony Tuesday from Guy Marcil, president of the Montreal Policemen's Brotherhood.

Mr. Marcil traced events leading to the 16-hour walkout in a four-hour appearance before a two-member Quebec Police Commission inquiry.

Mr. Marcil said:

"I think that Oct. 7 was a collective act, a profound malaise. . . . It (the strike) was spontaneous.

"No one gave them orders to leave their jobs."

He said once the majority of police got into Paul Sauve Arena for an extraordinary information meeting Oct. 7, it was impossible to get them to resume work.

While disagreeing with the strike, Mr. Marcil said, he thought it was the lesser of several methods of protest. There could have been more danger to the public had police marched on city hall or just stayed home.

Everything was going so badly in police stations that Mr. Marcil thought "the police would have walked off their jobs" even if the Oct. 7 meeting had not bee called.

Mr. Marcil said he received the confidential arbitration report at 4 p.m. Oct. 6 and immediately called an executive meeting of the brotherhood.

The result was his decision to hold the meeting the next day, but he cautioned executive members and about 60 brotherhood monitors—union stewards—not to divulge details to the membership.

But someone spread the details over the police radio communications network overnight. By 9 a.m., Paul Saave was jammed with both on-duty and off-duty police, leaving only a skeleton crew of officers to man city stations.

BITTER ABOUT OFFER

Mr. Marcil said that because of their heavier work load, Montreal police were bitter over the arbitration offer of $8,480—up from $7,300—for first-class constables in a two-year contract. It was to start at $8,030 in the first year.

Toronto police, considered to have less demanding work, had just been awarded annual wages of $9,112 while Quebec Provincial Police, usually behind Montreal police in salary, reached $8,300.

Eventually, Montreal police ratified a one-year agreement for $8,750. Firemen picked up $8,320.

Is a Fence a Fence at All? Asks Saanich

It was "ring-around-the-fence" time in Saanich Tuesday night.

When is a fence not a fence? When is a hedge a fence? When is a fence a wall? Is a fence a fence at all?

In Saanich, a hedge is a fence and neither is supposed to be over five feet high.

But a fence isn't a fence when it's part of a structure — say, when it's connected to the house.

Planner Tom Loney circulated old reports on the fence issue and suggested Saanich municipal planning committee consider elimination of height restrictions behind the building line but set a limit in front.

Committee chairman Ald. Alan Newberry said if restrictions are removed, there are protections for nuisance and safety problems.

Ald. William Noel said he strongly opposes discarding all fence regulations although he favored a relaxation.

Ald. Edith Gunning said she doesn't like hedges being considered fences because it isn't enforced.

She understood West Vancouver eliminated height restrictions and wanted to know how this has worked out.

Ald. Leslie Passmore favored the status quo.

"We've had little trouble with the fence bylaw," he said, just five or six applications for relaxation in years and with a population of 60,000. It seems to be working so adequately."

Newberry said there are "a great many" fences over five feet.

Passmore replied "I find few."

"There are lots of hedges," said Mrs. Gunning.

It was agreed to duscuss fences again at a later date, with Newberry expressing the hope of a compromise.

Fierce Battle Over Signs

By ROGER STONEBANK

Saanich municipal planning committee fought a fierce battle over commercial signs Tuesday night.

When the dust settled, Suburban Motors still hadn't got the sign it wants and revisions to the sign bylaw now under way are expected to set up several repeat battles.

For Suburban Motors, 3377 Douglas, it was all a matter of 13 square feet.

That is the difference between the 73-square-foot sign it wants and the 60-square-foot limit under the municipal sign bylaw.

The difference, Suburban president Frank Carson said, means his dealership is the only one in Canada which can't take advantage of the Ford company's national sign program. The signs come in two sizes, and 73 square feet is the smaller. They are mass-produced in Oakville, Ont.

The lawyers for Ford, Crease and Company, said the Saanich bylaw is more restrictive than most and creates a hardship on the dealer. They sought an amendment to the bylaw to permit the 73-square-foot sign.

The planning department, which has been working on revisions to the bylaw following several presentations by the Saanich Chamber of Commerce to the committee, recommended the bylaw not be amended.

Ald. Leslie Passmore said the bylaw is one of the best in British Columbia and "we have enough visual pollution without adding more to it."

Committee chairman Ald. Alan Newberry disagreed.

"I don't see too many signs that are offensive in Saanich. When I hear the pretty well unanimous view of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce I pay attention to what they say. A sign is not automatically visual pollution," he said.

"Are there pretty signs," asked Passmore.

●

"Yes indeed," replied Newberry. "They are a necessary part of the market place. I don't see why Saanich should be so different from the rest of the country. Why this big fuss about signs?"

Replied Passmore: "Because of visual pollution and someone has got to lead the way."

Ald. William Noel said Saanich has been "a little biased. Our sign bylaw is vastly due for overhaul. We've gone a bit too far. It is time we should relax some of our more stringent regulations."

Finally, Carson had his opportunity to speak to the question before the committee.

He said he first wrote Mayor Hugh Curtis and planner Tom Loney in 1968 and never heard back. He finally got a phone call from assistant planner Gil Laurenson, then phoned Curtis again, then wrote again, then spoke to Newberry, wrote him a letter — and got to the committee meeting Tuesday night.

He described it as "a vast communications problem."

Carson said the present sign bylaw permits a total of 180 square feet of signs while his proposal is for 142 square feet. It would cost $6,000 to have a specially-built Ford sign to meet Saanich requirements.

In tests using 53 well-maintained 1964-69 Orange County, Calif., Dept. of Transportation vehicles

F-310 reduced

Hydrocarbon emissions
12.4%

Carbon monoxide emissions
27.5%

A significant test involving 1964-1969 vehicles of two major makes reveals further new proof—Chevron gasoline with F-310 significantly reduces hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions from dirty engines.

Results showed an average reduction in hydrocarbon emissions of 12.4%. Carbon monoxide emissions were reduced an average of 27.5%.

Fifty cars and 3 trucks were selected by officials of the Orange County, Calif., Department of Transportation from its county fleet of over 1,000 cars and trucks, to represent a cross-section of high and low mileage vehicles of various model years — all well-maintained and previously using a major brand premium grade competitive gasoline.

All cars were switched from the competitive gasoline to Chevron with F-310 as they were, with no adjustments to the engines, carburetors or emission control devices.

The test was conducted between March and July, 1970, by Scott Research Laboratories, an independent research laboratory, with the cooperation of Orange County. Exhaust emission measurements were made on each of the 53 test vehicles before the change-over to Chevron Supreme with F-310, and again after approximately 2,000 miles of routine driving.

The results of this scientifically conducted test are highly significant—further dramatic proof that Chevron with F-310 reduces exhaust emissions of unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide.

Other tests are now in progress as part of a continuing series to demonstrate the contribution of Chevron with F-310 toward cleaner air.

F-310 also keeps clean engines clean.

F-310 Polybutene Amine Gasoline Additive was developed to reduce exhaust emissions from dirty engines. The degree of improvement, of course, depends on the condition of the car. In a new car or a car with a clean engine, F-310 will keep the clean engine clean—keep total exhaust emissions at a minimum. That, too, is a genuine contribution to cleaner air.

*Trademark pending for Polybutene Amine Gasoline Additive.

Grits to Show Respect For Parliament

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—When the Commons reconvenes in October, Prime Minister Trudeau and his government plan a concerted effort to defuse Opposition allegations that they don't show proper respect for Parliament.

Since Mr. Trudeau assumed office opposition MPs—particularly John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert)—have been charging the government with "down-grading" Parliament.

Ministers have been accused of saving their best announcements for television, and Mr. Trudeau of having no interest in Parliament and of being impatient with the sometimes slow parliamentary process.

Sources say that the government had not been particularly concerned with this criticism, in the belief that the people generally are more concerned with action, and televised explanations, rather than arguments about the supremacy of Parliament.

CONCERN INDICATED

But these sources say there has been a recent feed-back from various parts of Canada indicating that the opposition allegations are causing some concern among Liberals.

Apparently some MPs are reporting that they are facing more and more questions about the government's attitude toward Parliament.

"I don't think anyone is too upset," says one cabinet minister, "but it's one of those little things we shouldn't let get out of hand."

Sources say Mr. Trudeau plans to ensure that, whenever possible, Parliament will be the first to hear important announcements and all cabinet ministers are being urged to be as forthcoming as possible in giving information to the House.

STRESSING ATTENDANCE

The prime minister is also reported to be stressing the importance of regular attendance, although there are no plans to eliminate the "roster system" whereby ministers are absent on a rotating basis.

With the opposition charging that the government is constantly tampering with Canada's traditional institutions, Mr. Trudeau is said to be anxious to avoid adding any grist to this mill.

He is reported to have asked ministers to avoid casting any doubts, even personal ones, on the future of the monarchy and to generally avoid any unnecessary changes in traditional names or institutions.

A cabinet minister said the opposition charges are basically groundless "but since they are going around the country saying these things, we'd be foolish to play into their hands."

Pants Stolen

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The guest of honor wore trousers but other guests were left pants-less during a party of more than one surprise. Melvin Turner, going next door for the surprise birthday party, saw four men leaving his neighbor's house with guns and a large bundle. The bundle contained seven pairs of trousers, wallets included, taken by those leaving during an armed robbery.

15-YEAR-OLD BOY SETS FIRE TO SELF

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy set fire to himself with a flammable liquid Tuesday. Despite severe burns over three-quarters of his body, he was reported in fair condition in a hospital today.

The mother, who discovered the boy's action, and the police said they could supply no motive. The youth sat in a bathtub in the family's apartment shortly before 2 a.m., poured the liquid on himself and set it afire, police said.

The youth, identified as Manuel Amero, was in critical condition when first brought to the Roosevelt Hospital. A hospital spokesman said today he had improved.

Former Governor Tops in Primary

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Former governor Orval E. Faubus topped a field of eight in the Democratic governorship primary Tuesday but was forced into a Sept. 8 runoff to choose the party nominee to oppose Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who easily won nomination for a third term.

Faubus, 60, failed to obtain a majority vote that would have given him the nomination on the first round and set up a rematch in the November general election of the 1964 Faubus-Rockefeller race in which Faubus won a sixth two-year term.

Dale Bumpers, a lawyer making his first major political race, had a slim lead over state Attorney-General Joe Purcell in the race for the runoff position.

With 2,697 of the 2,792 Democratic polling stations tabulated, Faubus had 149,646 votes. Bumpers had 81,755 and Purcell 77,911.

Rockefeller, 58, handily topped three little-known opponents, including the first Negro to run for governor in Arkansas since 1920—Rev. R. J. Hampton, an African Methodist Episcopal minister.

With 520 of 578 Republican precincts reported, Rockefeller had 50,701 votes, Hampton 770, former radio evangelist James K. (Uncle Mac) MacKrell 662 and Lester Gibbs, a former state delinquent-tax collector, 465.

Primaries in the United States are held to select candidates for general elections and serve the same purpose as nominating conventions in Canada. In the U.S. primaries, only registered voters can cast ballots for those seeking their party's nomination.

Heath Plans U.K. Economic Strategy

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Edward Heath has begun ground work on a new economic strategy as Britain faces a major industrial crisis and new pressure on its currency.

The prime minister has scheduled meetings with labor union and industrial leaders next week to discuss rising unemployment, sluggish production, wage claims and a series of wildcat strikes.

The move comes as more than 25,000 workers in British car and truck factories are laid off because of strikes in component supply firms.

Union officials warned Tuesday that 40,000 workers will become idle unless a peace formula is found to end the strikes over pay.

Also Tuesday a bout of selling sent sterling plunging to its lowest level against the U.S. dollar for nearly a year.

The strikes in the auto industry, Britain's biggest export earner, were undoubtedly worsening the pressure on the pound.

The government's plans for a new economic strategy come amid expressions of concern about the economy. The government is taking a hard look into its own departmental budget, hoping to prune expenditures.

Heath will talk next week with Victor Feather, Trade Union Congress chief, and will also meet John Partridge and Campbell Adamson, leaders of the Confederation of British Industry.

A DIALOGUE

The Big Choice —East or West?

By Jack Scott

I was the party asking the questions last Spring on the campus of the University of Victoria, but one was repeatedly asked of me.

Time after time students, particularly those about to graduate, asked my advice on whether it was necessary or advisable to leave this coast for Eastern Canada to make a successful career. Many of them dreaded the prospect. Toronto, in particular, was seen as "a pollution-ridden rat race."

I wasn't able to offer much of an answer. I left Toronto, after several years abroad as a correspondent, only because I wanted to return to the relaxed western way of life and because that motivation cooled my earlier flaming ambitions.

Scott

Now I can offer some more objective opinions in a dialogue between one who left, and made it big, and one who elected to stay, and made it equally big. I posed the question the students had asked me to Jack Webster and Ron Haggart, far and away the most influential and successful men in their fields in Canada.

Webster, Glasgow-born, 50 years of age, is the open-line commentator of CKNW, New Westminster, a rare bird who has won the respect of everyone in—if you'll pardon the expression—the communications media and the largest, most devoted radio audience in the west.

Haggart, Vancouver-born, 43 years of age, is columnist for The Toronto Telegram, a courageous muck-raking newspaperman in the finest tradition whose impact on the Toronto scene is legendary.

Haggart: I think, basically, most young men want to move. Whether they do or not it comes down to an inescapable truth—however much you may despise the fact, Jack—that Toronto is Canada's head-office city and will become increasingly so.

Webster: Oh, I'll agree with you that for masses of jobs at better average wage levels, the east is obviously more desirable. You've got the people, the consumers, the secondary industry. You're closer to the major American markets. But when I came to Canada from Fleet Street I took one look at Halifax and it was like Greenock all over again and I took one look at Toronto and it was like Glasgow on a dirty day. I was lucky and glad that we'd picked Vancouver on the map. All I'm conceding, Ron, is that you've got to go to the eastern flesh-pots if your aim is to be a big wheel, an industrial magnate.

Haggart: That remark is typical of the British Columbia paranoid syndrome, that you create the wealth in the west and that we manipulate and consume it in the flesh-pots of the east. Everybody in Toronto isn't a big industrial magnate. There are just ordinary insurance company employees, accountants, office managers, salesmen, every kind of business and creative outlet. It's not just a matter of making the big buck. Its fulfillment. The point is, whether you like it or not, that's the centre. Whether you're talking of insurance companies, painting or newspapering or anything else, commercial or creative, Toronto is the centre. Its where it happens. That's not to say you can't have a successful career out here—you've demonstrated that yourself, Jack—but if an ordinary guy wants to work his way up in a national office he has to go through the corporate stream and that stream happens to start in Toronto.

Webster: I'd be the first to admit that we're infected with West Coast parochialism. But, to get back to that Uvic graduate, isn't it really up to him? What does he want to do? Does he want to become an executive in a lumber company? Then stay in British Columbia! Does he want to become some kind of geological engineer searching out the resources we haven't touched? Then stay in British Columbia! There's all kinds of pioneering to be done here. Its the one part of Canada left where you can really carve out a career and a reasonably good life away from the incredible atmosphere of the dirty, filthy cities.

Haggart: I would suspect, after a visit there, that the air pollution in Port Alberni is at a higher level than any city in Ontario. Now, don't give me this clean, green, British Columbia air bit, for God's sake, Jack. You have the worst pollution of air, water and soil in the country.

Webster: We're not proud of our pollution. But, look, I've just come back from the northern country, the grass beyond the mountains, Williams Lake west to Bella Coola. It has got to be the finest, undeveloped land on the North American continent.

Haggart: True, true. But people in British Columbia always live in the cities and talk as if they lived on the frontier. Remember, I was born in Vancouver and lived there until 1953. But when I came back on this vacation two weeks ago and looked out from West Point Grey at downtown Vancouver there was the same smog I'd just left in Los Angeles. So don't talk of those dirty, filthy eastern cities. Its a typical B.C. trick to pretend you're on a brave new frontier when the cities where nearly all of you live are falling apart.

Webster: But what I'm saying to this Uvic student is that he doesn't have to go east, that there's a great potential here for him if he's interested in something other than a fancy Toronto job with fancy Toronto money. What's our biggest resource in British Columbia? It's not lumber, its not mining. Its not even our water. At the moment its tourism and recreation. But in the Chilcotins, everywhere we travelled, who is taking the gamble? Who just bought out the Wilderness Rim Resort at Nimpo Lake? Two young American couples from Seattle. Who runs every resort you find west of Williams Lake? Young, smart, bright Americans who want to lead a good life in our country.

Haggart: The opportunity you're offering these young Uvic graduates is to buy into a half-million-dollar resort hotel?

Webster: I'm saying they can get a career, a definite aim and a way of life in British Columbia without becoming a clerk in a Toronto insurance office or a hack in a Toronto advertising office.

Haggart: There you go again, Jack. Why does he have to be "a hack?" Why, pretty well all national advertising is conceived in Toronto. Surely the point is that if you want to fulfill your creative ambitions you go where the decisions are made.

Webster: I don't want to go where the decisions are made. I want to make my own. This is a beautiful country that needs bright, intelligent, well-educated people.

Haggart: It has nothing to do with the merit or the ability of the people. It has to do with the place where the decisions are made, the way the communications systems are set-up the place where the challenges are, where the sphere of influence exists. The kids from Uvic may change that some day, but they'll have to go to Toronto to do it. If for no other reason but to get away from the fear of the outsider, the fear of change, the fear of the unusual that's a state of mental illness on this coast.

Webster: If all those things, the same money, the same sphere of influence, the same challenge, were possible out here would you come back?

Haggart: Naturally.

Mobile Homes: They're as Real as Others

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Mobile homes should be regarded as "a viable and acceptable" form of housing, a Saanich planning department report issued Tuesday states.

The report, The Mobile Home, said new regulations should be drawn up to supplement provincial rules.

"To date the mobile home has been treated in a com*promise manner,"* the report says.

"This has undoubtedly resulted from the problems facing the owner and the community.

"There should be a clear decision as to whether or not it is an acceptable addition to the housing stock.

"If it is not, this should be clearly stated and the reasons why spelled out.

"If it is, all necessary actions should be taken to put the mobile home on an equal footing with conventional housing—proper location policies, adequate services, ade*quate development standards,* equitable payment for services and equitable grants from senior governments."

Mobile homes in Greater Victoria have "a tarnished image which is both deserving and understandable." If the mobile home is to assume its role as part of the area's total hosuing stock, and if the full potential of good design and quality is exploited, this image can be overcome, maintains Saanich planner Tom Loney, in the report.

The report, presented to Saanich municipal planning committee Tuesday night, received brief discussion and was tabled to allow time for committee members to study it.

The report also says that placement of mobile homes on individual lots within Saanich "should be clarified."

At another point in the 30-page report, it is stated that "there is need for a firm decision as to whether mobile homes are a valid form of housing for the community."

Location policies should be established which follow the general concept of residential development contained in the Apartment Study and specifically conform to residential areas which form the basis of the municipality's sewer program planning.

To conform to existing building regulations and to permit equitable taxation, the report recommends that mobile homes be required to be placed on a concrete foundation and steps taken to make them definable as "improvements" to the land.

Property taxes are derived from both land and "improvements" to the land, but one opinion is that a mobile home placed on blocks would be considered a tenant fixture and exempted under the Assessment Equalization Act regulations.

This produces a disparity which in Surrey shows municipal revenue per mobile home and trailer occupant at $14.40 per year while the average for conventional single-family houses is $91 per capita a year.

To avoid the situation where the mobile home dweller is in effect subsidized by other taxpayers, some jurisdictions in North America have made the legal change necessary so mobile homes bear an equitable share of taxation.

"There have been no indications of such a step in British Columbia," the report says.

"There is a clear need for a policy statement from the provincial government on the mobile home and municipal taxation. To prohibit mobile homes is unfair to mobile home owners, but fair to the community. To permit them is fair to the mobile home owner, but unfair to the community.

"It is a conflict of interest that is quite unnecessary."

The Saanich report notes that a study now is in progress by the Capital Regional District on mobile homes and that there are an estimated 300 mobile homes in Langford, Colwood and Metchosin.

★ ★ ★

It also makes clear a frequent misconception about mobile homes—they are not trailers, but factory-produced housing which is usually mobile only once—when moved to a site.

Although mobile homes cost less than houses, the report says houses can be purchased with money repaid over 25 years or more while it is "virtually impossible" to do this with a mobile home beyond 10 years.

"Thus one could easily pay as much, or even more, per month for a mobile home than for a conventional house," the report says.

"Maintenance costs are lower for a mobile home than for a house but depreciation is probably more pronounced. A 10-year-old house is probably a more attractive proposition than a 10-year-old mobile home."

The report says the idea that mobile homes offer a solution to the housing problems of poor people "appears to be erroneous." Those who cannot afford a house cannot afford a mobile home either, "at least a mobile home of equivalent area."

Dealing with problems of mobile homes, the report said there are few sites, poor development standards, trailers crammed together, minimal services, unpaved access and parking areas and little or no attention paid to open space or landscaping.

"If the mobile home concept is valid, there is urgent need for more places to locate mobile homes, better situated within the community and developed to much higher standards," it says.

"However, this is more easily said than done. There is considerable ill feeling and resistance towards mobile home developments. There is a basis of truth to all the complaints—mobile homes in the past have been utilitarian and ugly in appearance; trailer parks have looked unsightly, they do place an unreasonable burden on services."

The report says these difficulties can be cured "and the outlook that mobile homes should be banned completely is as extreme as advocating amputation to cure a headache. The biased public viewpoint is a real enough problem to the mobile home resident who must feel discriminated against."

Park Urged For Charlottes

The president of the Federation of B.C. Naturalists today urged creation of a national park in the Queen Charlotte Islands with the remainder of the federal government's $10 million gift for British Columbia's 1971 centennial.

The government has already allocated $3 million for an Indian artifacts museum at the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Tom M. C. Taylor, a former head of the University of British Columbia's botany department and one of Canada's best known botanists, told a Victoria press conference that such a project would benefit the whole province.

The federation represents nine naturalists' societies in the province. Its main aim is conservation and making people aware of their environment.

Taylor said UBC badly needs a museum to store its Indian art treasures and artifacts.

But, he argued, suggestions that the remaining money should be used for a number of small and local projects appear to fall short of the intended purpose of the money.

"We should choose instead some project that would be of benefit to the province as a whole — something that the people in the future can point to as an example of the foresight we displayed in spending this money," he said.

He said the Queen Charlotte Islands are unique in many ways.

"For example, little of the very large spruce stands on the islands will be saved if we don't take action now," he said.

Taylor said while the islands are comparatively isolated and unknown to most people in the province, they would not be so in the near future.

JOLTED YOUTH STILL ALIVE

Steven Warswick, 14, of Jordan River, remains in poor condition in St. Joseph's Hospital after being nearly electrocuted Saturday by a live wire atop a B.C. Hydro building.

The youth climbed over a fence and up to the top of the Hydro Building where he touched a 60,000 volt high tension wire.

BUILDING WAS EMPTY BEFORE FIRE

There were no people in the Rainbow Sea Cadet building on Robert Street when fire broke out Monday, Deputy Fire Chief Carl Coates said today.

The Times reported erroneously Tuesday that several persons were in the building.

Coates said the building was not properly secured prior to the $3,000 fire, thought to be a result of careless smoking by an unknown person or persons.

Ask the Times

Q. Are there any anti-noise regulations in the City of Victoria. I am referring to *the many violations of motor*cycles, "auto cowboys" and drivers who take delight in shattering the silence by squealing their tires, and of course, those who drive automobiles without proper mufflers.—C.L.

A. A city bylaw prohibits squealing tires. And regulations under the provincial Motor Vehicles Act forbid loud exhaust noise due to improper mufflers.

Gaglardi Called 'Enemy of Poor'

Provincial Rehabilitation Minister Philip Gaglardi has made himself "an enemy of the poor" and should be dismissed, Frank Cox of the Victoria Citizens' Committee on Unemployment said today.

He said Gaglardi has acted irresponsibly by refusing to give welfare to locked-out or striking workers.

Cox made his statement as he was preparing to lead an afternoon march of unemployed and poor people from Bastion Square to the View Street office of the Provincial Alliance of Businessmen.

The Alliance, formed by Gaglardi to help the unemployed find work, has been incorporated into the rehabilitation department.

The demonstration this afternoon was to include members of the Low Income Group as well.

Cox condemned the minister's "contradictory" statement about the rehabilitation department's assessment form. Cox said Gaglardi has confused the poor by saying one day that people will be cut off welfare if they refuse to fill out the form and later saying this is not true.

The delegation planned to present a brief demanding the dissolution of the Alliance and five other items:

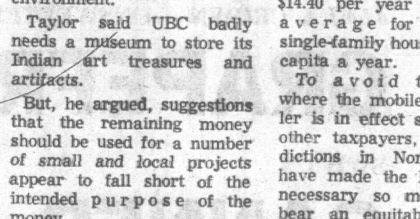
- Doubling welfare rates or immediate implementation of a guaranteed annual income.
- Equal unemployment opportunities and wages for women.
- The creation of make-work projects at acceptable rates of pay.
- Doubling of the old age pension.
- An end to the "resource sellout."

Cox said the PAB is nothing more than political patronage for Gaglardi's friends, is a waste of money and has staff unqualified to help others find work.

He said the delegation will also object that the PAB has access to confidential information from welfare offices without being qualified to receive and act on that information.

Following presentation of the brief at the PAB office, the delgation was to march to Canada Manpower at 1415 Vancouver to meet manager George Bevis.

It's Time to End Discrimination —Saanich Report



Arthur Mayse...

OF THE MAKING OF books there is no end, as a critic whose name I don't recall observed with a certain petulance many centuries ago. Times haven't changed since he gave that remark to posterity.

People are still making books without end, and all too frequently without any real *middle or beginning. Some*times such books find publishers. They have even been known to sell.

But oftener than not, and especially in the case of fiction attempted, the net result is a mass of manuscript pages that will never make the transition into print.

When time and effort expended *bring no better re*ward, it's easy to blame editors for failing to recognize a good thing when it lands on their desks.

I've listened to that plaint any number of times from disappointed men and women who have failed entirely to digest the requirements that fiction imposes.

The first of these, as I've noted it over the years, is a sense of story. Latent storey-sense manifests itself in a liking for fiction.

Reading and writing in fact, go together like crossed fingers. The person who doesn't read fiction from natural interest is most unlikely to turn out a piece of creative writing which will justify the effort expended on it.

Another requirement is a capacity for hard labor, and sufficient toughness of spirit to take discouragement in stride.

Writing a book can be a hellish discouraging business. That's one reason why so many novels briskly begun die untimely. And, contrary to widely-held belief, writing is hard work.

I know, I know. Writing looks easy. After all, what's required except to take a sheet of paper and fill it with words? But as every professional of less than genius status comes to realize, there are days when the right words stubbornly refuse to materalize.

When those words must combine to achieve characters who will be more than mere names to some hoped-for future reader, the job can become grim indeed.

Yet that requirement beyond all others is the one imposed on anybody who would reap more than rejection slips or polite letters of refusal for his fiction.

Let's put the matter to an experiment. Think of any novel, play or short story that has stuck in your memory more than a very few years.

What caused it to stick? The background against which it was set? The impact of the author's descriptive passages. His easy way with narrative?

All may contribute to a memorable book. But you may find in this testing of memory that the author's story-people remain when much else has been lost.

Take away Long John Silver from Treasure Island, and you might still have a good tale of buried treasure. But without the one-legged sea cook, I very much doubt that the book would have survived to be read by successive generations.

Victoria has its share of would-be fiction writers. Few of them realize this hard necessity of translating ideas through characters fashioned as closely to flesh-and-blood people as effort and latent ability will permit.

Oftener than not, they have also failed to grasp another basic requirement imposed by his medium on the story-teller. This is the necessity of coming up with a valid story problem.

There are still other requirements. One of them is sufficient arrogance to believe or at least hope, that some portion of what you put on paper is worth somebody else's attention.

It may be, it may not be. No guarantees attach to the creative writer's difficult and lonely craft. Still, the only way in which a person afflicted with writer's itch can arrive at an answer is this:

Get it down — mail it out — and for what cold comfort the fact may bring, be assured that even the pros draw rejections enough to temper arrogance with humility.

KANAREK RAPPED BY MANSON, FITZGERALD

Tate Defence Attorneys Argue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles M. Manson shook his head in displeasure as his lawyer, Irving Kanarek, cross-examined the county coroner about the Sharon Tate murders.

"Doctor, do you have any opinion on whether Abigail Folger received any of her injuries in the place where she came to rest on the lawn of. . . ."

"Objection, your honor!" cried Paul Fitzgerald, lawyer for defendant Patricia Krenwinkel. When Kanarek protested that he hadn't finished, Fitzgerald added: "The question is objectionable as far as it went."

"But your honor," said Kanarek, "maybe I could have saved it."

At that point Tuesday, Manson renewed his efforts to fire Kanarek and represent himself. The judge denied Manson's motion.

"This man is not doing what I want," he said of the lawyer, whose conduct also has been criticized by other defence lawyers.

HURTS DEFENCE

Manson was perturbed Tuesday, reliable sources said, because Kanarek's questioning hurt the defence of his three women co-defendants. The state's key witness, Linda Kasabian, has testified that she saw Miss Krenwinkel chasing Miss Folger acros the lawn while holding a raised knife. The dark-haired coffee heiress was stabbed 28 times, the coroner has said.

Kanarek's question, the source said, reinforced the prosecution theory of a chase across the lawn.

The judge excused the jury and allowed Manson to argue his motion.

"I have no rapport with this attorney," said Manson. "I've asked Mr. Kanarek to do certain things but it has no effect."

Manson said if he couldn't represent himself, he wanted all four lawyers "hooked up" under one leader, Fitzgerald. The judge repeated his belief that Manson is incompetent to represent himself and said no lawyer can be made subject to orders from another. He denied the motion.

'NOT QUITE PRECISION MARCHERS'

Student Army Likes Work

TORONTO (CP) — In Ontario, 2,376 students have been marching, drilling, sweating and learning their way through summer in a militia program designed to keep them off the streets and out of trouble. And they like it.

"Troop, 'tenshun. . . . Forward march. . . . Left, right, left, right " bellows the corporal at the sweating teenagers who tramp with something less than steel-honed precision in the Moss Park armories.

"I think it's a good program —it certainly keeps a lot of boys off the streets in the summer," said Master Warrant Officer Hilary Donville of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

In Canada, 14,055 boys were enrolled in the summer soldier program, which Allan MacEachen, minister of manpower and immigration, announced in June as an answer to student unemployment this summer.

The program was to supply 10,000 students with summer jobs, both in the militia and on the regular labor market. But the plan became so popular that that number was increased until some students had to be turned away.

The defence department offers five summer programs for male and female students and 8,711 students were in the seven-week militia program. Another 3,481 were hired by the department to do maintenance work at military installations, such as painting, repairing, office and mess work.

In the militia program which started July 13, a student in the first two weeks of basic training earned $7 a day and an additional 50 cents a day after this. Students in non-soldier jobs were paid the going rate in the area in which they worked. Cost of the plan was about $7.52 million.

INTEREST AROUSED

Maj. W. E. Lloyd, battery commander of the 7th Toronto Regiment, an artillery unit, said of the summer soldiers: "I think that all they wanted basically was summer employment, but my approach now is to arouse their interest so that they will stay with the unit."

Sam Cirone, 21, who joined the 7th Toronto Regiment as a summer soldier said: "Other summers I've worked for Loblaws, but I thought this might be something different. . . . I wanted to learn about responsibility."

The most exciting part of the program for the student soldiers was the three-day exercise at Camp Petawawa, 100 miles northwest of Ottawa. The boys climbed cliffs, negotiated rafts on the Ottawa River, fired their artillery pieces and slept in tents through three days of rain.

"I got used to that," said Sam. "The only thing, it didn't last long enough."

Boys in the program report at 7:45 a.m. and inspection is at 8 a.m. Then they take classes or march, or practise with the 105-m.m. howitzers. They have breaks for coffee and lunch and spend the afternoons in sporting activities.

The students learn to fire semi-automatic rifles and machine-guns, and learn fieldcraft, such as digging trenches, first aid, military law, compass work, map reading, service customs and hygiene.

Defence Minister Leo Cadieux said he only has one regret about the program. "We were unable to enrol all those who applied."

Circus Marriage Will Have to Wait

TORONTO (CP) — Dora the 778-pound Fat Lady and Gypsy Joe the sword swallower have had to postpone their planned marriage on the Canadian National Exhibition midway.

A spokesman for Dora said Tuesday she had to break her contract with the exhibition Monday when she was forced to enter a Knoxville, Tenn., hospital for treatment of phlebitih.

"She had unbearable pain in her legs and we thought it might be a bad blood clot," said her employer, Sam Alexander.

Gypsy Joe, a Quebecer who weights 137 pounds, had said he and Dora "were going to marry on the midway a couple of days before Labor Day. "Now we'll have to wait until she gets back to California," he said.

The two, engaged five weeks ago, have known each other for more than 10 years.

Mr. Alexander said Dora is five feet, two inches tall, measures 108 inches around the waist, 41 inches around the upper arm and 45 inches at the knee. She gains an average of 30 to 40 pounds a year because of an over-active pituitary gland.

LAURENCE OLIVIER flew to Spain today for a month's convalescence after being discharged from hospital where he was treated for a thrombosis. The 63-year-old actor-director has been ordered to rest for two or three months after being stricken earlier this moth with the thrombosis and bronchial pneumonia.

U.S. GIRL SAILOR DISCHARGED

Pregnancy Policy Rapped

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Seaman Anna Flores has filed a federal court suit saying the United States Navy discharges pregnant servicewomen but takes no action against the sailors responsible for the pregnancies.

The suit says Seaman Flores, 22, became pregnant by her fiance, a sailor stationed with her at the navy's Whiting Field near Pensacola.

Miss Flores said the navy took action to discharge her after she miscarried last spring. The discharge is pending.

In the suit filed Monday, Miss Flores asked the U.S. District Court in Pensacola to prohibit the discharge on grounds that the navy discriminates against women by discharging them for becoming pregnant while not discharging the sailors who make them pregnant.

—"Have sexual intercourse with women to whom they are not married and not discharged therefore.

—"Father children out of wedlock and not discharged therefore.

Date Labels Asked for Packaged Foods

By RAY DICK

WASHINGTON (CP) — A New York congressman whose bill to require open dating of food packages on grocery shelves is buried in committee, has asked the Federal Trade Commission to impose such regulations, and to include canned foods.

Leonard Farbstein (Dem. N.Y.) says package foods and canned foods do not last indefinitely, and he wants the FTC to require manufacturers to replace their coded dating system, which few consumers understand, with dating system which all can read.

Farbstein introduced legislation last fall after conducting surveys of supermarkets which he said showed large quantities of out-of-date foods were being sold.

He said some store managers repackaged items with new labels and code dates and some ignored coded dates on meat and poultry, substituting their own judgment as to when the items should be removed from the shelves.

One store manager who ignored coded dates, he said, told surveyors he would remove poultry from sale when it began to smell or turn reddish or yellowish, or when little growths began to appear.

The legislation Farbstein introduced last fall would require every good item subject to deterioration to be openly dated. The date shown on the package would be one day after that on which the shelf life of the food would normally expire.

A Log Cabin With Three Bathrooms?

By DONNA CLEMENTS

MILL BAY — More and more people want to go back to the pioneer days by living in log houses, but, not without all the modern conveniences.

Leo Le Roy, 36, of Mill Bay, who builds "log and rustic" homes said this is a definite trend.

Le Roy said he helped friends build a few log cabins in Quesnel and this area before he contracted on a project on Chapman Road, Cobble Hill, over two years ago.

"Other people saw the project and now the orders have been rolling in," he said.

He then formed Le Roy Construction for the sole purpose of building log houses and took on his foster brother Lloyd Jensen, 37, and Walt Sonntag, 42, both of Mill Bay, as percentage partners.

CHIEF NOTCHER

Sonntag, former logger and millwright, is the chief notcher and fitter while carpenter Jensen handles the carpentry and framing end of the construction.

Le Roy said they hire local sub tradesmen to handle projects such as cement finishing, electrical wiring, roofing, and plumbing.

The men are working on their sixth project and they have at least 15 more orders.

"We even have orders for business establishments to be built out of logs."

Le Roy said they buy logs wherever they can and sometimes they log themselves.

"We prefer to work with fir logs because cedar has too much taper. The demand is high for both."

When the men first began constructing the homes they used hand tools.

"The more you do the easier they get," said Le Roy. "Especially now that we try to use all modern mechanical tools. We even have "Suzie" which is our cat with a 20-foot-boom that we use to lift logs up to 1,000 pounds."

Le Roy said the profit made in building log homes is not too high but the wages are good.

He said it costs people around the same as it would to have any other house built.

"A log house we just completed in West Saanich is 1,140 square feet on the main floor. It has two bathrooms, full basement and four bedrooms. It cost $20,000 completed."

They are also in the finishing stages of a $25,000 home for a retired Edmonton banker on Butterfield Road at Mill Bay.

"Although the home is 47 by 28 feet it only has two bedrooms," explained Le Roy.

"It has three bathrooms, two fireplaces, a full basement and a rumpus room."

'REALLY DIFFERENT'

The men are also working on a $6,500 summer cottage at Shawnigan Lake.

"I have built all kinds but this one is really different," said Le Roy.

He said the 16 by 60 foot 'V' shaped cottage was designed by the owners.

Le Roy said the smallest log they use is six inches in diameter while the largest is 12 inches.

Funeral Held For Former Alderman

DUNCAN— Funeral services for a former alderman were held here today.

Businessman Walter Maxwell Hudson, 66, died suddenly in the Cowichan and District Hospital Friday.

Hudson, born in Cumberland, came to Duncan in 1930. He operated the Greenhaven Cafe and later bought and renovated the building which is now known as the Hudson Block.

He also owned and operated Hudson's Hardware which he sold when he retired in 1963.

As well as being a former Duncan alderman, Hudson was an honorary fireman, a member of the Duncan Rotary Club, Temple Lodge AF and AM, Maple Bay Yacht Club, the Cowichan Golf and Country Club and the Cowichan Rugby Club.

Hudson is survived by his wife Agnes, son Byron, at home, and daughter Mrs. Eric Duncan, who is returning here from Hawaii. He also has a brother Wilbur Hudson at Comox and a sister Mrs. Alex Davison at Ucluelet.

Catches Of Halibut Up This Year

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Halibut landings by Canadian and American fishing fleets of the Pacific coast this summer show a slight increase from 1969, the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission said Tuesday.

Total to Aug. 15 was 42,601,000 pounds, compared with 42,061,000 pounds to that date a year ago.

Canadians caught 22,889,000 pounds, down about 1 million while U.S. boats got 19,712,000 pounds, an increase of 2.5 million pounds.

Biggest catch was in the northern British Columbia fishery which reported 12,647,000 pounds.

Central Alaska was next with 3,257,000 pounds. Southern B.C. and Washington each had about 1.7 million pounds.

The commission predicted halibut fishing in the principal areas 2 and 3A would continue until late in September.

CUPE Locked Out

TRAIL (CP) — Five school boards in the West Kootenay and Boundary districts of British Columbia Tuesday locked out members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees after a strike began against the Trail school board Monday.

The five boards, and Selkirk regional college at Castlegar, said in a joint statement that lockout notices would be served in any area where agreement hasn't been reached with CUPE.

Aubrey Burton, national CUPE representative for the Kootenays, said Monday school board employees at Castlegar, Grand Forks and Selkirk college had turned down the latest offer and were expected to strike soon.

Fernie, Kimberley and Creston-Kaslo CUPE locals are to vote on the offer later this week, while agreement has apparently been reached in Nelson and Slocan.

In the strike at Trail, 60 members of the CUPE picketed school board offices after rejecting the board's final offer of a $70-a-month increase in a two-year contract.

500 Young Americans Cuba-Bound for Fruit Harvest

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Bound for Cuba, the freighter Conrado Benitez slipped out of Saint John harbor late Tuesday afternoon carrying about 500 young Americans who will harvest citrus fruit in the Caribbean island country.

Members of the Venceremos Brigade, an organization sympathetic to Cuba's Castro government, the group arrived here early Monday and boarded the freighter Tuesday after processing by customs and immigration officials.

The travellers were the third group of Americans to leave for harvest work in Cuba. The others worked in sugar cane fields.

Tentative plans call for a fourth group to make the trip again via Saint John in mid-October.

Driver Faces Five Charges

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police laid five charges against a 31-year-old truck driver Tuesday following the traffic deaths Monday of a Vancouver mother and two of her children.

Kenneth Charles Brown of Vancouver is charged with three counts of criminal negligence, leaving the scene of an accident and driving with a blood-alcohol content above .08 per cent.

He appeared in provincial court Tuesday and was remanded in custody until today.

Mrs. Chang Fong Louie, 39, and two of her children, Lai Shan, 8, and Lerayne, 5, were struck down and killed by a car as they crossed a street.

SHIP'S SPEED 13 KNOTS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Soviet freighter Sergey Yesenin was moving at about 13 knots two minutes before it collided with a British Columbia Government ferry Aug. 2, the freighter's navigation officer said Tuesday.

N. N. Burnos, winding up the third day of his evidence at a federal inquiry into the collision, said the freighter's speed was reduced just before the crash when power was changed to full astern.

The freighter's master, Capt. N. G. Khaustov, was to testify today as the inquiry continued.

Cross-examined by T. P. Cameron, counsel for R. J. Pollock, captain of the ferry, Queen of Victoria, Burnos said he knew Active Pass was frequently used by large vessels such as the ferry.

Asked if it was safe for the freighter to maintain its starboard station approaching Active Pass, Burnos said it was safe and in keeping with international regulations.

He said he did not see the ferry until about two minutes before the collision. At this point, he said, the Soviet freighter's speed was roughly 12½ to 13 knots.

Provinces Will Be Denied Broadcast Licence—CRTC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission announced Tuesday approval of a licence renewal to Sept. 30, 1973, for CHEK-TV in Victoria.

The commission granted licences to March 31, 1974, for 58 CBC lower-power relay transmitters and 12 CBC short-wave transmitters.

The commission also announced that, effective from last June 4, broadcasting licences may not be issued to provincial governments or their agents, including municipalities and educational institutions.

However, an appliation for renewal of a licence that was in effect April 1, 1968, might be granted for a term not to extend beyond March 31, 1972.

The announcement is in line with a statement June 9 by State Secretary Gerard Pelletier in which he said broadcasting licences should not be issued to provinces or their agents.

CRTC legal counsel John Hylton said Tuesday the ruling will apply to CFRC AM and FM radio operated by Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.; CJRT-FM, operated by Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto; and CJUS-FM at the University of Saskatchewan.

It would also affect CKUA AM and FM at the University of Alberta, a station maintained and operated by Alberta Government Telephones.

Hylton said the CRTC is in consultation with the stations to arrange for "a suitable corporate structure" to take over ownership and operation.

Cable TV operators will be required to set aside a channel for educational programming by provincial authorities when this is requested by a provincial government.

The commission said it received a directive from the federal government stating that no cable licence may be issued or renewed after March 30, 1970, in cases where a channel on the system has been requested by a province unless the CRTC stipulates that such a channel be set aside.

The CRTC said any channel used by provincial authorities must be for programming "designed to be presented in such a context as to provide a continuity of learning opportunity aimed at the acquisition or improvement of knowledge or the enlargment of ... understanding. ..."

PUBLIC HEARINGS SET

OTTAWA (CP) — The Special Joint Committee on the Constitution of Canada announced Tuesday it will hold public hearings across Canada next year.

Dates and locations of the hearings will be announced later, a committee spokesman said.

The spokesman said the committee will hear representations and briefs at the public hearings, both across Canada and in Ottawa.

The committee was set up by Parliament to review the proposals made by the federal government to the constitutional conference which has met on occasion during the last 2½ years.

FIRE FIGHTERS SENT IN

By The Associated Press

Fire fighters from Alaska and Missouri headed for Washington and Oregon Tuesday to help battle more than 100 forest blazes burning across the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

About 525 emergency firefighters from Alaska Indian villages were to tackle fires in the blackened Wenatchee National Forest in north-central Washington.

Fires in the Willamette National Forest of Oregon were to be battled by 26 southern Missouri firefighters from the Mark Twain National Forest.

Lightning fires which flared across the Pacific Northwest over the weekend still raged late Tuesday, with little signs of relief.

WOULD YOUR SON DO WELL IN A BOARDING SCHOOL ENVIRONMENT? HE CAN HAVE IT AS A DAY BOY — AT A LITTLE OVER ⅓ THE BOARDER'S FEE

With our unique location at Mount Tolmie, serving all of Greater Victoria, we have decided to increase our day boy enrollment by 40%. This means that a day boy can have exactly the same education, training and advantages as a boarder — for a little more than ⅓ the fee.

CONSIDER THESE ADVANTAGES:

- Syllabus based on the requirements of the Provincial Government Education Department and College Entrance Examination Board.
- Teaching Staff hand picked — each a specialist in his own field.
- Sports and other planned activities organized to encourage leadership, the capacity to co-operate and the ability to get along with others.
- The development of personal integrity through the encouragement of self-discipline.
- A balanced training designed to develop the all-round boy, who can confidently meet the challenges of the future.

Phone for an appointment with the Headmaster, Mr. R. L. Gordon, B.A. (Alberta), M.A. (Oxon) (Rhodes scholar). He will be glad to discuss your son's education and future with you.

Peaches Romanoff

6 egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 1½ cup orange juice or ¾ cup sherry plus ¾ cup orange juice, 1 cup heavy cream, 2½ lbs. fresh peaches, lemon juice.

Beat yolks until frothy; add sugar and continue beating until light and lemon colored. Stir in orange juice. Cook in double boiler over just simmering water, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Cool and chill. Whip cream until thick and shiny; fold into custard mixture. As near serving time as possible peel the peaches and dip at once into lemon juice mixed with a little water to prevent discoloring. Slice the peaches fairly thick; reserve a few extra-pretty slices for garnish, and fold the rest into the custard-cream mixture. Heap in the centre of a cold serving dish and garnish with reserved peach slices, strawberries or cherries dipped in icing sugar if desired. 8 servings.

From Bea Wright

Cooking has its own glossary of words and techniques which can sometimes be a bit confusing. Below are just a few of the most frequently asked about terms with their definitions.

BLANCH: To pour boiling water over food to remove skins from certain nuts and fruit; to whiten; to rinse off surface starch to prevent starchy foods such as rice and macaroni from sticking together.

BRAISE: To cook meat with a combination of dry and moist heat. The meat may be browned by broiling, baking or frying. After liquid is added, cover the pan with a tight lid, and then cook the meat at a low temperature.

CARAMELIZED: To heat sugar or foods containing sugar until a brown colour and of caramel flavour.

DREDGE: To sprinkle or coat with flour or other dry ingredients.

SIMMER: To cook in liquid at about 85F. The liquid may show movement or bubbling, but the bubbles tend to form slowly and to break below the surface.

Manpower Girls Try Pant Power

Next time you're in Victoria's Canada Manpower office, check out the minis. There aren't any. But the legs on those pant-suits!

The Manpower girls, for reasons best known only to themselves, have revolutionized their office decor by wearing pant-suits to work. The outfits have been popular for several years in the social context but have not, as yet, 'caught on' for general office wear.

Three Hours a Night May Soon Be Enough

CHICAGO (UPI) — Parents who'd like their children to get to bed earlier and sleep later are fighting a losing battle, says one mattress manufacturer.

The company's experts predict that by the end of the 20th century, children (and adults too) may be getting along on as little as three hours sleep a night and thriving. The prediction is based on the growing endurance of humans, more reasons for staying awake, and the long-term trend of human evolution.

Canoeists Arrived In Time for Show

TORONTO (CP) — Four girls paddled into the Canadian National Exhibition by canoe Monday — more than 1,000 miles and two months after they set out from Moosonee, Ont., near James Bay.

Their 65-day adventure started June 21 and included going over a waterfall, getting lost and being washed ashore.

Linda Fitzgerald, 27, of London, Ont., Donna Davidson, 26, of Toronto, Sally Gray, 23, of Trenton, Ont., and Pat Brousseau, 18, of Timmins, Ont., arrived as celebrites at the CNE waterfront during an afternoon water show.

All but Pat are physical education teachers, and Pat, who hopes to attend Lakehead University this fall, is aiming for a similar career.

The girls had to portage over rough sections varying from a few feet to three-quarters of a mile, carrying 300 pounds of equipment, including canoes.

The girls estimated they made between 50 and 60 portages.

The travelled 12 hours a day, averaging 17 miles daily. At night they would pitch a tent near the water and get six to eight hours of sleep.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Boomerang Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am just about ready to blow my brains out. What did I do wrong? I went with Al for four years. He was married, but he and his wife never got along. We spent every weekend together. Pretty soon Al had more clothes at my apartment than he had at home. I even paid for his psychotherapy for a year. I never looked at another man. I loaned him money, shared my car with him, cooked for him, did his laundry and waited patiently for the day his divorce became final. Well, it did, five weeks ago. Last night he told me that the only "real" love in a man's life is his first love, so he has decided to remarry his ex-wife!

Why are men such rats, and why are women such fools? —Adele.

DEAR ADELE: You have just qualified for the Old-Too-Soon, Smart-Too-Late Club (women's department). Listed below are the most common traps which make membership automatic:

(a) An affair with a married man whose wife doesn't understand him. (She's usually "cold," extravagant or sick.)

(b) The working woman who keeps working while her boy friend keeps telling her he can't marry her until his mother dies, his kids are grown, or he gets all his debts paid off. (This never happens.)

(c) The woman who falls for the man-about-town who boasts publicly that he's not the marrying kind, but she hangs on thinking she's the one woman in the world who can get him to change his mind.

DEAR ABBY: I think the daughter who sent you her mother's letter about having her favorite cat "put gently to sleep" and buried with her ought to see about having her mother "put gently to sleep." It sounds to me as though the old broad is a little dippy.

Ask her if there isn't perhaps a friend or two whom she'd like to "reward" for their devotion by having them "put gently to sleep" with her.

If she doesn't, I have a few I'd like to volunteer, among them, that fat-headed daughter who sent in her mother's letter. Sounds to me as if mental aberrations run in the family.

I agree completely with your reply. "Let nature decide." However, I'd like to suggest to the old bat that if she's really worried about the cat's welfare, she should make provisions in her will for the cat's care.

Failing that, she should make sure somebody competent will care for her cat after she's gone. I only hope that somebody isn't the same sort of "animal lover" she is.—Owned by a Cat.

DEAR OWNED: Thanks for your support. I needed it. Would you believe my mail ran two to one in favor of doing away with the cat? In the interest of fairness, here is a letter from the opposition:

DEAR ABBY: You apparently don't know much about cats, judging from your advice to that lovely elderly cat owner who asked if she should have her cat put gently to sleep and cremated with her, should she outlive the cat.

May I send word to her via you? She should, by all means, have that precious pet put to sleep and buried with her. Cats are essentially one-person animals. Having lived with her all these years, he would be lonely and forlorn without her, looking for her, crying for her, and wondering why she had deserted him. And at last he would wander off somewhere to die alone of a broken heart.

I hope you will reverse your decision.—Cat Lover.

DEAR LOVER: I'm a cat lover, too, and I can't see killing a perfectly healthy cat just because somebody decided that he is destined to die of a broken heart. He may miraculously survive the loss and have a ball. Besides, it could be his ninth life.

What's your problem? you'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

you're sew right

By DALE CAVANAGH

Flexible Placket

Zippers have just about become a way of life in today's sewing. Still, according to designer Irene Gilbert, there are times when another type of closing is preferable.

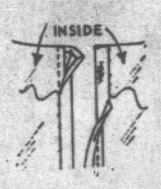
Though zippers are used in many of her clothes, Miss Gilbert feels a zipper's positive rigidity detracts from the elegance of a filmy chiffon or delicate lace gown. In these she uses a more flexible self-fabric placket discreetly fastened with tiny snaps (she calls them poppers. Evenly spaced between the snaps are sewn small hooks and eyes. The snaps can be covered with circlets of matching chiffon or if the gown is lace, with circlets of matching china silk.

Miss Gilbert says the wearer may wish she had a lady's maid to hook up the back, but once fastened, the graceful appearance of the gown is worth the initial minor difficulty.

To make the fabric placket: Face the overlapping edge with a bias strip cut 1¼" wide. To the remaining edge, make an underlap by adding an extension fold of a straight strip of fabric cut a scant 2" wide. Facing and extension fold should be ½" wide finished. See illustrations.

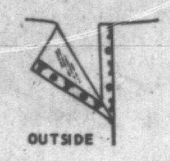
1. With right sides together join bias to seam line of overlapping edge. (Front edge on left side closing — left edge on centre cack closing.)

Similarly join straight strip to remaining edge.



2. Trim seams. Turn bias to inside, turn in ¼" along raw edge and slip-stitch to inside.

Turn under ¼" along raw edge of straight strip and slipstich along machine stitching inside, forming an extension fold.



3. Sew snaps about 2" apart and hooks and eyes between.

Big Buckles and Upside Down Letters Teach Clothes-Conscious Preschoolers

NEW YORK (UPI) — ABC's take to fashion in clothes that teach as well as adorn.

The concept of educational clothes comes from Ruth Sharf, a children's wear designer, who feels that now is the perfect time to put the clothes on the market.

"Everyone's so education conscious these days," she said in an interview. "Parents want to buy things that will teach their children something."

Miss Sharf's educational clothes include a manipulation group with big buckles, zippers, buttons and snaps to teach a child how to dress himself.

Another group with letter appliques teaches the alphabet. The letters are upside down so the child looks down on them.

Clothes with red and green "stop" and "go" signals teach the fundamentals of traffic safety.

Miss Sharf said her fall collection will include a group to teach word letter association, such as denim pants set with the letter "R" and a picture of a rooster. She said she also planned to make more extensive use of snaps and laces.

"Although we have to keep giving the children something new, there are still certain basic functions that will retain, such as the manipulation and safety group," she said.

The educational clothes come in separates so they can be mixed or matched. All are for ages two to four, but Miss Sharf plans a new line that will go to age six. Prices range from $4 to $12.

Colors are bright and basic, styles simple but flattering. "Everyone has gone so fashion conscious," Miss Hart said.

"Children's clothes have become too complicated. We try to make these clothes simple, yet appealing.

She said she has found that children react better to bright colors.

To the clothes in general, she said reactions varied. "Each child reacts differently, but most are eager to learn.

The important thing is to get them interested in learning at an early age and to continue with it."

Miss Sharf, an avid fan of television's Sesame Street and Romper Room, said she found that little girls learn faster than little boys.

She's a former knitwear designer and a stylist for an underwear firm and says her idea for the educational clothes came from a young mother who remarked that since so many things were being done to educate children, why not clothes?

After doing some research on what children were capable of doing and not doing at certain ages, she added the educational clothes to her already existing children's wear company, Ruth Sharf, Ltd.

In January of this year, she decided to set up a separate firm, Educational Clothes, Inc.

"Sales almost tripled the first season," she said. "The New York area was the first really to get in it, but the clothes are on the coast now and doing very well."

"If they're put in with everything else they just become another item," she said.

"I would like to see them set up in separate departments and promoted that way."

Native Women's Liberation Front Takes Aim at Squaw Image

By GINNY GALT

The underdogs' underdogs are starting to bark.

The native women of Canada have united and formed a group called the Native Women's Liberation Front.

Nonnie Elliott, of the Tsartlip Indian Reserve in West Saanich, said the group is in no way connected with the Women's Liberation Front in Vancouver.

"We don't want abortion. Enough of our people are dying already."

"We want people to think of our women as humans."

Mrs. Elliott said Indian women have been oppressed for a long time — "since the first white settler came to this country and raped my great great great grandmother."

"And we've been oppressed in two ways — by the white men, and by our own men."

The white men looked down on the Indian people, especially on the Indian women. The Indian men were brainwashed by the white men into thinking the Indian women were to be stepped on.

"The Indian men used us as slaves, for their own needs and for what they wanted from us. And they thought the white woman was supreme, even though she looked down on them.

"After they used us, they'd turn around and hope a white woman would notice them."

She said the Native Women's Liberation Front has made progress with the Indian men.

"We have told our brothers that Indian women are beautiful. We are destroying the squaw image."

She said they met with their men and told them Indian women were their equals.

"We told them we were fighting for the same rights they were, and that we were 50 per cent of their fighting force."

And they saw the point.

"Now all our sisters want to convey to the people that we are ready and willing to help our men in the struggle for Indian equality in society."

But, the damage that had been done to Indian women couldn't be undone.

"Many of our sisters have the feeling in the back of their mind that they're inferior not only to white men and women, but to our own men. We still have to get together on it a lot more."

"The Indian woman gets an education on the reserve, but there are no jobs for her, so she goes off to the city looking for work."

She would look all over for a job, but usually wouldn't get one because she hadn't the looks or the dress.

Pretty soon she'd run out of money and sell her body. There are several white women who do the same, Nonnie said.

"It's hard to change an image. We've had so much bad publicity."

MEET IN WINNIPEG

Young Drivers Talk Traffic Safety

WINNIPEG (CP) — Youthful enthusiasm for highway safety turned a one-shot centennial project in 1967 into a national association of safety-conscious drivers.

About 100 members of the Canada Council of Young Drivers will turn up here today to promote traffic safety at the council's fourth annual conference.

Cathy Riggall of Winnipeg, a 20-year-old university student who got her first brush with safety promotion in Ottawa in 1967, says now she likes to think the young organization that sprang from the centennial project is partly responsible for the growing awareness among the public for traffic safety.

Miss Riggall was one of 130 young people invited to Ottawa —the number of participants was symbolic of the average weekly death and injury total among Canada's youth—to attend a week-long conference on safety sponsored by the Insurance Bureau of Canada.

"We were pretty enthusiastic and the sponsors, along with government officials, were so impressed they asked if we wanted an annual conference and if we'd like to plan it," Miss Riggall said.

That was how the council started, with 27 of the original delegates to Ottawa sitting down to plan and develop a program for the next conference.

PRODUCE REPORT

The council recently conducted a national study on driver education, producing a report that has been used extensively both internally and by the Canada Safety Council.

Included in the study were recommendations that driver training be compulsory, that both the courses and instructors be improved and that adequate financing be provided.

Miss Riggall said the council tends to advocate more-stringent measures than senior organizations. To prove her point, she noted the young drivers' council recommended that alcohol impairment be set at .05 per cent while the legal rating was set at the higher alcohol level count of .08 per cent.

At this year's conference, the delegates, who range between 17 and 23 years of age, will discuss characteristics of young drivers, manufacturers' responsibilities, driver education and topics relating to drugs and driving.

Among their activities will be a 70-mile car rally with the winner decided on the basis of driving safety.

Hefty Americans Unite To Fight Skinny Power

By JUDY KLEMESRUD

NEW YORK — For years they've been the butt of comedians' jokes. They can't get certain jobs, they can't always find clothes to fit, and they are constantly being told they're unhealthy. Then, when they turn on their television sets to try to escape from it all, they're bombarded with commercials that say things like: "Cigarettes are like women — the best ones are thin and rich."

But now, fat people are beginning to fight back.

A new organization, called the National Association to Aid Fat Americans (NAAFA), is dedicated to the proposition that fat can be beautiful.

"There are a lot of people willing to believe that fat is beautiful if only they'd hear someone say it," said William J. Fabrey, a 29-year-old electronics engineer from Hempstead, N.Y., who founded the group and is now its president. "But up until now, nobody has said it."

After hearing words like those, one might expect Fabrey to be fat. He isn't. He weighs only 175 pounds. But his wife of six years, Joyce, weighs "more than 200 pounds" — and he wants her that way.

"In South America, overweight women are not looked down on," he said. "The South Sea Islands and the Germanic cultures prefer well-endowed women. In fact, the only places where fat is not beautiful are Western Europe and the United States."

Mr. and Mrs. Fabrey, who are the parents of a 2½-year-old daughter, were participants in a recent discussion to consider the problems of fat people and the reasons NAAFA was formed. The others included:

So far, NAAFA has about 100 members throughout the United States, 30 per cent of them in the New York area. Half are men, half are women: and half are fat, half are thin. (The thin people who join NAAFA do so for various reasons, but mostly because they are friends or spouses of fat people, and have observed close up the ways fat people are discriminated against.) Dues are $6 a year, and entitle a member to the bi-monthly NAAFA Newsletter and voting privileges.

Members are not encouraged either to lose weight or stay fat. Many of them also belong to reducing organizations such as Weight Watchers or Take Off Pounds Sensible (TOPS).

"We are trying to change one thing — the low self-esteem of the average fat person," said Miss Lubin, who has probably received as much help as anyone from the group's meetings.

"My hemlines have gone up 7 inches since I joined NAAFA," she said. "Before, I was very self-conscious about my heavy thighs. But now, after meeting with people who found me attractive, I have a new philosophy: If you've got it, flaunt it."

So far NAAFA members haven't planned actions such as picketing or demonstrating. But they have written numerous letters to corporations, protesting advertisements and commercials that they consider distasteful.

Two major difficulties fat people face are finding clothes and jobs. Most of them buy clothes in stores that specialize in large sizes, or have them custom-made, often an expensive proposition.

"Almost all overweight people have been turned down for jobs at one time or another," Miss Stoler claims. "I couldn't get a job at Con Edison once because they said I was too heavy for their group insurance policy."

recipe

FRUIT AND NUT BARS

¼ cup soft margarine
½ cup sugar
½ cup golden corn syrup
1 egg
½ cup milk
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. mace
Pinch of cloves
½ tsp. salt
2 cups coarsely ground or chopped fruits (raisins, dates, glace mixed fruits or cherries, currants, prunes)
½ cup chopped nuts.

Brush lightly with vegetable oil one 13 by 9 by 2½-inch cake pan or two 8-inch cake pans. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Blend first 4 ingredients very thoroughly. Beat in milk then sifted dry ingredients. Lastly mix in fruit and nuts. Spread in prepared pans. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. Remove from oven. Sift icing sugar over the top. Cool and cut into bars or squares. (Makes about five dozen squares.)

Opposition to Authority Radiates from Che's Town

By LEWIS H. DIUGUID

CORDOBA, Argentina (WP) — This country's political violence is as complex and confusing as a timetable for Juan Peron's railroads. But it becomes more comprehensible in this principal city of origin.

Cordoba is known for its industry, universities, churches, its opposition to authority radiating from the megapolis of Buenos Aires, and now, its violence.

Cordoba was the home of Cuban revolutionary Ernesto Che Guevara, whose name appears on walls with about the same frequency as Coca Cola signs.

Major factors in the violence nationwide — including the kidnap-killing of former President Pedro Aramburu and the takeover of two towns — are the Peronist ideology that dominates industrial labor, alienated students, revolutionary priests, and an intense nationalism. Here, the extreme nationalist minority that decries foreign investment often also rejects the central authority of Buenos Aires as tainted by its dealings with North Americans.

There is significance in the name "Montoneros." Chosen by those who claim responsibility for kidnapping Aramburu and for briefly capturing the Cordoba suburb of La Calera. For centuries, the provincials who fought against what they saw as the Buenos Aires tyranny were known as Montoneros.

Cordoba is 500 miles from Buenos Aires, "out where the railroad ends," as Father Fernando Storni, rector of the Catholic university, put it. The trains are a symbol of the frustration here.

Peron, dictator from 1943 to 1955, was never popular in Cordoba, but few lament his nationalization of the railroads even if their administration has been chaotic ever since.

Peron also introduced tax exemptions that attracted industry to the city, including the Fiat and Kaiser auto companies. This drastically changed the face of Cordoba, a Catholic scholastic entre whose traditions dated to 1573.

Partly because all transport led to the port, Buenos Aires grew to a population of 8 million, a third of the nation. Cordoba's 800,000 include 100,000 in industry, and 40,000 students.

"The workers, being highly trained, are also highly conscious of politics," explained Christian Democratic leader Jose Antonio Allende. "And one-fifth of the population is students. Conditions are ideal for any political experiment."

This happened on May 29, 1969, with the Cordobazo. Students and workers joined their protests against what they saw as unjust salary and education acts by the central government.

Labor leaders along with rebel priests of what is called the Third World Movement led marches on government buildings. By most accounts the citizenry poured into the streets spontaneously, and even middle-class traditional families concurred.

Father Fernando recalls a circle of plump ladies, car owners all, who agreed that "it was good that the students went into the streets — the government had raised the price of gas."

In the two days before troops restored order, at least a dozen persons were killed. Somehow, the death toll is always elusive in Latin American violence.

At the Xerox tower, workers on the upper floors threw fuel to the rioters below who were attempting to set the building afire.

The immediate results of the Cordobazo were replacement of some government ministers, revocation of unpopular laws and probably the start of a process that resulted 13 months later in the replacement of President Juan Carlos Ongania by another general.

Many students, in the opinion of Eduardo Sanchez Martinez, a 21-year-old sociologist teaching at the Catholic and state universities, are convinced that present institutions must be eliminated, not reformed.

Among the most determined revolutionary conversationalists were members of the sociological study group, students at the 3,000-member Catholic university. Father Fernando, the rector, pointed out that the group had no affiliation with his university. In student elections last year its candidates received no popular support. The national police say this group provided membership for the Montoneros.

Sociologist Sanchez points out that a larger minority of students challenges the police contention that the Montoneros who took over La Calera one cold morning also authored the widely unpopular kidnaping of Aramburu on the anniversary of the Cordobazo.

A far greater number accept the circumstantial evidence displayed by the police suggesting that the Montoneros were used by yet unidentified interests.

Most of the varied civic leaders consulted feel that on the basis of the backgrounds of the Cordobans accused of kidnapping Aramburu, the Montoneros have combined extreme nationalism from the left and right, convinced that a socialist, or fascist, state can result from destruction of current foreign-tainted institutions.

The Aramburu and La Calera operations were accompanied by Peronist propaganda, but it is widely accepted here that all extremes — especially those intent on reaching "the people" — paint themselves as Peronist in respect for the truism that the common Argentine is Peronist.

Recently, a group calling itself the Revolutionary Armed Forces took over another town, Garin, close to Buenos Aires. As in La Calera, at least 20 men and women in their 20s rendered the town momentarily defenseless and robbed the bank. They rode up in stolen vehicles and uniforms. With audacity, guile and impersonation, they ticked off the operation with the faultless rhythm of a time bomb.

This time the Peronist dressings have not appeared.

Ernesto Guevara is the hero, along with Colombian cleric-turned-rebel Camilo Torres, of the most revolutionary third world priests, that nationwide movement formed here three years ago. Two of its members are under arrest. The national church had tried to conciliate the movement, and is scandalized.

Several of the Cordobans accused of kidnapping were known for their Catholicism as well as their leftist politics, and older Cordobans tend to blame the third world priests. "They laughed their revolutionary solialist principles, but they did not tell their listeners what would be the consequences of carrying them out," said a prominent lawyer.

The police says that two of Aramburu's kidnappers were trained in Cuba. An unnamable source very close to several of the accused offers further evidence of international mixing in the bizarre affair.

By this account, yet two others arrested after the La Calera incident visited in Prague, a station on the revolutionary railroad to Havana, in 1968.

At least four prominent names in the movement were close friends of a one-time seminarian, Gracia Elorrio, who published a sheet called "Christianismo Y Revolucion."

●

Elorrio appeared at a meeting of revolutionaries in Cuba saying he represented Argentina. His associates say they saw Cuba as the model for the state he urged upon third world priests.

Elorrio was killed several months ago, run down on a Buenos Aires sidewalk in what was reported as an accident.

It all has the ring of revolutionary threatre, and as old Cordobans say, the town has a sense of drama.

But even among the revolutionary minority there are less drastic thinkers. Independent Labor leader Agustin Tosco pursues aims sounding similar to those of the violent left. "But violence is not the means, not in these times, to solve Argentina's problems," he said. He sees much yet to be gained by the strike.

Tosco, 40, is disdainful of many Communists-turned-Peronists, as well as student visionaries urging chaos. Tosco, by the way, was convicted by a military court after the 1969 Cordabazo as an "ur an guerrilla." He served six months of an 8-year term and was amnestied after heavy pressure from the Cordoba labor movement.

For all the turmoil, Cordoba has not divided along class lines. The militant Tosco can speak well of the old established families, which seem to have adapted to industrialization.

"It is not an easy city, but it is honest," said one Cordoban. "Cordoba is playing out the future of the country, but the Buenos Aires people don't understand. Cordoba cannot direct the nation, but it ultimately will determine its future. We are the politicians."

●

Indeed, the last time Argentina had a presidential election, six of the eight candidates were from Cordoba. Of the governors of the province, dictated by the government in Buenos Aires, none has completed his term since 1940.

'Pensions Do Little For Poverty'

MONTREAL (CP) — Private pension plans, with total assets of more than $12 billion, are perhaps one of the most dynamic single aspects of the Canadian economy, but they do little to combat the over-all problem of poverty in Canada, a Toronto economist says.

Laurence Coward, vice-president of William M. Mercer Ltd., was speaking at the third annual conference of the National Foundation of Health, Welfare and Pension Plans Inc.

Participants in these private plans, Coward said, draw out about $700 million a year.

But poverty among the elderly was still a major problem

Most persons over 65 depend entirely on their government cheques, he said. Many can work, but the labor setup leaves them at a severe disadvantage.

Private plans afford a reasonable pension only to professionals formerly employed by stable companies, and fail to help the large segment of the population which lives in poverty.

On the other hand, government plans reach almost everyone.

"The government promises greater help for a smaller contribution," the economist told the conference, "in shifting the financial load to future generations."

Troops To Leave

PARIS (Reuters) — France will withdraw its troops from the central African republic of Chad by the end of next spring, except for a token force, the weekly Journal L'Express says. The troops were sent two years ago at the request of Chad to quell a rebellion of nomads.

Fire Forces Air Canada To Delay Three Flights

NEW YORK (CP) — A fire in the passenger departure area of the west wing of the new British Overseas Airways Corp. terminal building at Kennedy International Airport disrupted BOAC services today and also caused cancellation of three Air Canada flights.

About 80 firemen and 15 pieces of equipment responded to the alarms when fire blazed in the BOAC section of the building, causing heavy damage.

The flames were extinguished by about 9:30 a.m., but the entire building was full of smoke, causing Air Canada, a major tenant, to cancel two flights to Toronto and one to Montreal.

Aircraft were removed from loading areas as a precaution during the fire, and the building was evacuated.

An Air Canada spokesman said normal service was restored by 11 a.m., all Air Canada passengers being accommodated on later flights.

The spokesman said there was no physical damage to the Canadian airline's section of the terminal, and no one was injured. He said the cause of the fire is being investigated.

A BOAC spokesman told Reuters news agency that "the whole west wing is burned out." He said the British airline was trying to decide whether it could continue to dispatch flights from Kennedy.

BOAC took occupancy of the new terminal July 1. Interior work had not been finished when the fire broke out.

Departure of BOAC's Los Angeles-London flight, on a stopover here, was delayed and more than 100 passengers were evacuated from the building.

The spokesman said there were no reports of any injuries.

HICKEL OWNS AGNEW WATCH

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel owns a Spiro Agnew wristwatch.

He told a GOP fund-raising dinner here he received it during a birthday celebration last week in Alaska. The Anchorage Chamber of Commerce said the watch was a gift from the White House, but Hickel said he doesn't believe it.

"I know it didn't," he said, "because first, they wouldn't spend that much money on me; and secondly, they only give watches to people who are retiring. I am not about to retire."

Evangelism Conference Disrupted

OTTAWA (CP)—Hugh De Cruz, 43, an Ottawa realtor who claims to have seen Christ, briefly upset the proceedings of the Canadian Congress on Evangelism today.

He said he had seen Christ but would not say anything more about the revelation except that "Jesus came to me four years ago."

De Cruz, a slim man wearing an open-necked black shirt, broke into a question period to demand permission to ask some questions of the speaker, Dr. Kenneth Hamilton, a Winnipeg theology professor.

After a brief wrangle over the fact he is not a delegate, Mr. De Cruz was allowed to ask his questions.

He asked whether Dr. Hamilton was referring to the organized institutional Church when he used the word "church."

Dr. Hamilton said he was.

Then Mr. De Cruz asked why Christ did not tell Satan when Satan offered Him the world that He was going to build churches in every corner of the earth.

Dr. Hamilton said the question was irrelevant and the meeting chairman said there were other delegates with questions.

Niarchos Answers Charges

ATHENS (Reuters) — Lawyers for Greek shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos today filed a written answer to charges that he fatally injured his wife Eugenie.

The lawyers submitted their rebuttal to a three-member council of magistrates, which will meet in September to decide whether there are grounds for an indictment or whether the charges should be modified or dismissed.

No details of the rebuttal were made public.

Public prosecutor Constantine Fafoutis drew up the charges against Niarchos last weekend after a three-month investigation, during which he visited the island of Spetsopoula where Mrs. Niarchos died May 4.

A death certificate issued at the time gave an overdose of barbiturates as the cause of death. However, a post mortem showed Mrs. Niarchos bore injuries on her throat and stomach.

Niarchos, who has been cruising on his luxury yacht Creole, was reported today to be in Italy and to have no immediate plans for returning to Greece.

Cushing Got Ransom

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing raised $1 million in a single day, at the request of then attorney-general Robert F. Kennedy, as part of a $2.9-million cash ransom needed to free veterans of the Bay of Pigs invasion from Cuban jails, records at the Kennedy Library indicate.

The Archbishop of Boston, a long-time confidant and spiritual adviser of the Kennedy family, made the disclosure in a taped interview with Senator Edward M. Kennedy (Dem—Mass.) in 1966 for the Kennedy Library.

Cardinal Cushing said Robert Kennedy telephoned him a few days before Christmas in 1962, "described the problem and wanted to know if I could get them $1 million before the day was over."

"It was then only a couple of days before Christmas and they wanted these prisoners in the United States prior to that day," the prelate added.

"I replied, 'I'll call you back in three hours.' I did so, and I promised to have the money delivered to him at the White House about 6 p.m."

The cardinal, who celebrated his 75th birthday Monday, said he borrowed the funds from Latin-American friends and friends in the United States and promised to repay the loans in three months.

Jet Fighters In Storage At Trenton

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — About 40 CF-5 supersonc jet fighters, worth an estimated $75 million, are being held in storage at Canadian Armed Forces Base Trenton pending a federal government decision on their use, a spokesman for the national defence department said Wednesday.

In a telephone interview from Ottawa with The Nugget, the spokesman said the jets are part of a batch of 115 CF-5s contracted from Canadair Ltd. of Montreal in December, 1966.

About 30 of the 73 CF-5s delivered to date are in use by 433 Squadron at Bagotville, Que., and 434 Squadron at Cold Lake, Alta.

The spokesman said several locations for stationing a third CF-5 squadron now are under consideration.

Possible locations for the squadron of CF-5s, used primarily for ground support, are Chatham, N.B., for support of troops stationed at Gagetown, or Edmonton for troops at Calgary.

FIVE DAYS AFTER JET COLLISION

Searchers Find Missing Pilot's Body

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP) — After an intensive five-day search, the body of Capt. Denis Lambert, missing after an in-flight collision between two CF-5 supersonic jets, was found Tuesday in a dense and desolate wooded area about 85 miles north of Bagotville.

Capt. Lambert's body was spotted by a low-flying Huey helicopter about 3½ miles south-east of the wreckage of his CF-5.

The helicopter lowered two men with ropes to remain with the 30-year-old Canadian Forces pilot's body until ground searchers could arrive at the scene.

The cause of the pilot's death was not determined.

He had been the object of a massive search involving 400 men, including 10 Indian trappers, and several aircrafts since the collision last Friday which forced Capt. Lambert and Lieut. Marc Fortier to bail out from their CF-5s.

Lieut. Fortier was picked up by a helicopter Friday afternoon and Monday, the searchers found Capt. Lambert's helmet about three-quarters of a mile from the crash site.

Capt. Maurice Roy, a spokesman at the Bagotville Canadian Forces base about 120 miles north of Quebec City, said last week Capt. Lambert, of Arvida, Que., had enough concentrated food in his ejection seat pack to last "three or four days."

Capt. Lambert and Lieut. Fortier, of Quebec City, were flying routine training missions when their one-seater CF-5s collided.

Lieut. Fortier was picked up in good condition by a search helicopter Friday afternoon.

The pilot's ejection seat was equipped with a radio pack but searchers had received no transmissions.

Guilt Admitted in Near-Crash

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The United States Navy has accepted responsibility for a near-collision off South Vietnam between a BOAC airliner with 124 persons aboard and three United States jetfighters, an airline spokesman said today.

But the jetfighters apparently did not deliberately buzz the airliner, whose passengers were hurled out of their seats when it banked sharply to avert collision.

The pilot, Capt. Stuart Robertson, said the fighters came as close as 50 to 80 feet. Fourteen passengers were taken to hospital when the Boeing 707 landed here Tuesday but only two stayed there overnight.

The spokesman said Robertson reported the incident by radio to Saigon air traffic authorities who made an immediate inquiry. A U.S. aircraft carrier reported that three of its jets had been involved in a "near miss" and accepted responsibility for the incident.

The U.S. Navy planes were flying from the carrier in the South China Sea to Subic Point naval air station in the Philippines.

"It was an incident of four aircraft getting in each other's way," the spokesman said. "It could happen anywhere."

Clinic Offer Pulls Elderly

VANCOUVER (CP) — An invitation to attend a free legal clinic on divorce which appeared recently in the Georgia Straight, an underground newspaper, brought an unexpected response.

"The initial response was just about all old age pensioners," said the columnist who issued the invitation. She said one reply was from an 88-year-old man who had been told by a lawyer, "divorce is a luxury at your age."

The columnist, writing a series which explains how one can obtain his own divorce, invited readers to attend a free clinic some time this month with two city lawyers.

The columnist said most of the pensioners claimed they had been given the paper by grandsons or younger relatives.

Contract Awarded

MACKENZIE (CP) — Contract for a $719,000 prefabricated hospital, described by officials as the first of its type in Western Canada, was awarded to Fabet Structures Ltd. of North Vancouver Tuesday. The company will built an 18-bed prefabricated acute care hospital, to be opened in five months.

Taxis Protested

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Canadian National Railways spokesman said Tuesday a w o rk-to-rule slowdown by some of the railway's freight engine crews is an apparent protest against the use of taxis by the CNR to ferry them about the recently-enlarged CNR terminal. Passenger service is not affected, but switching freight cars to and from sidings has been delayed several hours. Talks are proceeding.

Group Home For Retarded To Open

A two-storey home at 1112 McKenzie will become a group home, operated by the Greater Victoria Association for the retarded in late September.

The association has operated a group home for eight young adults for the past year at 1450 Elford, a block from their workshop at 1543 Elford.

The move was forced in July when the city announced its Shelbourne-Beggbie-Pandora road widening program.

The financing of the new home has been assisted by a $8,500 grant from the provincial grant and a $19,000 loan from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The association has raised 10 per cent of the cost.

Executive director Miss Fiona Campbell-Sayers says the group home concept is now being widely accepted across Canada.

"These homes are run with house parents in charge and are designed to give young people a chance to step out, be on their own and obtain some of the independence they see others in their own age group enjoying."

Miss Campbell Sayers reports that the group program is also a preparation for the time when parents of the young adults are no longer able to care for them.

Indian Girls Get Home

Out-of-town Indian students will have a second group home in Victoria next month.

Located on Graham Street, the home will house eight high-school-age girls. The federal government announced this week it has approved a loan of $20,765 for purchase of the home.

Purchase money will be supplied through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., and operating costs will be paid by the Indian affairs department.

Mackey said the church's role is only as an organizer. The home will be run by "house parents," likely to be an Indian couple.

In many cases, he said, these couples come from the same places as the students, and this is a key element in the success of the home.

Urgent Need For Appliances

Goodwill Enterprises for the handicapped urgently needs a large quantity of small appliances for use in its training program for the handicapped.

A spokesman for the non-profit society said today these appliances must be in repairable condition so they can be fixed and sold to the public through Goodwill stores.

Junior Riders To Compete

The Colwood Trail Riders 21st annual junior gymkhana will be held on Sunday at 12:30 p.m. in a field at the corner of William Head Road and Lombard Drive.

Judge will be Duncan Rimmer and anyone 16 years or under is eligible.

Trophies and ribbons to fourth place will be awarded.

Soviet System Is Denounced

TORONTO (CP) — A soviet nuclear physicist granted political asylum in Canada three years ago and now living in Yellowknife, N.W.T., has written an open letter to Izvestia denouncing the Soviet system.

A story in The Telegram today by Peter Worthington, the newspaper's former Moscow correspondent, says Dr. Boris Dotsenko wrote the letter in June to the Soviet government newspaper hoping it would clarify his citizenship problems.

The United Nations declaration of Human Rights says all countries must recognize the right of citizens to change their nationality if they wish. Dr. Dotsenko says the Sovet Union has refused to recognize his decision to remain in Canada.

In the letter, Dr. Dotsenko, 42, demands the renunciation of his Soviet citizenship and says he wants to leave the Communist party.

Former head of the nuclear laboratory at the University of Kiev, Dr. Dotsenko asked for asylum in Canada in 1967 while attending the University of Alberta as an exchange student.

He says in the open letter that the KGB, the Russian secret police, influence all aspects of life in the Soviet Union, and even gave him a vague sort of mission while he was attending the University of Alberta.

PROMISED REWARD

He says the KGB had asked him to penetrate the western scientific community while in Canada, and he would be rewarded for doing so, possibly with a Nobel Prize.

Dr. Dotsenko says the Russians claim to be able to influence the Nobel awards.

The nuclear physicist is in Canada on a minister's permit, which is renewed each year. He has been unable to get landed immigrant status, and as a result has encountered trouble finding employment.

He is teaching biology and science to public school children at Yellowknife.

"I've been treated most kindly here, and love the north and its people," he says. "True, there aren't the outlets here for my avocation — nuclear research. But, much of my work is done simply with paper and pencil, and I've been able to do some up here."

TRIED PERSUASION

Dr. Dotsenko says that when he first received asylum in Canada, the Soviet embassy sent a couple of men to try to persuade him to go back to Russia. He says one of these was diplomat Mikhail Murnikov, later sent back to Russia by the Canadian government.

Dr. Dotsenko says in his letter the Soviet system "breeds corruption and degradation." He charges the system lacks humanitarian ideology and is dangerous to world peace because the "military often dictates what should be done—even to the party."

He says that to succeed one has to inform on friends, co-workers and make constant compromises with integrity.

Dr. Dotsenko also accuses the Soviet Union of anti-Semitism and says many Jews in the country "are afraid to admit their national origin."

A spokesman for the immigration department in Ottawa says that Dr. Dotsenko's case is under review, and a decision may come this fall.

Jail Crashed

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Lawbreakers just couldn't wait to get into the $4 million St. Clair County jail, not due to open until November. During the weekend, burglars broke in and stole construction workers' hand tools. Worse, they made off with keys to the cell blocks.

Fraud Case Dies With Him

Clyde Gillies, facing a higher court trial for a charge of unlawfully defrauding an 80-year-old woman of a home and property at 3002 Scott, died of cancer.

The trial will never be completed because when a defendant dies the case is automatically nullified.

CAR ROLLS ON CHILD

Rita Michelle Burnier, 4, died Tuesday morning when the car in which she was riding rolled over on its roof, crushing her.

Sooke RCMP said the vehicle, carrying two adults and six children, apparently hit a gravel shoulder on the West Coast Road three miles west of Sooke and rolled. The girl was thrown out and the car landed on top of her.

The seven others in the car including Mrs. Rita Constance Burnier, mother of the victim and Mrs. Doreen Stump, her grandmother, received minor injuries or none at all.

The victim's sister, Deborah, also 4, was one of the passengers.

Lionel Burnier, the girl's father, was at his job with a construction company in Jordan River when the accident occurred.

RCMP said an inquest will be held by Sooke Coroner Eugene Murphy.

Sawmill Burns

SURREY (CP) — Damage is estimated at at least $250,000 in a fire early today which destroyed the main building owned by McKerlich Lumber Ltd., in this Vancouver suburb.

This fire was spotted by a passing police patrol and more than 10 trucks and the Surrey municipal fire boat responded to the alarm.

Take Off Fat With Home Recipe Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drugstore and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Evangelism Congress Disappoints Delegates

By BOB DOUGLAS

"I have been very desperately disappointed," said Dr. Frank Peters, president of Waterloo Lutheran University, at a late-night news conference during the Aug. 24-28 church gathering.

"Much of it hasn't satisfied my anticipation."

Earlier, Charles Vickerson, 29, of the Montreal City Mission, told a youth caucus:

"If they don't get off the ground tonight you can almost write off what's happening in the conference."

Much of the criticism concerned speakers and a noon-hour evangelistic session outside the National Arts Centre where the conference is meeting.

Dr. Peters told the news conference that he was an evangelical Christian and did not come to the congress to re-examine the faith. He had come to learn practical ways of communicating the gospel.

The youth meeting was also unhappy with the speakers and their concentration on points of Christian faith.

"I just get the feeling that I'm floating or I'm failing asleep," one girl said.

John Manly, 20, a Carleton University student, said that he found the noon-hour evangelistic meeting was embarrassing. "It was an inadequate presentation to youth."

Wilbur Sutherland, chairman of the congress executive committee, said that young people should get down to work and study the lecture papers.

Basic changes could not be made as it was too late. It was a study congress and not an evangelistic crusade. Dr. Peters also told reporters and delegates listening in that there is no particular economic system taught in the Bible.

The church should be open to the idea of communes and "perhaps even to encourage them."

Dr. Carl Henry, an American Baptist theologian, said that communal life was practised voluntarily in one church in the New Testament.

"The church that practised it ran into difficulty and the apostle Paul was always running around taking up collections for it."

At an earlier news conference, Rev. Robert Roxburgh, a Baptist minister from Calgary, said that Canadian evangelical Christians must make an "emotional break" from Billy Graham and American evangelicals.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

At some time or other the thought that we would suffer the loss of a loved one occurred to us, but we little realized the extent of sympathetic understanding that would exist. We are more grateful than mere words can express to all of you who did so much to help us through this time. Special thanks to Sands Mortuary and Dr. R. J. Stirling. — Mrs. B. E. Fenner and family.

I wish to extend my fondest thanks and appreciation, for the many acts of kindness and messages of sympathy received from many relatives and friends in Victoria and Edmonton, on the loss of my dear beloved wife Mary. — George Cuthbertson.

9 IN MEMORIAM

CLARKE—In loving memory of a very dear husband and wonderful Dad, who passed away, August 26th, 1968.
Many a lonely hour,
Many a silent tear,
But sweet remembrance of one loved so very dear,
You left us a memory dear,
We are proud to own.
—Ever loving wife, sons and daughter.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

EDDIE'S FATHER. 7 p.m., Channel 6; 8 p.m., Channel 4. Glori the babysitter develops a crush on Eddie's father, which causes a bit of conflict, because young Eddie has developed a crush on her. Sherry Lynn Diamant is guest star, as the 15-year-old sitter.

★ ★ ★

DEBBIE REYNOLDS. 7:30 p.m., Channel 2. Debbie offers her nightclub clown act in this episode, about a PTA variety show. This is the last show of the series . . . a new set begins next week.

★ ★ ★

COMEDY PREVIEW. 7:30 p.m., Channel 4. Prudence and the Chief is a pilot film, about Sally Howes, a missionary who wants to set up a school on an Indian reservation, despite the reservations of the chief.

★ ★ ★

THE VIRGINIAN. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. Patty Duke is guest star, as a young farm girl in search of excitement. She leaves home for a job as a saloon hostess in Medicine Bow. Her disapproving boyfriend signs on at the Shiloh just to keep an eye on her.

★ ★ ★

HIROSHIMA DOCUMENTARY. 8 p.m., Channels 2, 6. The Gift. A Japanese girl who survived the holocaust of August, 1945, recalls the horrors of the day that changed her life. She takes a trip with viewers from Tokyo to Omura, where she was taken after the bombing.

★ ★ ★

ROOM 222. 8:30 p.m., Channel 4. Teacher Roger Duncan gets himself into trouble for trying to be hip. His jocular remarks about smoking pot have got to the principal, and have prompted his pupils to call his bluff . . . put up or shut up.

★ ★ ★

SPECIAL. 9 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. September '39. In that month of that year Germany conquered Poland in a 28-day campaign that put the word blitzkrieg in the headlines. This award-winning Polish documentary uses newsreels and film from European archives to show the Nazi juggernaut rolling over the country. It's an excellent presentation.

★ ★ ★

EVERLY BROTHERS. 9 p.m., Channel 4. Songs include Games People Play, by Bill Medley; Troubled Times, by Jimmy Rodgers; Get Back, If I Were a Carpenter and All I Have to Do Is Dream by the Everlys, and a medley of Jimmy Rodgers hits by Jimmy and the brothers.

★ ★ ★

MUSIC HALL. 9 p.m., Channel 5. Des O'Connor welcomes Phil Silvers, Kaye Stevens and New Faces, an English singing group.

WANTED: 25' FIBREGLASS CLAS

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Years ago I read the story of the first surgeon to advise his patients to get up out of bed and walk around soon after having an operation. What interested and distressed me was to read that this man who advocated early ambulation was ostracized by his fellow physiians for a long time, he was not allowed to tell a medical society about what he was doing and how well it had worked, ond he wos not allowed to publicize a paper on the subject.

Today many surgeons get their patients up early. I know that three days after a big operation on my bowel, almost 10 years ago, I was walking around the room. With a certain type of prostate operation, the transurethral, a man is able to be up and walking around his room the day he has had the surgery. Many women, after they have had a baby, can now go home in a couple of days rather than having to wait two weeks as they used to do.

Now I read that Dr. Paul T. Lahti, chief surgeon of Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Mich., says that in a series of 1,114 consecutive patients who underwent various types of operations, three-quarters of them went home on or before the second post-operative day. Especially today, when rooms cost from $60 to $100 a day, this can save the patient a great deal of money. Also, now when the hospitals are often filled to the front door, it enables patients with an emergency illness to get in. A while ago I had a patient who fell and broke his hip, and although the surgeon I got for him was one of the leading experts in a large city, my patient could not get into a hospital until 18 days had passed.

Dr. Lahti says that he has his patients come back between the fourth and the seventh day to have their sutures removed. A recent study, based on the records of 16 million post-operative discharges from 1,000 hospitals, showed that the average post-operative stay for operations such as Dr. Lahti's patients had, ranged from three to six days.

They've Lost Faith In 'Rule by Law'

By LEWIS H. DIUGUID

MONTEVIDEO (WP) — Down near the docks of this port city stands Uruguay's legislative palace, its ornately carved facades uneasily uniting most of the architectural styles of man.

The interior is a museum of rich fixtures. Sen. Wilson Ferreira Aldunate, easily found the words to describe it:

"This palace is consecrated in native marble, a monument that the Uruguayan middle class erected to its ideal—to rule by law."

After police had found the body of U.S. aid technician Dan. A. Mitrione, kidnapped July 31 by left-wing terrorists, several hundred university students marched on the palace.

They burned a car or two, broke windows and shouted, "Long Live Tupamaros." the press, once as free and combative as the legislature, scarcely mentioned the demonstration.

When the palace was completed in 1929, Uruguay had already fixed its tradition of rule by vote, and its economy was expanding exports of meat and wool.

Today, the Tupamaros and many of the student class from which the revolutionaries come have lost faith in Uruguayan democracy. One reason is that the economy which was then going up has been coming down.

Beyond that, two other factors are always stressed to explain this society today: its very smallness—it has fewer than three million people—and its president, Jorge Pacheco Areco, who is dedicated to reviving the economy via the discipline of austere rule.

How did he define this term "imperialism"?

"It simply means that it is very difficult to be small," he replied.

Uruguay's market is not big enough to industrialize efficiently. While farm exports are being expanded, every politician interviewed insisted that costs of expansion are prohibitive.

"Everything to do it must be imported," said Ferreira. "Fertilizer, tractors, fence wire, each year we must pay more meat for each tractor."

●

Uruguay still stands near the top in most statistical comparisons of Latin countries: in literacy, income, calorie intake, but the opposition says the trend is downward.

Uruguay's hope to offset its inability to compete in world markets was a Latin American common market. But Ferreira says what many Uruguayans feel:

"We had nothing with which to bargain when the tariffs were being lowered. The necessities that we imported were already coming in without tariffs. We were left to the new imperialists, the big countries of the zone, imperialists without the imperialist traditions."

Foreign Minister Jorge Peirano Facio said Pacheco's government has lowered the one index in which Uruguay excelled, inflation, and has raised productivity and exports.

"The reduction of inflation was an unpopular policy, applied to unions and ownership alike. The Parliament was opposed because the policy was unpopular. Parliament and the president are still squared off . . . but polls show a majority of the people with him."

Ferreira, 51, is a member of the traditionally conservative National Party, himself a big landowner. But his economic analysis differs little from that offered by the Marxist president of the national workers confederation, Jose d'Elia.

Ferreira clearly represents a large and despairing group who see no future. He rejects the revolutionary call of the Tupamaros. But asked for his own solution, he replied:

"I do not know. Here is the explanation of the Tupamaros — they are people who looked at the situation and one day said 'I do not know.' "

●

Speaking of President Pacheco, the head of the Christian Democratic Party, Deputy Juan Pablo Terra offered a paradox voiced often among opposition: "The Tupamaros and Pacheco form a complementary system. He needs them to govern; they need him to exist."

The stand-off between the legislature and the president seems founded in part on the frustration of the anarchically divided Parliamentarians, who have no hope of forming an alternative to Pacheco's policies.

Perhaps the fact that strong criticism of the president flow so freely from the legislative palace is itself proof that the country's rule of word survives.

But on all sides one hears laments that communication is broken. The students shout, but the citizenry does not hear. No one listens to the politicians. The president talks to no one, even in the Colorado party that supports him.

Pancheco was an obscure parliamentarian, a vice presidential candidate of convenience in 1966 when Uruguay discarded a chaotic nineman executive committee in favor of a strong presidency.

●

When the elected president died in December, 1967, Pacheco took office. Now the 50-year-old former boxer is known by his acts.

An aide explained that Pacheco had to put himself above the polemics of the palace to reconstruct the economy radically.

Pacheco's desk is in an old and humble downtown antique building attractive in its simplicity and a contrasting symbol to the ornate legislative palace.

A few blocks away in offices still more modest is the foreign minister, a businessman — like all the cabinet, according to the opposition. Jorge Peirano Facio, 49, described the one profound change he has seen here: "Uruguay was a very peaceful country, almost no one owned a revolver. Now all this has changed."

Yet with all the Tupamaros' clamor, bank robberies and clashes of students, workers and police, the Foreign Minister's desk is at a street-level window, looking out on the clamorous sidewalks.

Peirano Facio gave the official position, heard also outside the government, that the Tupamaros are foreign to Uruguayan life, united to similar movements elsewhere in the hemisphere.

He said their tactics originated in the meetings in Havana of the Cuba-dominated Latin American Solidarity Organization.

Alberto Heber, who took a turn in 1966 at the presidency which rotated under the committee system of the time, showed how close to the leadership class the Tupamaros are.

"The chief of police in Colonia under my government is the father of one . . . so is the secretary of the rice farmers' association." He named a conservative National Party senator who lost one son when the Tupamaros attacked the nearby town of Pando last year. Another son is now a prisoner.

Heber, 52, ran a conservative government himself. But now he uses the words of an extreme nationalist, a language quite akin to the far left these days in South America. "We are seeing a revolution that we, who are not in sympathy, do not understand . . . it is not a problem or chance or of class, but of the concept of life."

The mothers of the Tupamaros do not understand, he said.

Sightseeing Boat Blast Injures 25

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (UPI) — A sightseeing boat, with 117 persons aboard, caught fire and exploded Tuesday sight, injuring at least 25 persons.

Most of those on board swam about 75 yards to shore after the vessel, called the Flying Saucer, erupted in flames about 10 miles south of Atlantic City.

★ ★ ★

Police said a few persons were rescued from Egg Harbor by a Coast Guard cutter, but added most were able to swim ashore.

A spokesman for Shore Memorial Hospital in Somers Point, N.J., said 25 persons, including some children, had been treated at the hospital. Most suffered only minor injuries, however, and were expected to be released.

★ ★ ★

The fire reportedly erupted in the engine room of the vessel, a converted PT boat. The blaze, which was reported at 7:03 p.m. EDT was extinguished within an hour and the ship was towed to port.

The vessel, which is owned by Chris' Restaurant has nightly excursion trips along the New Jersey coast and was berthed at the Ocean City Yacht Club.

Women Promised Better Deal

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine signed an agreement Wednesday with its women employees promising specific steps to get more women into jobs as reporters, writers and editors.

The agreement ends a tradition at Newsweek that largely confined women to jobs as researchers.

The agreement commits Newsweek to provide equal employment opportunities to women within one year; to increase writing and reporting tryouts; to seek qualified women inside and outside the organization, and to permit women researchers to cover news events on a voluntary basis.

Newsweek also agreed to re*cruit men for jobs as research*ers.

Figures Revised

WINNIPEG (CP) — A survey of elevator agents by the Canadian Wheat Board indicates somewhat smaller stocks of grains stored on Prairie farms than was estimated earlier by the Do*minion Bureau of Statistics.*

The board's survey, released Tuesday, listed 464.9 million bushels of wheat in farm bins at the end of the 1969-70 crop year July 31. This is about 78 million bushels less than the DBS figure of 542.7 million bushels released last week.

Including wheat in licensed elevators or known commercial positions, this would leave Canada's total wheat supplies at 909.1 million bushels according to the Wheat Board survey compared with the DBS estimate of 986.9 million — a difference of slightly less than 8 per cent.

GOV'T SEEKS HOUSING BIDS

Proposals for a condominium housing development for the aged in Greater Victoria are being sought from construction firms by the provincial government.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Monday a limit of $225,000 has been set for the development which he hopes will provide self-owned accommodation for older persons of modest income.

The proposals should be submitted to the B.C. Housing Management Commission by mid-September. The commission will act as developer.

Algerians Detained By Israel

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Chief-of-Staff Haim Barlev ordered today the administrative detention of the two Algerians seized by Israel during a stopover at Tel Aviv International Airport Aug. 14.

The administrative detention order has already been carried out by the police, and the two men, Djelloul Khatib and Ali Belaziz, now are under arrest, authoritative sources said.

The two men have been undergoing interrogation by Israeli security services since being taken from a BOAC airliner.

In a first announcement since their detention, it was officially stated earlier this week that interrogation had revealed that Ali Bel Azz is a senior official of the Algeran security services.

Earlier reports said that the other man—Djelloul Khatib—was involved in the interrogation of Israeli passengers and crew detained in Algeria after an Israeli airliner was hijacked by Arab guerrillas two years ago.

St. Lawrence Oil Pool Is Spreading

QUEBEC (CP) — A pool of oil Tuesday spread along a 20-mile span of the south shore of the St. Lawrence River facing this city, causing considerable damage.

At least a dozen eel-fishing installations were put out of commission by the oil which covered machines used in the eel-fishing industry, causing damage ranging from $500 to $1,000.

Several dead eels have been washed ashore, and it is feared birds in the area are in danger of poisoning from oil-covered vegetation.

Source of the oil is not known, but a boat is believed to have drained its engines Sunday night in the river facing the nearby town of St. Nicholas. The oil has since drifted 20 miles downstream to Beaumont.

An investigation by the federal and provincial governments into the source and extent of the damages is under way.

Early Leaders Falter In Tight Oregon Open

CORVALLIS (AP) — A tight race shaped up for the final 36 holes of the Oregon Open golf tournament after four contenders finished Tuesday's second round with a share of the lead.

The field was trimmed to 60 for today's round and it took a score of 148 or better to survive the cut.

Duke Mathews of Olympia, Ore., shot a 66, the day's best round, to move into a first place tie at 136 with three other professionals — defending champion Bob Duden of Portland, a six-time tournament champion, Harvey Hixson of Cottage Grove, and Ben Doyle of Seattle.

Craig Griswold, 19-year-old amateur from Lake Oswego, slipped to 75 from 66 for a two-day total of 141. George Lanning, pro at McChord near Tacoma, had the same score.

Knowing When to Eat Produce

By HILDA BEASTALL

Did you ever grow a vegetable new to you and then discover nobody in the family would eat it? And later have the truth dawn in your mind that the trouble was not knowing when the vegetable was ready for eating, nor how to prepare it for eating. How easily this could happen. The first time a ripe avocado confronted me, I was told "Eat it." After gingerly dusting off the black skin, my teeth sank expectantly into the fruit.

Hilda

A full year passed before my courage came back to "eat it" — this time served as a shell for a delicious salad.

The same thing could happen with scarlet runner beans. When you see them at vegetable shows as 12 or 15-inch specimens, you're inclined to think that's the way they should be picked for eating.

Rarely is a runner bean at its best when more than five or six inches long. The shape of little bean seeds inside the pods should not be visible. The pods must be an even flatness, a good rich green, and when a sharp knife is taken to the top and tail, the flesh should be crisp and juicy.

Nothing is more unpleasant in the mouth than the stiff-papery pieces of bean pod from those which have passed the X-point of excellence.

Even with young scarlet runner beans, I remove the side strings, cutting them about one-sixteenth of an inch deep each side for safety.

Sliced thinly lengthwise, and cooked for 10 minutes in lightly salted boiling water, they have a flavor quite different to any other bean. It is finer, in some way, more delicate.

Hot, with potatoes and other vegetables, or cold in salads, sliced scarlet runner beans are good.

Zucchini squash is another vegetable which must be used when young.

Known in England by the French name of Courgette, this is a versatile summer squash to fill in until more flavorful varieties are ready. Five to six inches long is the earliest to cut these for use; though if grown quickly on compost, at 10 to 12 inches zucchinis are still young and tender.

Leave the skins and seeds, slice either in quarter-inch rounds or quarter-inch strips lengthwise. Steam on top of boiling potatoes, or on top of covered roasting meat.

Browning in bacon fat with pancakes or bacon will take care of any leftovers.

Busy Scene on Lawn of Church

TORONTO (CP) — There are poets on the lawn at the cathedral. There are poets and puppets, guitar players and folksingers, there to entertain people eating sandwiches; passersby, lunch-time loungers.

The summer program was initiated by the church and the community committee of St. James Cathedral in downtown Toronto.

The cathedral is surrounded by a park that is partly its own property, partly the city's. The pleasant green in the midst of an old, arid business section attracts about 100 people every day.

Members of the committee decided to make them welcome with entertainment, and as many as 200 or 300 people a day have stopped to enjoy it.

The committee is one of three sections of an over-all committee called Renewal '70. The others deal with the church and the diocese and the church and the family.

Community chairman Mrs. Stuart MacKay says: "We were looking for ways to tie the cathedral with the life of the community.

"We saw people using the park every day and decided to give them something. When the cathedral was first built in 1853, it was a centre of the community. We are trying to get it back to its place.

"It is part of very complicated issues about the role of the church today."

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

If a one-word description were required to describe South's play of a slam contract in the deal presented today, that word would be "gorgeous." The deal arose in a recent high-stake rubber-bridge game.

Both sides vulnerable. North deals.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ◇	Pass
5 ◇	Pass	6 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣

South's final bid of six no-trump, rather than six diamonds, was based on the fear that North might have perhaps three little diamonds, in which case two diamond tricks might be lost. From South's position, his queen of hearts could conceivably consolidate North's heart suit; and if this came to pass, the slam might well be made in no-trump, without relying on the diamond suit.

West's jack of clubs opening was captured by South's king, after which the queen of hearts was cashed. Next came the key play: South led the deuce of diamonds, and when West followed with the three, dummy's five was inserted!

Upon winning this trick with his seven, East returned a club, South taking it with the ace. A diamond was then led to the board's ace, and on the ace and king of hearts, South discarded the six of spades and the three of clubs. A spade lead to South's ace now enabled declarer to cash all of his diamonds, plus the spade king. Thus he lost just one diamond trick.

Had South's initial diamond lead (at trick three) been taken by dummy's ace, the slam contract would have been defeated. In this case, dummy's ace and king of hearts would have been cashed, South discarding his two black suit losers.

Diamonds would then be continued, South losing the fourth lead of this suit to East's jack. East would then take his established jack of hearts, for the setting trick.

In playing the hand as he did, South deliberately gave up the chance of making all 13 tricks. Actually, he was a favorite not to lose a trick, since the five adversely held diamonds figured to be divided 3-2. And if the latter were the set-up, then South would have six diamond winners by cashing the ace, king and queen. But quite correctly, he wasn't going to jeopardize his slam contract for the pittance of an overtrick.

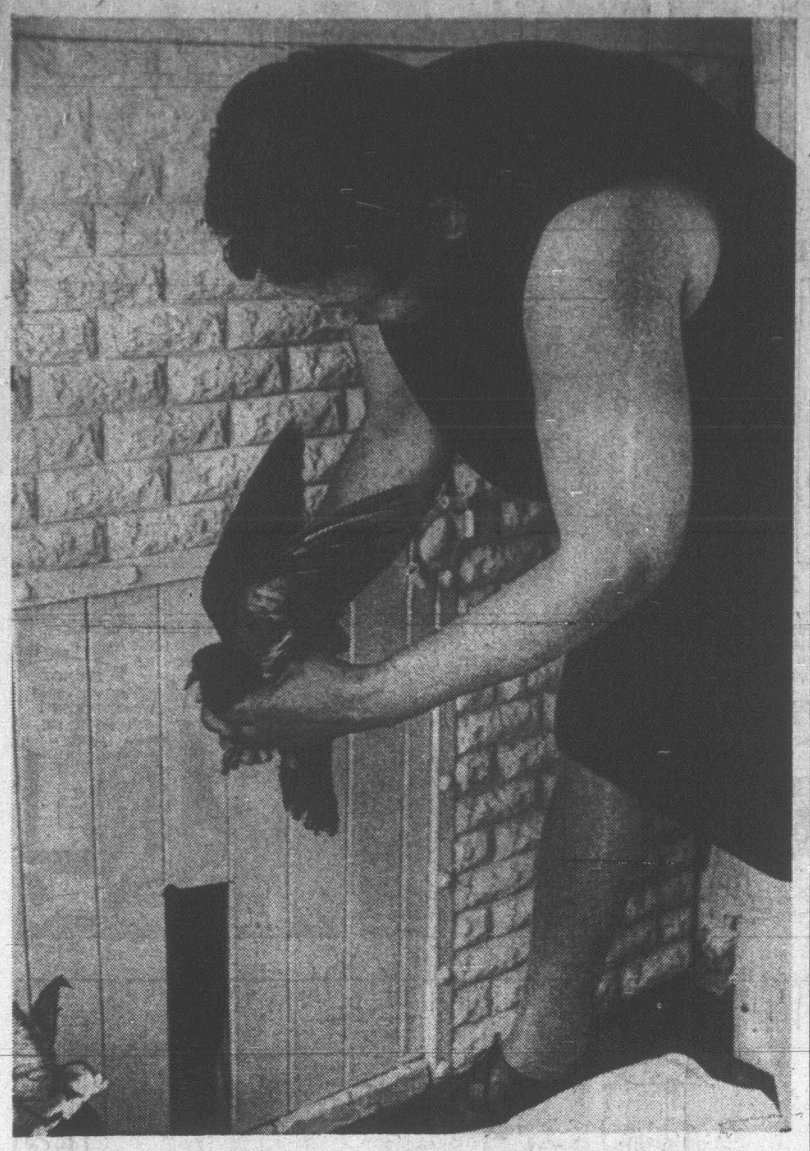
SOLUTION THURSDAY



PIGEON FLEW THE WRONG COOP

It looked like the greatest suspense story of the year. Mrs. Ella Anderson, 722 Yates, had been hearing noises behind the boarded up fireplace in her apartment for some time. It wasn't long before curiosity got the better and she resolved to cut a hole and take a peek. Monday morning she phoned Times photographer Bill Halkett and invited him to witness and record for posterity the moment of discovery.

Fully expecting a long hairy arm to come clawing out the hole Bill waited, camera at the ready, as Mrs. Anderson carefully sawed away a small section in the wooden barricade with a key-hole saw. Tension mounted. Then suddenly Mrs. Anderson plunged a hand into the gaping hole and emerged grasping a very frightened, rather battered pigeon.

The bird-brained fowl had flown down the chimney and then had found itself unable to fly back up again.

GUERRILLAS FEEL THEY ARE BETRAYED

'Everyone Exploits the Palestians'

KARAMEH, Jordan. (NYT) — Even in the searing sun, even with the dust on his shirt and his skin, even after a long morning in the fileds of the Jordan Valley, the farmhand called Khalil had strength left to visit his wrath.

"This is a bad life, everyone exploits the Palestinians," he rasped to travellers in this war-ruined town. "We will not accept orders from other Arabs now."

For Khalil and hundreds of thousands of other Palestinian Arabs, this summer is a season of special bitterness, of new kinds of hate.

★ ★ ★

The Middle East cease-fire has left Palestinians bitter because they believe that the Egyptian and Jordanian governments have betrayed them by accepting it — and showing that they prefer peace to continued war with Israel.

Many Palestinians have turned against President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt. They feel that by trying for a settlement he is throwing away the chance of someday destroying Israel and letting them regain the land they still call theirs.

This has left men like Khalil with the belief that they have been abandonel by their former Arab allies. It has led to changes within the Arab guerrilla movement and in Palestinian attitudes.

"For 20 years, people have been using us," Khalil said through an interpreter as he prepared to leave the shady ruins for an afternoon's work in the fileds.

Many Palestinians in Jordan and elsewhere have come to feel that the commando movement has been used as a pawn by the Arab governments. There is little talk now of the battle of Karameh, in which guerrillas claim to have fought Israeli troops to a standstill in 1968.

The prestige that Karameh won the guerrillas within the Arab world now seems imperiled. The Cairo press argued this week that they lacked the strength to beat Israel, ever, and there is fear that a peaceful settlement might cost them much of their outside support.

The commandos are going to try to decide how to cope with the changed diplomatic situation at a meeting of the 112-man Palestinian National Council that is expected to be held soon. The site has not been set.

In theory, at least, the council speaks for all the 1.5 million Palestinians who live outside Israeli control. These people had been given hope and pride by the commandos' victory here and the subsequent flowering of their movement, with its brandishing of submachine guns, forays into Israel, terrorist acts and its inpouring of funds from oil-rich Arab states.

But now many poor Palestinians such as Khalil fear a loss of this new dignity. Having felt themselves insurgents they do not want to accept again the role of refugees. A result of this has been the conviction, in Lebanon as well as Jordan, that refugees must rely more on costribituons from other Palestinians and less on support from other Arabs.

Specifically, many Palestinians here fear that the Jordanian government means to quash the commando movement. This fear exists despite government protestations that their cause is just and that guerrilla raids are not to be construed as cease-fire violations.

Privately, some Jordanian officials say they hope that the commandos' movement will "melt down like a candle" now that the power to change the Middle East situation seems to have shifted to the negotiationg table.

★ ★ ★

But the government has avoided any direct showdown lately. The Bedouin troops have not tried to prevent the guerrillas from carrying — and using — their arms in dowtown Amman.

And the army lets the commandos move at will through the ruins here — the crumbling relics of a cause that many Palestinians fear may now be lost.

Italy's Newest Premier Unknown to General Public

ROME (NYT) — One night recently when most Romans were finishing up their after-dinner coffee and wondering what to do until it got cool enough to sleep, a dapper figure walked unhurriedly through the crowds in Piazza Navona to a small restaurant where he sat down with three other men.

Except for the fact that his companions rose obediently to greet him and that the waiters, slow with all their other customers, quickly brought him a frugal meal, no one would have guessed that the belated diner was Italy's new Premier, Emilio Colombo.

Colombo is something less than household word in the nation he heads. Inside his own Christian Democrat party, the 50-year-old bachelor has long been acknowledge as a rising star. In European financial circles and at Common Market negotiating tables, he enjoys a reputation as an economic wizard and a hard, skillful negotiator.

UNKNOWN

But even though he has been Italy's treasury minister for the last seven years, the slim, bespectacled southerner whose wavy hair is retreating from his high forehead remains largely unknown to the general public.

In Piazza Navona, where staring at zany costumes and people is a full-time occupation, Colombo looked completely out of place. His dark blue suit, so precisely creased that it seemed to have been pressed five minutes earlier, his drab tie and his purposeful stride give him the air of a proper, prosperous, young undertaker, a camouflage that succeeded in carrying him through the crowds without a head turning.

His voice — nasal — his enuniciation — slow — and his manner of speaking — few words, carefully chosen and clipped — combine with his erect carriage and careful dress to make him look and sound more like a British civil servant than an Italian politician. One friend who has known him since he entered parliamentary life in 1946 recently quipped, "to be completely British, Emilio only needs an umbrella, but he has swallowed his."

SERIOUS

Behind the manner is an intensely serious man who told a priest once that he had no time to get married and often says, "one is not born a statesman. "Born to lower middle-class parents in the city of Potenza April 11, 1920, Colombo was a hard-working officer of the local Catholic Action Youth Section by the time he was 16 and a regular reader in the local Catholic library.

Ten years later he was elected to Italy's constituent assembly, and at the age of 28 he became Under Secretary for Agriculture. In that post and, steadily climbing the cabinet ladder afterwards, Colombo helped write some of Italy's basic postwar reforms, including those that redistributed land, nationalized electric production and provided government aid to private investors and public development in the impoverished south where he was born.

TOUGH DEFENDER

He also is credited with authoring much of the Treaty of Rome that established the European Economic Community. In Brussels, where the Common Market is headquartered, he is known as a tough defender of Italy's economic interests, a firm believer in European economic unification and an advocate of British entry into the community. The tough tax measures and credit restrictions he pushed in 1963 — on the advice and with the aid of his closest collaborator, Guido Carli, who heads Italy's Central Bank — were the unpopular devices that turned a slump here into a revived boom.

Colombo's recreations are few: collecting French wine, occasional choral singing in a passable tenor and, now and then, a movie or a play.

Federalist Panel Airs UN Complaints

OTTAWA (CP) — The World Association of World Federalists heard a panel of United Nations experts Tuesday say what's right—and what's wrong—with the UN during the third day of the association's 14th biennial congress.

Piero Vinci, Italian ambassador to the UN, said the organization "still represents the world's best hope for peace and security."

But reforms were essential to reactivate the UN in such fields as disarmament and peacekeeping, remove administrative inefficiencies, and make the superpowers grant more authority to the world body.

Hermod Lannung, former Danish ambassador to the UN and current federalist leader in Denmark, said the UN charter must be revised to give greater representation to countries with large populations.

Chief S. O. Adebo, former Nigerian ambassador to the UN and now executive director of the UN Institute for Training and Research, called for reforms in the administrative practices of the UN. He said the present system leads to organizational deadlocks and "a great deal of dirty horsetrading."

Marion McVitty, formerly the Federalists' own representative to the UN, said member governments had created a profusion of powerless agencies at the UN in order to avoid giving the organization itself real authority.

And the UN itself "has been running away from world government," she said.

Czech Boy Scouts Disbanded

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Czechoslovakia will disband its Boy Scout organization Sept. 1, apparently because the Communist-run Young Pioneers cannot compete with it, it was learned Tuesday.

No official reason was given for the abolition, a scouting source said. But the Boy Scout association, called Junak, has been attacked by Communists in Czechoslovakia as a "bourgeois company" whose leaders include clargymen and others who are not helping to mould youth for socialism, reported Prujob, the North Bohemian regional communist party daily newspaper.

Junak is not a member of the international Boy Scout organization, but is a successor to the pre-Second World War scouting movement, which was affiliated with Lord Baden-Powell's Boy Scouts.

Sask. Teachers, Trustees Ready For Showdown

REGINA (CP) — Teachers and trustees in Saskatchewan are getting down to playing their last cards in salary negotiations as schoolchildren prepare for a return to the classroom.

The teachers' ace is a threat to strike if they don't get the increases they want. The trustees, on the other hand, argue that raises must be held down in economically hard times.

The provincial government, having taken up a position slightly removed from the bargaining table, has been insisting loudly that settlements must conform with six-per-cent guidelines.

Negotiations have been under way, on and off, for the last 11 months, but pressure for settlements is mounting with most schools due to open for the fall term next Monday.

Tentative agreements have been reached by negotiators in only three of the province's 10 major bargaining areas—in Saskatoon, North Battleford and Prince Albert.

Elsewhere, it's a time of watching and waiting for parents and pupils, uncertain whether there will be a teacher standing at the front of the class when opening bells ring.

WILL BE THERE

In the small communities of Shaunavon and Hudson Bay, however, the first to launch the fall terms, teachers will be on duty today when the term begins, said a spokesman.

The spokesman, Dr. Stirling McDowell of Saskatoon, general secretary of the teachers' federation, said in an interview he was hopeful that settlements covering those two localities and other areas are close.

About 30 trustees from across the province are to confer behind closed doors in Regina today with Maple Creek Mayor A. B. Meyers, newly-installed head of their association.

Mr. Meyers, a provincial trustee executive since 1964, succeeded L. C. Duddridge of Hanley, who gave up the presidency to take a position with the department of education.

Education Minister J. C. McIsaac has acknowledged there is a degree of confusion over how provincial guidelines apply to a mixed salary-ond-increment package situation.

He said the six-per-cent formula applies to bargaining areas as a whole, not to individual school boards, and must include fringe benefits and automatic raises such as increments.

MADE THREAT

But the provincial government has also threatened that any boards giving raises that exceed the six-per-cent ceiling may be told to make up the extra dollars locally.

The teachers' federation has been seeking direct negotiation with the provincial government, aiming for a single collective agreement to cover all Saskatcewan teachers.

The trustees, meanwhile, feel they have a local trust to direct school operations in their units and do not want to throw away their powers on teacher salary negotiations.

The 11,600-odd teachers have varying demands, but in the Saskatoon area, considered a key, they say they want a 4.84-per-cent raise in each year of a new two-year agreement plus other benefits.

Trustees are uncertain whether the Saskatoon teacher demands, including increments and other factors, actually would fall within the six-per-cent guidelines.

Strikers Stay Out

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — There was no sign of settlement Tuesday as 325 employees of the Prince Albert Pulp mill entered the third week of their strike.

Local 403 of the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers Union said it has had no contact with management since negotiations broke off last Thursday.

Company sources said the strike is consting the mill about $40,000 a day.

The workers have been without a pay check for two weeks.

Hopes Raised

CALGARY (CP) — A forecast calling for cooler weather and rainshowers Tuesday raised the hopes of 300 firefighters attempting to control a forest fire that has burned through 3,200 acres of mature pine and spruce in the Bow River forest reserve, about 80 miles northwest of here. Officials said the blaze may be under control by the weekend.

GRANDE PRAIRIE (CP) — The National Farmers Union was confused when a Calgary judge denied its application to have an injunction against their picketing set aside because another judge ruled earlier in favor of the NFU, a spokesman said today.

The Alberta Wheat Pool, Federal Grain and National Grain were issued an injunction prohibiting the NFU from picketing their elevators and seed plants to protest fescue seed prices.

The injunction was upheld in a court ruling Monday.

A similar injunction by the United Grain Growers was dropped in a ruling by a different judge.

Welfare Cuts Explained

EDMONTON (CP) — More than 3,300 Alberta families are affected by a recent decision of the provincial government to discontinue monthly social allowance payments for clothing, personal and household items, government statistics showed Tuesday.

The policy change deals only with automatic monthly benefits provided to unemployed employables under the social allowance program, said Marcel Arcand, assistant director of the public assistance branch of the social development department.

Now discontinued are the $10 formerly allotted to each adult for personal needs and the $10 for household needs—grocery items other than food— and a monthly clothing provision not always made available previously for short-term cases.

He was commenting on a statement Monday by the Alberta Association of Social Workers which said the withdrawal of such allowances constitutes "A denial of the basic necessities of life."

The association said that in some cases the income of welfare families had been slashed by $70 to $90 a month.

"We are trying to relate the amount of social allowance paid to unemployed employables to the amount of money the average working man would be earning."

John McNamara, director of Humans On Welfare, termed the changes "a very bad policy." They were "detrimental to the entire realm of people on welfare, and taxpayers."

"Cutting allowances is no incentive to finding employment," he said.

Slick Sailing by Ficker Gets Intrepid in Front

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Intrepid took the lead at the start on the skilful manoeuvring by her skipper, Bill Ficker of Newport Beach., Calif., and defeated Valiant by 3 minutes, 24 seconds Tuesday in the final trials to determine this year's defender for the America's Cup.

The victory was Intrepid's second in three races between the two boats and her fifth against one defeat in the final trials which started one week ago. Valiant is now 4-2.

Weatherly and Heritage, the other two boats which started the final trials, have been eliminated by the New York Yacht Club's America's Cup committee.

Valiant's skipper, Bob McCullough of Riverside, Conn., seemed to be in a position to block Intrepid before the start and forced her away from the starting line.

FORCED TO TURN

But McCullough was forced to turn away from the line and kill his boat's speed to avoid crossing the line too early and being recalled.

Intrepid led by 1:22 seconds at the first mark, rounding it more than 300 yards ahead of her opponent. She added five seconds to her lead on the second leg, mainly because Valiant's crew was slow in getting its spinnaker set.

Valiant reduced her deficit to 150 yards on the third leg and rounded the third mark only 53 seconds behind.

TOUGH TACKING DUEL

McCullough then initiated a gruelling tacking duel on the fourth leg, hoping either to wear down Intrepid's crew or to force them into a costly mistake.

The two boats tacked 39 times in 32 minutes, and at the end of that time Intrepid had increased her lead.

The two boats are expected to race today and to continue racing on an almost-daily basis until the New York Yacht Club decides which is the best boat to defend the America's Cup.

The international trials to determine the America's Cup challenger will be resumed today with Australia's Gretel II holding a 2-0 lead over the French yacht France in their best-of-seven series.

NASCAR'S LATE MODELS HEADING FOR WESTERN

Something new to Canada will appear at Western Speedway on Sept. 7.

This date will mark the first time that competition in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's late-model division has been staged north of the border.

Cars racing in this division are the same 1968-70 model vehicles that run at Riverside and Daytona.

Canuck Schedule Suits Island Fans

The home schedule of the Vancouver Canucks contains some benefits for Vancouver Island fans who plan to catch some of the National Hockey League action this winter.

Canucks open their 1970-71 campaign — their first in the expanded NHL — on Friday, Oct. 9.

The breakdown of Canucks' schedule shows 15 Tuesday games, eight on Friday, seven on Saturday, seven on Sunday and one on a Monday and one Wednesday.

The weekend fixtures may be welcomed by Vancouver Island fans who have to contend with late-evening transportation difficulties if they wish to return from the mainland.

The Friday dates will suit fans who do not have to work Saturdays. In addition, five of the seven Saturday games will permit Island fans to return the same night.

Five Saturday games are scheduled to start at 5 p.m. in order to accommodate a national telecast.

All Sunday games start at 2 p.m.

The complete home schedule:

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvan Cournoyer has been signed for his seventh National Hockey League season with Montreal Canadiens.

DOUG ROXBURGH

Don Gets Win But Gary Out On 28th Hole

VANCOUVER — Victoria's Don Marsden remained in contention for the title Tuesday during the first round of match play in the Pacific Northwest junior golf championships but a little of the spotlight was stolen by another Victorian—Gary Ferguson.

Ferguson fought for 28 holes before succumbing in a fourth-flight tussle to Tom Larigne of Olympic Hills, Wash. This worked out to 10 extra holes over the 6,038-yard, par-71 Marine Drive layout.

Marsden, meanwhile, stayed alive in the championsip flight by defeating Mike Roll of Portland, 6 and 5.

Mark Daniel and Stephen Berry, both of Vancouver, were the only other Canadians remaining in the championship.

Closing Surge by B.C. Misses by One Stroke

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Doug Roxburgh's improved putting and club selection gave him a par-68 round and Rob Ferguson fired a 72 at the Brightwood Golf and Country Club here Tuesday, but their efforts weren't quite enough to help the British Columbia squad to the Canadian junior interprovincial golf team championship.

Quebec, bolstered by a nine-stroke lead they picked up in Monday's opening round, held on for a one-stroke victory in the nine-team event and finished with a combined team total of 595.

Roxburgh of Vancouver and Dan Talbot of Beloeil, Que., playing in the final threesome of the round Tuesday with Michael Hogan of Red Deer, Alta., held the key to the title.

Talbot had a 70 Monday, low for the first round, but faltered in the second round as Roxburgh picked up momentum and sliced strokes off the Quebec lead.

LACKED JUDGEMENT

On the 18th hole, Roxburgh, an 18-year-old from the Marine Drive Golf Club in Vancouver, put his approach shot on the edge of the green. It was about 25 feet from the pin. He two-putted, placing his first effort about a foot to the right.

Talbot, bothered by club judgment throughout the round, placed his third shot on the fringe, to the left of the cup. He two-putted and finished eight strokes over par at 76. His round gave Quebec the victory. B.C. was second at 596, and Ontario third at 598.

Roxburgh, named Monday as an alternate to the team to represent Canada in the world amateur team matches at Madrid, Spain, in September, knocked five strokes from the game he played Monday.

The round was good enough to give him individual honors in the 36-hole team competitions. He finished with a 141, two strokes better than Bill Laughlin of London, Ont.

Hogan shot rounds of 71 and 73 for an 18-hole total of 144, good for third place in individual scoring.

B.C. closed the gap as Rob Ferguson of Victoria cut six strokes, Gerry Kitson of Richmond cut four from his game and Roxburgh lowered his count by five strokes. Keenlyside added five strokes while the B.C. total fell 10 strokes from the previous day's performance.

KANAREK RAPPED BY MANSON, FITZGERALD

Tate Defence Attorneys Argue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles M. Manson shook his head in displeasure as his lawyer, Irving Kanarek, cross-examined the county coroner about the Sharon Tate murders.

"Doctor, do you have any opinion on whether Abigail Folger received any of her injuries in the place where she came to rest on the lawn of. . . ."

"Objection, your honor!" cried Paul Fitzgerald, lawyer for defendant Patricia Krenwinkel. When Kanarek protested that he hadn't finished, Fitzgerald added: "The question is objectionable as far as it went."

"But your honor," said Kanarek, "maybe I could have saved it."

At that point Tuesday, Manson renewed his efforts to fire Kanarek and represent himself. The judge denied Manson's motion.

"This man is not doing what I want," he said of the lawyer, whose conduct also has been criticized by other defence lawyers.

HURTS DEFENCE

Manson was perturbed Tuesday, reliable sources said, because Kanarek's questioning hurt the defence of his three women co-defendants. The state's key witness, Linda Kasabian, has testified that she saw Miss Krenwinkel chasing Miss Folger acros the lawn while holding a raised knife. The dark-haired coffee heiress was stabbed 28 times, the coroner has said.

Kanarek's question, the source said, reinforced the prosecution theory of a chase across the lawn.

The judge excused the jury and allowed Manson to argue his motion.

"I have no rapport with this attorney," said Manson. "I've asked Mr. Kanarek to do certain things but it has no effect."

Manson said if he couldn't represent himself, he wanted all four lawyers "hooked up" under one leader, Fitzgerald. The judge repeated his belief that Manson is incompetent to represent himself and said no lawyer can be made subject to orders from another. He denied the motion.

'NOT QUITE PRECISION MARCHERS'

Student Army Likes Work

TORONTO (CP) — In Ontario, 2,376 students have been marching, drilling, sweating and learning their way through summer in a militia program designed to keep them off the streets and out of trouble. And they like it.

"Troop, 'tenshun. . . . Forward march. . . . Left, right, left, right . . ." bellows the corporal at the sweating teenagers who tramp with something less than steel-honed precision in the Moss Park armories.

"I think it's a good program —it certainly keeps a lot of boys off the streets in the summer," said Master Warrant Officer Hilary Donville of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

In Canada, 14,055 boys were enrolled in the summer soldier program, which Allan MacEachen, minister of manpower and immigration, announced in June as an answer to student unemployment this summer.

The program was to supply 10,000 students with summer jobs, both in the militia and on the regular labor market. But the plan became so popular that that number was increased until some students had to be turned away.

The defence department offers five summer programs for male and female students and 8,711 students were in the seven-week militia program. Another 3,481 were hired by the department to do maintenance work at military installations, such as painting, repairing, office and mess work.

In the militia program which started July 13, a student in the first two weeks of basic training earned $7 a day and an additional 50 cents a day after this. Students in non-soldier jobs were paid the going rate in the area in which they worked. Cost of the plan was about $7.52 million.

INTEREST AROUSED

Maj. W. E. Lloyd, battery commander of the 7th Toronto Regiment, an artillery unit, said of the summer soldiers: "I think that all they wanted basically was summer employment, but my approach now is to arouse their interest so that they will stay with the unit."

Sam Cirone, 21, who joined the 7th Toronto Regiment as a summer soldier said: "Other summers I've worked for Loblaws, but I thought this might be something different. . . . I wanted to learn about responsibility."

The most exciting part of the program for the student soldiers was the three-day exercise at Camp Petawawa, 100 miles northwest of Ottawa. The boys climbed cliffs, negotiated rafts on the Ottawa River, fired their artillery pieces and slept in tents through three days of rain.

"I got used to that," said Sam. "The only thing, it didn't last long enough."

Boys in the program report at 7:45 a.m. and inspection is at 8 a.m. Then they take classes or march, or practise with the 105-m.m. howitzers. They have breaks for coffee and lunch and spend the afternoons in sporting activities.

The students learn to fire semi-automatic rifles and machine-guns, and learn fieldcraft, such as digging trenches, first aid, military law, compass work, map reading, service customs and hygiene.

Defence Minister Leo Cadieux said he only has one regret about the program. "We were unable to enrol all those who applied."

Circus Marriage Will Have to Wait

TORONTO (CP) — Dora the 778-pound Fat Lady and Gypsy Joe the sword swallower have had to postpone their planned marriage on the Canadian National Exhibition midway.

A spokesman for Dora said Tuesday she had to break her contract with the exhibition Monday when she was forced to enter a Knoxville, Tenn., hospital for treatment of phlebitih.

"She had unbearable pain in her legs and we thought it might be a bad blood clot," said her employer, Sam Alexander.

Gypsy Joe, a Quebecer who weights 137 pounds, had said he and Dora "were going to marry on the midway a couple of days before Labor Day.

"Now we'll have to wait until she gets back to California," he said.

The two, engaged five weeks ago, have known each other for more than 10 years.

Mr. Alexander said Dora is five feet, two inches tall, measures 108 inches around the waist, 41 inches around the upper arm and 45 inches at the knee. She gains an average of 30 to 40 pounds a year because of an over-active pituitary gland.

LAURENCE OLIVIER flew to Spain today for a month's convalescence after being discharged from hospital where he was treated for a thrombosis. The 63-year-old actor-director has been ordered to rest for two or three months after being stricken earlier this moth with the thrombosis and bronchial pneumonia.

U.S. GIRL SAILOR DISCHARGED

Pregnancy Policy Rapped

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Seaman Anna Flores has filed a federal court suit saying the United States Navy discharges pregnant servicewomen but takes no action against the sailors responsible for the pregnancies.

The suit says Seaman Flores, 22, became pregnant by her fiance, a sailor stationed with her at the navy's Whiting Field near Pensacola.

Miss Flores said the navy took action to discharge her after she miscarried last spring. The discharge is pending.

In the suit filed Monday, Miss Flores asked the U.S. District Court in Pensacola to prohibit the discharge on grounds that the navy discriminates against women by discharging them for becoming pregnant while not discharging the sailors who make them pregnant.

—"Have sexual intercourse with women to whom they are not married and not discharged therefore.

—"Father children out of wedlock and not discharged therefore.

BBC GETS THE BOOT

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian foreign ministry ordered the BBC today to close down its radio and television operations in India by Saturday and withdraw its correspondents, a foreign ministry spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the decision was conveyed to the British high commissioner, Sir Morrice James, today after word was received from London that the BBC refused to discontinue showing a series on Indian poverty.

B.C. Judge Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — A member of the British Columbia Judicial Council said Tuesday Provincial Court Judge Bernard Isman, 63, has been suspended from his duties pending investigation of an incident alleged to have occurred Aug. 7.

Cariboo District Judge Kenneth Arkell, a member of the commission, confirmed that the suspension had been ordered, but declined to discuss details of the alleged incident.

NO CHARGES

The Sun says it has learned the incident involved routine investigation by Vancouver police and RCMP of suspicions of prostitution and drug use against a woman. It says no arrests were made and no charges laid in the investigation.

The suspension order, handed to Judge Isman Monday, was signed by Provincial Court Judge Cyril White, chairman of the judicial commission.

Judge White was away from Vancouver Tuesday and unavailable for comment. He is scheduled to return Sept. 8.

HEARING

Judge Arkell said a hearing will be held at a date to be set and "all sides will be given an opportunity to be heard before a further decision is made."

The seven-man judicial council has power to suspend provincial court judges temporarily. Permanent removal would require an order-in-council by the provincial cabinet.

Judge Isman has been on the bench here since 1962.

With slogans, stickers and speeches, women liberationists demanded equal rights today in a United States-wide demonstration for jobs, free abortion and 24-hour child-care centres.

Little active support for the cause was shown by Canadian women although members of the Women's Liberation Movement Tuesday set up picket lines in front of The Edmonton Journal demanding an end to want ad classifications which they said "foster discrimination against women."

NO SYMPATHY

In Vancouver today members of the Women's Liberation Movement said they plan no actions in sympathy with those in the U.S. Lack of liaison between Canadian and U.S. liberation organizations, differences in problems confronting women of both countries and a rift in the local movement were cited as the reasons.

In the U.S. the National Women's Strike Coalition, sponsor of Strike for Equality, had urged women to stay off the job if possible.

The Commerce and Industry Association in New York said it had checked 30 large firms and found a few women had asked for and been givn the day off. Figures were not available.

ALL ON HAND

"We're pretty advanced here," she said. "About 40 per cent of our departments are managed by women."

The sponsors, who also urged women to stop performing household chores

Jordan Troops Battle Guerrillas

Times News Service

Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian security men battled in downtown Amman today, with one guerrilla reported killed and three civilians wounded. Lebanese demonstrated against guerrillas in the Biblical city of Sidon and in Beirut.

The cause of the Amman street battle was not learned immediately. But eyewitnesses said a group of guerrillas on one side of the street and security men behind a parked car on the other blazed away at each other with pistols and submachineguns. Joint army-guerrilla patrols raced to the scene, stopped the fighting and made several arrests.

It was the eighth such incident reported since the guerrillas vowed to sabotage the ceasefire agreement in which King Hussein of Jordan joined Egypt and Israel on Aug. 7.

The demonstration in Sidon took the form of a general strike in the wake of street battles Monday between guerrillas and pro-Nasser followers of Maaroui Saad, the city's representative in parliament. Two persons were killed, more than a dozen wounded and Saad was kidnapped for a time by the guerrillas.

Saad's followers called the strike because one of his relatives was still being held by the guerrillas, entrenched behind sandbags on roofs and at street intersections.

The demonstrators in Beirut were from the South Lebanese village of Chebaa. Blaming the guerrillas for Israeli strikes against their village, they sealed off the main street outside the office of the Palestine Liberation Organization with barricades of burning tires and demanded that the guerrillas

Pollution Curb On New Cars Set

The provincial government has officially empowered itself to ban the sale of new cars which fail to meet pollution control standards after Sept. 1.

But no standards have yet been set, an official said, and enforcement may not begin until Jan. 1, 1971.

The new power, which also includes a potential ban on operation of cars violating standards, is contained in an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act passed at the last legislative session.

It isn't known whether the B.C. standards will exceed those already in effect in Ontario for new cars and already incorporated in new Ontario-built cars in B.C.

Government officials indicated earlier this year that operating standards for pollution control devices on exisfing motor vehicles would be phased in gradually after the new car restrictions were law.

Bare Facts Given By Rejected Nudist

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Let's get down to the bare facts," Judge Edward S. Northrop said as he heard testimony about the refusal of the Baltimore police department to hire a nudist as probationary patrolman.

Police Commissioner Donald P. Pomerleau told the judge Tuesday that he declined to hire the nudist, John J. Bruns III of Glen Burnie, Md., because "nudism is not a commonly accepted mode of life."

Pomerleau also said Bruns's membership in Pine Tree Associates Inc., a nudist club, would prevent the 30-year-old man from complying with a requirement that patrolmen "carry side arms 24 hours a day."

Pomerleau was the only witness to testify in the $50,000 damage suit brought by Bruns after he was denied the job in 1968.

Northrop deferred a decision in the case, heard in U.S. District Court.

Bruns said he was first among 40 men on a civil service eligibility list. The 39 others were hired, he alleged in the suit.

John H. Lewin Jr., a lawyer for Bruns, argued that Pomerleau established "a class of persons he would not hire."

No Decision Reached On Postal Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet today discussed the continuing postal dispute, but Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp said no decision has been reached on what may be done if current mediation efforts fail.

He said the cabinet will discuss the issue again early next week.

Mediator Thomas O'Connor said Tuesday night that a "considerable gap" still remains between the two sides in the dispute.

O'Conner issued a formal statement Tuesday night with the official purpose of commending the 27,000-member Council of Postal Unions on its decision to suspend rotating strikes from Thursday to Monday to deliver old-age pension cheques.

Closed by strikes today are the main post office and 41 staff offices in Toronto, Cobourg, Ont., Regina and Thunder Bay, Ont.

OTHERS SHUT

Service also was suspended by the post office at nine staff offices in the North Bay, Ont., district and Picton, Ont., as well as four in the Saskatoon district and five in the Calgary district.

But in the statement, O'Connor, a Toronto labor relations specialist, also said:

"There is a considerable gap that must be bridged to achieve a fair settlement as desired by both parties. Both negotiation committees are ably led and are capable of doing the job."

Congressmen Urge Freeze On SST Funds

WASHTIN (WP) — A joint subcommittee of the United States congress recommended today that all federal funds be withheld from the ten-year-old effort to build America's supersonic transport (SST).

Every argument used to justify federal support for the controversial project was disputed by the economy-in-government subcommittee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), a long-time foe of the SST.

Cong Keep Up Attack On Cambodia Capital

PHNOW PENH (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces kept up their attacks against Phnom Penh's outer defences for the third day today, but a Cambodian military spokesman said: "The worst of this latest Communist assault appears to be over."

Two Communist battalions attacked Cambodian forces at Prek Tameak on the Mekong River nine miles north of Phnom Penh.

Cambodia's military command believes the Viet Cong are trying to establish a supply and infiltration route to the Mekong Delta along old Viet Minh trails used before 1954.

The Viet Minh trail was used before the 1954 Geneva agreements that ended the first Indochina war. It followed an approximate line from the Laotian border past Kompong Thom, 75 miles north of Phnom Penh around the end of the Tonle Sap Lake and Lompong Chang, 50 miles northwest of the capital, and into the mountains of southwest Cambodia.

Maj. Am Rong, the Cambodian military spokesman, said a certain amount of movement has been spotted along the old route, with Kompong Thom under constant pressure.

War Defoliant Ban Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate refused by a 62-22 vote, to ban United States use of plant-killing chemicals in the war in South Vietnam.

Opponents of the measure said defoliation of forests to expose enemy troops and destruction of enemy crops are saving American lives on the battlefield.

Agnew Sees Troops Out of S. Korea

SUN-MOON LAKE, Formosa (AP) — Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew said today that all United States forces would be withdrawn from South Korea when the modernization of that country's armed forces is completed, possibly within five years.

Continuing his four-country Asian tour, Agnew flew from South Korea to the Nationalist Chinese island of Formosa after two days of extended conferences with South Korean President Chung Hee Park.

During the flight to Formosa, Agnew told reporters it is "very doubtful" that the United States will leave even a token force in South Korea after the modernization of South Korea's 600,000-man army, navy and airforce.

The United States now has 62,000 troops in South Korea and plans to withdraw 20,000 by next June 30. South Korean officials say they need $3,000 million in U.S. aid in the next five years — more than four times the present program — to improve their forces to the point where they can fight off any North Korean attack without U.S. help.

'Cheque' Just Cowed Up and Never Said Moo!

LONDON (UPI) — Punch Magazine today paid its most senior writer with a cheque written on the side of a cow.

In 1930, Herbert wrote about a man presenting a cheque written on a cow to the tax inspector.

"We thought we'd celebrate Sir Alan's 60th year with Punch by doing something connected with his campaigns, Davis said. "He's been campaigning for 60 years."

Sir Alan said "I was campaigning against the income tax process when I wrote about the cow. The system hasn't gotten much better since then. I think if everybody paid their tax bill with a cheque on a cow, it would shake the state into doing something about the system."

Sir Alan led the cow into the bank, where the chief cashier handed over five new one-pound notes ($2.40 each). The bank manager wrote "paid" across the cheque.

In the columns of Punch and as an independent member of parliament for many years, A. P. Herbert helped win with wit and wisdom the reform of liquor and divorce laws and of entertainment and betting taxes.

In the current issue of punch, published today, "APH" looked back over the 60 years since the magazine accepted his first contribution — "a horrible piece of verse for which I was paid one guinea (about $3)."

Herbert's greatest foe has been the income tax. In 1962 he had to pay a surtax and accompanied his payment with a scorning poem. The tax man replied, in verse, that the people's champion had sent 30 cents too much. Herbert admitted defeat this way:

"I thank you, sir, but am afraid
Of such a rival in my trade:
One never should encourage those—
In future I shall pay in prose."

. . . WOMEN MARCH

they consider menial and to take children to offices, timed the strike to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the adoption of the 19th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, giving women the right to vote.

TAKE OVER SHOW

At the defence department information office in Washington, some female secretaries posted a series of protest posters made from file folders. They urged that the Pentagon Athletic Club be opened to women and complained that in government men are called deputies and women secretaries.

On the floor was a trash basket filled with women's underwear, including a bra, lacy pink panties and a girdle, symbolic of what feminists complain is the sexiness forced on them.

Representatives Margaret Heckler (Rep. Mass.) said in a statement: "As a nation, we can ill afford to deprive ourselves of the vast resources of womanpower on conquering our country's ills."

NIXON JOINS CALL

President Nixon, noting the suffrage anniversary, issued a proclamation Tuesday asking Americans "to recognize the great debt we owe to those who dedicated their life's work to the cause of women's suffrage."

He added: "Let us all recognize that women surely have a still wider role to play in the political, economic and social life of our country."

Several politcians endorsed the women's cause. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller proclaimed today Women's Rights Day in New York State. Mayors James Tate of Philadelphia and Peter Flaherty of Pittsburgh took similar action in their cities.

Senator Charles E. Goodell (Rep. N.Y.) held a news conference with Betty Friedan, a leader of the National Organization of Women — NOW — and other feminists and announced plans to introduce new federal legislation for women's rights.

MOST COME OFF

"If it's not an absolutely fabulous success," she said, "then they will say that women don't want rights . . . they're happy where they are."

The strike coalition, at a news conference in New York Tuesday, urged women to boycott Silva Thins cigarettes, Ivory Liquid detergent, Prestine feminine deodorant and Cosmopolitan magazine.

The women accused the cigarette of portraying women as "objects of contempt" in their advertising; said of the detergent. "We feel older women have something to offer to society besides soft hands and clean glasses;" and said the magazine is "geared to selling women as sexual objects."

The New York women also were angry with city officials who said feminists would be limited to one lane of Fifth Avenue in their early-evening march to a Bryant Park rally.

Mrs. Friedan said suffragettes had the whole avenue when they marched to celebrate and "we can have it again."

"This is our hour of history and we are going to take it."

She said: "I am not threatening violence, merely expressing determination."

One woman who disagreed with the feminists was Susan Young, 22, of Lethbridge, Alta. Participating in a beauty contest in Montana, she was asked about women's liberation.

"Any girl with a head on her shoulders can get anything she wants out of a man. Honey, I've got better things to do than change tires."

She won the contest.

In New York demonstrators passed out a parody of The New York Times — a product of the national organization for women, which was called the New York Times.

The columns contained an interview with "Nick Dixon," alleged head of a masculinist group, a movie review of a film rated "W", meaning women must accompany men, and a sports story by "Ruth Babe."

Some of the feminist strategy seemed puzzling. In Pittsburgh, four women pelted windows of a radio station with eggs before they drove off in a car. Studio officials said they were unable to figure it out unless they had offended some listeners by airing a feature called "Great Women in History."

Later, a speaker at a Pittsburgh suffrage rally told a cheering crowd of bra-less and blue-jeaned listeners that her group threw the eggs because a disk jockey "dared" them to try something on the air.

Drug Problem 'Frightens' Pentecostals

Prime Minister Trudeau disregards briefs and letters, so "evangelical Christians" must protest proposed liberalized drug laws through the news media and large public meetings, said Rev. Gerald Morgan of St. Catharines, Ont.

Morgan was one of 327 voting delegates to attend the 27th biennial general conference of the Pentecostal assemblies of Canada that ended Tuesday at Metropolitan United Church in Victoria.

The implications of the Le Dain commission report on the non-medical use of drugs was debated by the delegates during the conference business sessions.

'SATANIC CONSPIRACY'

Rev. Gordon Upton of Ottawa moved an amendment to the resolution stating that Pentecostals "go on record as opposing any proposed legislation which would liberalize laws related to the control of hallucinatory drugs."

In a report to the conference Rev. George Upton of Abbotsford warned the conference delegates:

"We are victims of a cruel Satanic conspiracy to destroy our Christian institution, to disrupt out economic economy, to corrupt our youth to utter destruction, to confuse us and frighten us from our Christian principles."

Escapers Caught Hiding in Bush

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Three escaped prisoners, including two convicted murderers, crashed through a police road block early today but were captured two hours later when they abandoned their car and were found hiding under bushes.

The three, Robert Desjarlais, 28, Douglas Letendre, 26, and Glen Wayne Burnett, 25, were the last to be recaptured of seven men who escaped Monday night from the maximum-security Prince Albert penitentiary.

Police said the three held up two youths who were sleeping in their car near MacDowall, Sask., about 20 miles south of Prince Albert, and ordered the youths at knifepoint to drive south.

The three abandoned their car and ran into the woods but a police dog picked up their scent and found them under the bushes after an hour's search.

WAS SERVING LIFE

Desjarlais was sentenced to life last September in Edmonton for the 1965 knife slaying of Rosalie Johnson at a house party. He was found in March, 1969, in Hawthorne, Calif., and while awaiting trial tried to escape from the Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., jail but was caught scaling a wall.

Letendre was sentenced to life for the 1962 murder of a Calgary service station operator. He was paroled in August, 1969, but was returned to prison after pleading guilty to armed robbery and kidnapping involving two Edmonton taxi drivers.

Burnett had been serving five years for an armed robbery in North Battleford, Sask.

Following the opening round of peace talks in New York with UN representative Gunnar V. Jarring as go-between, Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah flew to Jerusalem to report to his government. Tekoah's departure was no surprise, having been announced last weekend.

The chief-of-staff, Lt.-Gen. Haim Bar Lev, issued an order against the two, Maj. Khatib Djelloul and Ali Belaziz, under emergency regulations dating from the time of the British mandate and empowering him to order the detention of persons suspected of security offences.

Arab guerrillas will set up a "revolutionary court" to try Palestinians who support a peaceful settlement or an independent Palestinian state as a substitute for the total liberation of Palestine, according to the Amman newspaper Al Fatah.

The paper, which speaks for the central committee of all guerrilla organizations, said Tuesday "there are certain Palestinian quarters which go along with a peaceful settlement" of the Middle East conflict.

Urns Found Near Wreck

The urns were stolen by thieves who left a ransom note for $25,000 which was later increased to $35,000. The cemetery offered a $1,500 reward for the return of the urns.

Police said they think the thieves panicked after the theft was made public Tuesday.

Nothing more was heard from the thieves after the ransom demand was increased to $35,000.

THE WEATHER

The weather office at Victoria International Airport is predicting mainly sunny weather for Thursday. A low tonight of 50 degrees and a high Thursday of 70 degrees is expected.

Winds in exposed areas over the Juan de Fuca Strait should reach speeds of west 15 m.p.h., decreasing at night. See Page 8 for details.

France Charges Mainland Youth

MULHOUSE, France (Reuters) — Vancouver student Leigh Morton, 24, was jailed Tuesday charged with smuggling drugs after police reported finding 1,300 doses of the hallucinatory drug LSD in his boots.

Morton was arrested as he entered France from West Germany at the Chalampe frontier point Monday night.

Police said they found 50 grams of marijuana stuffed in his boots along with the LSD, which they said is probably worth around $7,000 on the illicit market.

Vic West Housing To Up Enrolment

The chairman of the Greater Victoria school board's building and grounds committee said today the board has told Education Minister Donald Brothers that a prospective low cost housing development three blocks from Victoria West elementary school could substantially increase school enrolment.

Peter Bunn said the board used the development possibility to strengthen its argument with the government to take some action concerning the Vic West school.

The board is waiting for approval from the government for the transfer of five portable classrooms to the school site to avoid putting the 600 students on split-shit classes Sept. 8.

NEEDS APPROVAL

The board decided to move the portables to the site in July at a cost of $18,000 when it ruled the existing 62-year-old classroom building unsuitable for use this September but needs government approval under the Public Schools Act before going ahead.

The housing development on the city-owned land bounded by McCaskill, Hereward, Griffiths and Langford has attracted two or three local construction firms which want to build the low-income families and senior citizens project.

Peter Crisp of the city planning department said the preliminary investigations of such a project have been done and the next step would be to prepare the property for sale and development.

The advisory planning committee would be looking at the development at its next meeting about the end of September and could make a definite proposal concerning zoning, conditions of sale and development to council by October, Crisp said.

He added that if project proceeds without serious difficulties occupancy could be by September 1971.

If the project were about 60 to 80 units, it would add about 280 people to the area including up to 120 school-age children. This would be about four additional school classrooms some of which would be needed at the Vic West school.

Bunn had unkind words for the Government inaction on the Vic West situation.

He described the whole situation as "very, very upsetting" in the last eight years he has been involved with the school board.

"We are told to resolve the problem and get the okay in 1960 to phase out the school. Why the hell are parents and kids put through this?"

. . . POSTAL

The statement contrasts sharply with earlier O'Connor comments made after his appointment was announced last Wednesday. In weekend interviews he said he hoped the dispute would be settled before Sunday and significant progress would be seen by today.

The issue of higher pay for casual labor is believed to have been settled in negotiations and one source has indicated that agreement has been reached on the length of time that must be given postal workers before their shifts are changed.

The central program that must be agreed on before a settlement is possible includes wages, fringe benefits and job security.

Opinion of both government and union sources was divided Tuesday night on why O'Connor had made reference to the wide gap that must still be bridged.

The unions are known to have been angered by O'Connor's earlier statement and some sources say his latest comments may be nothing more than an attempt to cool tempers and smooth the bargaining process.

REFLECTS CONCERN

Others, notably government sources, say the statement reflects O'Connor's deep concern with the relative lack of progress so far in the mediation effort.

The mediator himself would not add to his official statement.

The cabinet meeting today is not expected to produce any action on the 11-month-old contract dispute. Prime Minister Trudeau, on a Caribbean vacation until next week, has said he will allow a week to 10 days for a settlement through mediation.

O'Connor has set Sunday as his personal deadline for reaching an agreement or breaking off talks.

PM to Visit Labrador

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau plans to visit the Gaspe, Quebec's north shore and Labrador next week.

A spokesman in the prime minister's office said today that Mr. Trudeau's planned Thursday-to-Saturday trip is contingent on developments in the postal situation.

Mr. Trudeau plans to leave here next Thursday, Sept. 3, and fly to Baie Comeau where he will visit industries in the area. Then he will travel by helicopter to Manicouagan to visit the new national park site at Fortillon. He will stay overnight in Gaspe.

Friday, the prime minister will go by helicopter to Ile de l'Entree where he will board a vessel for Iles-de-la-Madeleine, and from there he will fly to Sept-Iles for an evening meeting.

The following day, Mr. Trudeau will fly to Schefferville, via Wabush, to visit the iron ore mines and attend a community dinner before flying back to Ottawa.

Food Prices In U.S. Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp drop in food prices caused the United States government's wholesale price index to decline five-tenths of one per cent this month, the first drop in two years, the labor department said today.

The bureau of labor statistics said the decline was the first since a drop of four-tenths of one per cent in August, 1968.

The report on August prices is subject to possible change when more complete figures are compiled.

MAN'S PET FOUR FEET TOO LONG

Then an elderly woman near the bus stop saw the snake and panicked. She called police, who charged Gray with keeping an illegal snake within the city limit. A city ordinance forbids snakes longer than two feet.

Pop Festival Chiefs Deny LSD in Water

FRESHWATER, Isle of Wight (Reuters) — A hippie demonstration and a rumor that LSD was injected into a water supply brought the first threat of trouble to a mammoth pop festival which opens here today.

A British domestic news agency reported Tuesday that a public health official had been called into inspect the water supplies feeding the festival's catering enclosure.

The organizers of the festival, Fiery Creations, quickly denied reports that LSD was injected into the water. But, they said, there had been some trouble with over-chlorination.

Groups of English fans who were among an international advance guard camping near the festival site spent most of Tuesday morning obliterating slogans and four-letter words daubed over fences by a group of American hippies who had demonstrated the night before for "free music."

The group, calling themselves The White Panthers, tried to pull down fences surrounding the festival arena.

As a gesture to many fans who arrived without enough money to buy tickets or in the belief that the entertainment was free, the organizers announced Tuesday that no admission charge would be made for the first two days of the festival.

A spokesman for Fiery Creations said they stood to lose £20,000 (about $50,000) by making this gesture.

The organizers have poured more than $500,000 into this, the third Isle of Wight festival, which promises to be the biggest musical event of its kind ever held n Britain.

The organizers estimate the crowd—already 30,000-40,000—will swell to 250,000 by the weekend when such artists as folksingers Joan Baez and Canadian Leonard Cohen, guitarist Jimi Hendrix and jazz trumpeter Miles Davis will be featured.

Local Members To Attend Vet Convention

Six local delegates have been chosen to attend the 30th biennial dominion convention of Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada in Vancouver Aug. 31 to Sept. 4.

G. W. Ball, J. L. Aubry, Frederick Newell, Anton Emerick, C. G. Stevens, and P. S. Copp, will represent Victoria at the five-day convention.

Highlight of the convention will be the veteran's parade to Victory Square Cenotaph at 6:30 p.m. on Sept. 1.

Minister of Veteran Affairs Jean Dube and Recreation and Conservation Minister W. K. Kiernan will be guest speakers.

A DIALOGUE

The Big Choice —East or West?

By Jack Scott

I was the party asking the questions last Spring on the campus of the University of Victoria, but one was repeatedly asked of me.

Time after time students, particularly those about to graduate, asked my advice on whether it was necessary or advisable to leave this coast for Eastern Canada to make a successful career. Many of them dreaded the prospect. Toronto, in particular, was seen as "a pollution-ridden rat race."

I wasn't able to offer much of an answer. I left Toronto, after several years abroad as a correspondent, only because I wanted to return to the relaxed western way of life and because that motivation cooled my earlier flaming ambitions.

Scott

Now I can offer some more objective opinions in a dialogue between one who left, and made it big, and one who elected to stay, and made it equally big. I posed the question the students had asked me to Jack Webster and Ron Haggart, far and away the most influential and successful men in their fields in Canada.

Webster, Glasgow-born, 50 years of age, is the open-line commentator of CKNW, New Westminster, a rare bird who has won the respect of everyone in—if you'll pardon the expression—the communications media and the largest, most devoted radio audience in the west.

Haggart, Vancouver-born, 43 years of age, is columnist for The Toronto Telegram, a courageous muck-raking newspaperman in the finest tradition whose impact on the Toronto scene is legendary.

Haggart: I think, basically, most young men want to move. Whether they do or not it comes down to an inescapable truth—however much you may despise the fact, Jack—that Toronto is Canada's head-office city and will become increasingly so.

Webster: Oh, I'll agree with you that for masses of jobs at better average wage levels, the east is obviously more desirable. You've got the people, the consumers, the secondary industry. You're closer to the major American markets. But when I came to Canada from Fleet Street I took one look at Halifax and it was like Greenock all over again and I took one look at Toronto and it was like Glasgow on a dirty day. I was lucky and glad that we'd picked Vancouver on the map. All I'm conceding, Ron, is that you've got to go to the eastern flesh-pots if your aim is to be a big wheel, an industrial magnate.

Haggart: That remark is typical of the British Columbia paranoid syndrome, that you create the wealth in the west and that we manipulate and consume it in the flesh-pots of the east. Everybody in Toronto isn't a big industrial magnate. There are just ordinary insurance company employees, accountants, office managers, salesmen, every kind of business and creative outlet. It's not just a matter of making the big buck. Its fulfillment. The point is, whether you like it or not, that's the centre. Whether you're talking of insurance companies, painting or newspapering or anything else, commercial or creative, Toronto is the centre. Its where it happens. That's not to say you can't have a successful career out here—you've demonstrated that yourself, Jack—but if an ordinary guy wants to work his way up in a national office he has to go through the corporate stream and that stream happens to start in Toronto.

Webster: I'd be the first to admit that we're infected with West Coast parochialism. But, to get back to that Uvic graduate, isn't it really up to him? What does he want to do? Does he want to become an executive in a lumber company? Then stay in British Columbia! Does he want to become some kind of geological engineer searching out the resources we haven't touched? Then stay in British Columbia! There's all kinds of pioneering to be done here. Its the one part of Canada left where you can really carve out a career and a reasonobly good life away from the incredible atmosphere of the dirty, filthy cities.

Haggart: I would suspect, after a visit there, that the air pollution in Port Alberni is at a higher level than any city in Ontario. Now, don't give me this clean, green, British Columbia air bit, for God's sake, Jack. You have the worst pollution of air, water and soil in the country.

Webster: We're not proud of our pollution. But, look, I've just come back from the northern country, the grass beyond the mountains, Williams Lake west to Bella Coola. It has got to be the finest, undeveloped land on the North American continent.

Haggart: True, true. But people in British Columbia always live in the cities and talk as if they lived on the frontier. Remember, I was born in Vancouver and lived there until 1953. But when I came back on this vacation two weeks ago and looked out from West Point Grey at downtown Vancouver there was the same smog I'd just left in Los Angeles. So don't talk of those dirty, filthy eastern cities. Its a typical B.C. trick to pretend you're on a brave new frontier when the cities where nearly all of you live are falling apart.

Webster: But what I'm saying to this Uvic student is that he doesn't have to go east, that there's a great potential here for him if he's interested in something other thon a fancy Toronto job with fancy Toronto money. What's our biggest resource in British Columbia? It's not lumber. its not mining. Its not even our water. At the moment its tourism and recreation. But in the Chilcotins, everywhere we travelled, who is taking the gamble? Who just bought out the Wilderness Rim Resort at Nimpo Lake? Two young American couples from Seattle. Who runs every resort you find west of Williams Lake? Young, smart, bright Americans who want to lead a good life in our country.

Haggart: The opportunity you're offering these young Uvic graduates is to buy into a half-million-dollar resort hotel?

Webster: I'm saying they can get a career, a definite aim and a way of life in British Columbia without becoming a clerk in a Toronto insurance office or a hack in a Toronto advertising office.

Haggart: There you go again, Jack. Why does he have to be "a hack?" Why, pretty well all national advertising is conceived in Toronto. Surely the point is that if you want to fulfill your creative ambitions you go where the decisions are made.

Webster: I don't want to go where the decisions are made. I want to make my own. This is a beautiful country that needs bright, intelligent, well-educated people.

Haggart: It has nothing to do with the merit or the ability of the people. It has to do with the place where the decisions are made, the way the communications systems are set-up, the place where the chollenges are, where the sphere of influence exists. The kids from Uvic may change that some day, but they'll have to go to Toronto to do it. If for no other reason but to get away from the fear of the outsider, the fear of change, the fear of the unusual that's a state of mental illness on this coast.

Webster: If all those things, the same money, the same sphere of influence, the same challenge, were possible out here would you come back?

Haggart: Naturally.

It's Time to End Discrimination —Saanich Report

Mobile Homes: They're as Real as Others

Mobile homes should be regarded as "a viable and acceptable" form of housing, a Saanich planning department report issued Tuesday states.

The report, The Mobile Home, said new regulations should be drawn up to supplement provincial rules.

"To date the mobile home has been treated in a compromise manner," the report says.

"This has undoubtedly resulted from the problems facing the owner and the community.

"There should be a clear decision as to whether or not it is an acceptable addition to the housing stock.

"If it is not, this should be clearly stated and the reasons why spelled out.

"If it is, all necessary actions should be taken to put the mobile home on an equal footing with conventional housing—proper location policies, adequate services, adequate development standards, equitable payment for services and equitable grants from senior governments."

Mobile homes in Greater Victoria have "a tarnished image which is both deserving and understandable." If the mobile home is to assume its role as part of the area's total housing stock, and if the full potential of good design and quality is exploited, this image can be overcome, maintains Saanich planner Tom Loney, in the report.

The report, presented to Saanich municipal planning committee Tuesday night, received brief discussion and was tabled to allow time for committee members to study it.

The report also says that placement of mobile homes on individual lots within Saanich "should be clarified."

At another point in the 30-page report, it is stated that "there is need for a firm decision as to whether mobile homes are a valid form of housing for the community."

Location policies should be established which follow the general concept of residential development contained in the Apartment Study and specifically conform to residential areas which form the basis of the municipality's sewer program planning.

To conform to existing building regulations and to permit equitable taxation, the report recommends that mobile homes be required to be placed on a concrete foundation and steps taken to make them definable as "improvements" to the land.

Property taxes are derived from both land and "improvements" to the land, but one opinion is that a mobile home placed on blocks would be considered a tenant fixture and expempted under the Assessment Equalization Act regulations.

This produces a disparity which in Surrey shows municipal revenue per mobile home and trailer occupant at $14.40 per year while the average for conventional single-family houses is $91 per capita a year.

To avoid the situation where the mobile home dweller is in effect subsidized by other taxpayers, some jurisdictions in North America have made the legal change necessary so mobile homes bear an equitable share of taxation.

"There have been no indications of such a step in British Columbia," the report says.

"There is a clear need for a policy statement from the provincial government on the mobile home and municipal taxation. To prohibit mobile homes is unfair to mobile home owners, but fair to the community. To permit them is fair to the mobile home owner, but unfair to the community.

"It is a conflict of interest that is quite unnecessary."

The Saanich report notes that a study now is in progress by the Capital Regional District on mobile homes and that there are an estimated 300 mobile homes in Langford, Colwood, and Metchosin.

It also makes clear a frequent misconception about mobile homes—they are not trailers, but factory-produced housing which is usually mobile only once—when moved to a site.

Although mobile homes cost less than houses, the report says houses can be purchased with money repaid over 25 years or more while it is "virtually impossible" to do this with a mobile home beyond 10 years.

"Thus one could easily pay as much, or even more, per month for a mobile home than for a conventional house," the report says.

"Maintenance costs are lower for a mobile home than for a house but depreciation is probably more pronounced. A 10-year-old house is probably a more attractive proposition than a 10-year-old mobile home."

The report says the idea that mobile homes offer a solution to the housing problems of poor people "appears to be erroneous." Those who cannot afford a house cannot afford a mobile home either, "at least a mobile home of equivalent area."

★ ★ ★

Dealing with problems of mobile homes, the report said there are few sites, poor development standards, trailers crammed together, minimal services, unpaved access and parking areas and little or no attention paid to open space or landscaping.

"If the mobile home concept is valid, there is urgent need for more places to locate mobile homes, better situated within the community and developed to much higher standards," it says.

"However, this is more easily said than done. There is considerable ill feeling and resistance towards mobile home developments. There is a basis of truth to all the complaints—mobile homes in the past have been utilitarian and ugly in appearance; trailer parks have looked unsightly, they do place an unreasonable burden on services."

The report says these difficulties can be cured "and the outlook that mobile homes should be banned completely is as extreme as advocating amputation to cure a headache. The biased public viewpoint is a real enough problem to the mobile home resident who must feel discriminated against."

Park Urged For Charlottes

The president of the Federation of B.C. Naturalists today urged creation of a national park in the Queen Charlotte Islands with the remainder of the federal government's $10 million gift for British Columbia's 1971 centennial.

The government has already allocated $3 million for an Indian artifacts museum at the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Tom M. C. Taylor, a former head of the University of British Columbia's botany department and one of Canada's best known botanists, told a Victoria press conference that such a project would benefit the whole province.

The federation represents nine naturalists' societies in the province. Its main aim is conservation and making people aware of their environment.

Taylor said UBC badly needs a museum to store its Indian art treasures and artifacts.

But he argued suggestions that the remaining money should be used for a number of small and local projects appear to fall short of the intended purpose of the money.

"We should choose instead some project that would be of benefit to the province as a whole — something that the people in the future can point to as an example of the foresight we displayed in spending this money," he said.

He said the Queen Charlotte Islands are unique in many ways.

"For example, little of the very large spruce stands on the islands will be saved if we don't take action now," he said.

Taylor said while the islands are comparatively isolated and unknown to most people in the province, they would not be so in the near future.

JOLTED YOUTH STILL ALIVE

Steven Warswick, 14, of Jordan River, remains in poor condition in St. Joseph's Hospital after being nearly electrocuted Saturday by a live wire atop a B.C. Hydro building.

The youth climbed over a fence and up to the top of the Hydro Building where he touched a 60,000 volt high tension wire.

BUILDING WAS EMPTY BEFORE FIRE

There were no people in the Rainbow Sea Cadet building on Robert Street when fire broke out Monday, Deputy Fire Chief Carl Coates said today.

The Times reported erroneously Tuesday that several persons were in the building.

Coates said the building was not properly secured prior to the $3,000 fire, thought to be a result of careless smoking by an unknown person or persons.

Ask the Times

Q. Are there any anti-noise regulations in the City of Victoria. I am referring to the many violations of motorcycles, "auto cowboys" and drivers who take delight in shattering the silence by squealing their tires, and of course, those who drive automobiles without proper mufflers.—C.L.

A. A city bylaw prohibits squealing tires. And regulations under the provincial Motor Vehicles Act forbid loud exhaust noise due to improper mufflers.

Gaglardi Called 'Enemy of Poor'

Provincial Rehabilitation Minister Philip Gaglardi has made himself "an enemy of the poor" and should be dismissed, Frank Cox of the Victoria Citizens' Committee on Unemployment said today.

He said Gaglardi has acted irresponsibly by refusing to give welfare to locked-out or striking workers.

Cox made his statement as he was preparing to lead an afternoon march of unemployed and poor people from Bastion Square to the View Street office of the Provincial Alliance of Businessmen.

The Alliance, formed by Gaglardi to help the unemployed find work, has been incorporated into the rehabilitation department.

The demonstration this afternoon was to include members of the Low Income Group as well.

Cox condemned the minister's "contradictory" statement about the rehabilitation department's assessment form. Cox said Gaglardi has confused the poor by saying one day that people will be cut off welfare if they refuse to fill out the form and later saying this is not true.

The delegation planned to present a brief demanding the dissolution of the Alliance and five other items:

- Doubling welfare rates or immediate implementation of a guaranteed annual income.
- Equal unemployment opportunities and wages for women.
- The creation of make-work projects at acceptable rates of pay.
- Doubling of the old age pension.
- And end to the "resource sellout."

Cox said the PAB is nothing more than political patronage for Gaglardi's friends, is a waste of money and has staff unqualified to help others find work.

He said the delegation will also object that the PAB has access to confidential information from welfare offices without being qualified to receive and act on that information.

Following presentation of the brief at the PAB office, the delgation was to march to Canada Manpower at 1415 Vancouver to meet manager George Bevis.

Arthur Mayse...

OF THE MAKING OF books there is no end, as a critic whose name I don't recall observed with a certain petulance many centuries ago. Times haven't changed since he gave that remark to posterity.

People are still making books without end, and all too frequently without any real middle or beginning. Sometimes such books find publishers. They have even been known to sell.

But oftener than not, and especially in the case of fiction attempted, the net result is a mass of manuscript pages that will never make the transition into print.

When time and effort expended bring no better reward, it's easy to blame editors for failing to recognize a good thing when it lands on their desks.

I've listened to that plaint any number of times from disappointed men and women who have failed entirely to digest the requirements that fiction imposes.

The first of these, as I've noted it over the years, is a sense of story. Latent storey-sense manifests itself in a liking for fiction.

Reading and writing in fact, go together like crossed fingers. The person who doesn't read fiction from natural interest is most unlikely to turn out a piece of creative writing which will justify the effort expended on it.

Another requirement is a capacity for hard labor, and sufficient toughness of spirit to take discouragement in stride.

Writing a book can be a hellish discouraging business. That's one reason why so many novels briskly begun die untimely. And, contrary to widely-held belief, writing is hard work.

I know, I know. Writing looks easy. After all, what's required except to take a sheet of paper and fll it with words? But as every professional of less than genius status comes to realize, there are days when the right words stubbornly refuse to materalize.

When those words must combine to achieve characters who will be more than mere names to some hoped-for future reader, the job can become grim indeed.

Yet that requirement beyond all others is the one imposed on anybody who would reap more than rejection slips or polite letters of refusal for his fiction.

Let's put the matter to an experiment. Think of any novel, play or short story that has stuck in your memory more than a very few years.

What caused it to stick? The background against which it was set? The impact of the author's descriptive passages. His easy way with narrative?

All may contribute to a memorable book. But you may find in this testing of memory that the author's story-people remain when much else has been lost.

Take away Long John Silver from Treasure Island, and you might still have a good tale of buried treasure. But without the one-legged sea cook, I very much doubt that the book would have survived to be read by successive generations.

Victoria has its share of would-be fiction writers. Few of them realize this hard necessity of translating ideas through characters fashioned as closely to flesh-and-blood people as effort and latent ability will permit.

Oftener than not, they have also failed to grasp another basic requirement imposed by his medium on the story-teller. This is the necessity of coming up with a valid story problem.

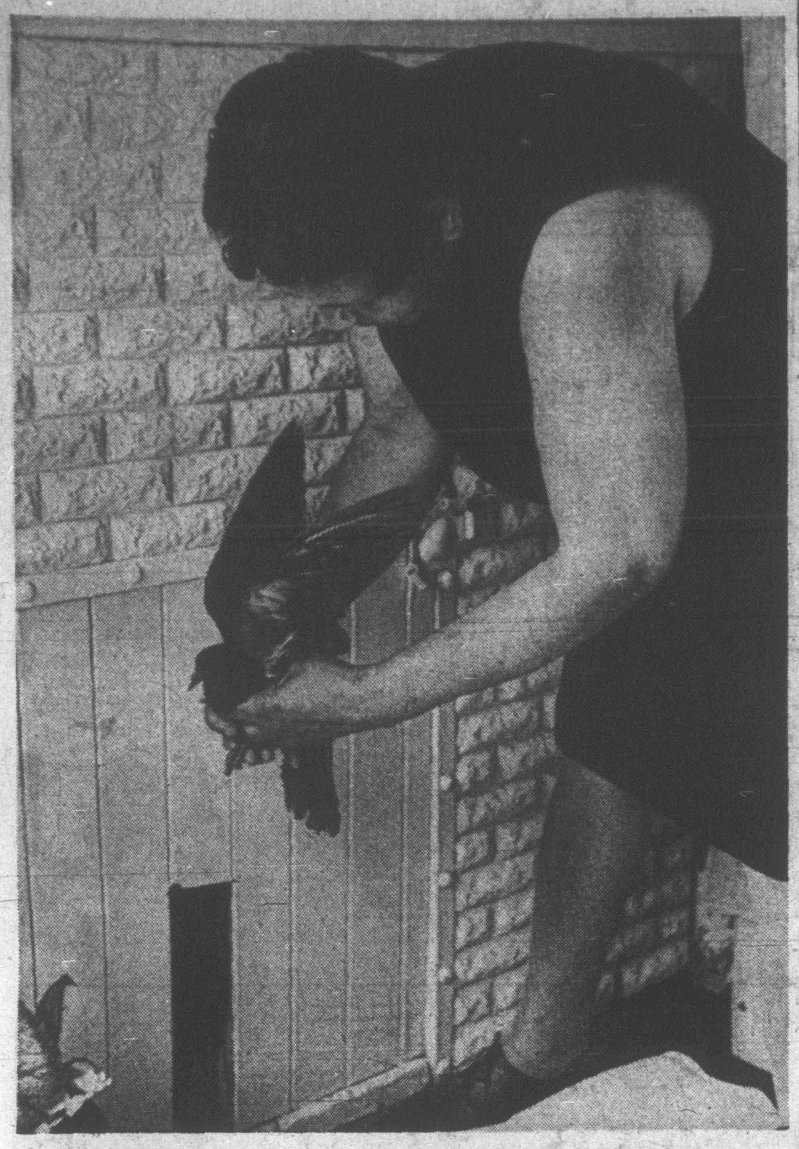
There are still other requirements. One of them is sufficient arrogance to believe or at least hope, that some portion of what you put on paper is worth somebody else's attention.

It may be, it may not be. No guarantees attach to the creative writer's difficult and lonely craft. Still, the only way in which a person afflicted with writer's itch can arrive at an answer is this:

Get it down — mail it out — and for what cold comfort the fact may bring, be assured that even the pros draw rejections enough to temper arrogance with humility.



PIGEON FLEW THE WRONG COOP

It looked like the greatest suspense story of the year. Mrs. Ella Anderson, 722 Yates, had been hearing noises behind the boarded up fireplace in her apartment for some time. It wasn't long before curiosity got the better and she resolved to cut a hole and take a peek. Monday morning she phoned Times photographer Bill Halkett and invited him to witness and record for posterity the moment of discovery.

Fully expecting a long hairy arm to come clawing out the hole Bill waited, camera at the ready, as Mrs. Anderson carefully sawed away a small section in the wooden barricade with a key-hole saw. Tension mounted. Then suddenly Mrs. Anderson plunged a hand into the gaping hole and emerged grasping a very frightened, rather battered pigeon.

The bird-brained fowl had flown down the chimney and then had found itself unable to fly back up again.

GUERRILLAS FEEL THEY ARE BETRAYED

'Everyone Exploits the Palistinians'

KARAMEH, Jordan. (NYT) — Even in the searing sun, even with the dust on his shirt and his skin, even after a long morning in the fileds of the Jordan Valley, the farmhand called Khalil had strength left to visit his wrath.

"This is a bad life, everyone exploits the Palestinians," he rasped to travellers in this war-ruined town. "We will not accept orders from other Arabs now."

For Khalil and hundreds of thousands of other Palestinian Arabs, this summer is a season of special bitterness, of new kinds of hate.

★ ★ ★

The Middle East cease-fire has left Palestinians bitter because they believe that the Egyptian and Jordanian governments have betrayed them by accepting it — and showing that they prefer peace to continued war with Israel.

Many Palestinians have turned against President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt. They feel that by trying for a settlement he is throwing away the chance of someday destroying Israel and letting them regain the land they still call theirs.

This has left men like Khalil with the belief that they have been abandonel by their former Arab allies. It has led to changes within the Arab guerrilla movement and in Palestinian attitudes.

"For 20 years, people have been using us," Khalil said through an interpreter as he prepared to leave the shady ruins for an afternoon's work in the fileds.

Many Palestinians in Jordan and elsewhere have come to feel that the commando movement has been used as a pawn by the Arab governments. There is little talk now of the battle of Karameh, in which guerrillas claim to have fought Israeli troops to a standstill in 1968.

★ ★ ★

The prestige that Karameh won the guerrillas within the Arab world now seems imperiled. The Cairo press argued this week that they lacked the strength to beat Israel, ever, and there is fear that a peaceful settlement might cost them much of their outside support.

The commandos are going to try to decide how to cope with the changed diplomatic situation at a meeting of the 112-man Palestinian National Council that is expected to be held soon. The site has not been set.

In theory, at least, the council speaks for all the 1.5 million Palestinians who live outside Israeli control. These people had been given hope and pride by the commandos' victory here and the subsequent flowering of their movement, with its brandishing of submachine guns, forays into Israel, terrorist acts and its inpouring of funds from oil-rich Arab states.

But now many poor Palestinians such as Khalil fear a loss of this new dignity. Having felt themselves insurgents they do not want to accept again the role of refugees. A result of this has been the conviction, in Lebanon as well as Jordan, that refugees must rely more on costribituons from other Palestinians and less on support from other Arabs.

Specifically, many Palestinians here fear that the Jordanian government means to quash the commando movement. This fear exists despite government protestations that their cause is just and that guerrilla raids are not to be construed as cease-fire violations.

Privately, some Jordanian officials say they hope that the commandos' movement will "melt down like a candle" now that the power to change the Middle East situation seems to have shifted to the negotiationg table.

★ ★ ★

But the government has avoided any direct showdown lately. The Bedouin troops have not tried to prevent the guerrillas from carrying — and using — their arms in dowtown Amman.

And the army lets the commandos move at will through the ruins here — the crumbling relics of a cause that many Palestinians fear may now be lost.

Italy's Newest Premier Unknown to General Public

ROME (NYT) — One night recently when most Romans were finishing up their after-dinner coffee and wondering what to do until it got cool enough to sleep, a dapper figure walked unhurriedly through the crowds in Piazza Navona to a small restaurant where he sat down with three other men.

Except for the fact that his companions rose obediently to greet him and that the waiters, slow with all their other customers, quickly brought him a frugal meal, no one would have guessed that the belated diner was Italy's new Premier, Emilio Colombo.

Colombo is something less than household word in the nation he heads. Inside his own Christian Democrat party, the 50-year-old bachelor has long been acknowledge as a rising star. In European financial circles and at Common Market negotiating tables, he enjoys a reputation as an economic wizard and a hard, skillful negotiator.

UNKNOWN

But even though he has been Italy's treasury minister for the last seven years, the slim, bespectacled southerner whose wavy hair is retreating from his high forehead remains largely unknown to the general public.

In Piazza Navona, where staring at zany costumes and people is a full-time occupation, Colombo looked completely out of place. His dark blue suit, so precisely creased that it seemed to have been pressed five minutes earlier, his drab tie and his purposeful stride give him the air of a proper, prosperous, young undertaker, a camouflage that succeeded in carrying him through the crowds without a head turning.

His voice — nasal — his enuniciation — slow — and his manner of speaking — few words, carefully chosen and clipped — combine with his erect carriage and careful dress to make him look and sound more like a British civil servant than an Italian politician. One friend who has known him since he entered parliamentary life in 1946 recently quipped, "to be completely British, Emilio only needs an umbrella, but he has swallowed his."

SERIOUS

Behind the manner is an intensely serious man who told a priest once that he had no time to get married and often says, "one is not born a statesman. "Born to lower middle-class parents in the city of Potenza April 11, 1920, Colombo was a hard-working officer of the local Catholic Action Youth Section by the time he was 16 and a regular reader in the local Catholic library.

Ten years later he was elected to Italy's constituent assembly, and at the age of 28 he became Under Secretary for Agriculture. In that post and, steadily climbing the cabinet ladder afterwards, Colombo helped write some of Italy's basic postwar reforms, including those that redistributed land, nationalized electric production and provided government aid to private investors and public development in the impoverished south where he was born.

TOUGH DEFENDER

He also is credited with authoring much of the Treaty of Rome that established the European Economic Community. In Brussels, where the Common Market is headquartered, he is known as a tough defender of Italy's economic interests, a firm believer in European economic unification and an advocate of British entry into the community. The tough tax measures and credit restrictions he pushed in 1963 — on the advice and with the aid of his closest collaborator, Guido Carli, who heads Italy's Central Bank — were the unpopular devices that turned a slump here into a revived boom.

Colombo's recreations are few: collecting French wine, occasional choral singing in a passable tenor and, now and then, a movie or a play.

Federalist Panel Airs UN Complaints

OTTAWA (CP) — The World Association of World Federalists heard a panel of United Nations experts Tuesday say what's right—and what's wrong—with the UN during the third day of the association's 14th biennial congress.

Piero Vinci, Italian ambassador to the UN, said the organization "still represents the world's best hope for peace and security."

But reforms were essential to reactivate the UN in such fields as disarmament and peacekeeping, remove administrative inefficiencies, and make the superpowers grant more authority to the world body.

Hermod Lannung, former Danish ambassador to the UN and current federalist leader in Denmark, said the UN charter must be revised to give greoter representation to countries with large populations.

Chief S. O. Adebo, former Nigerian ambassador to the UN and now executive director of the UN Institute for Training and Research, called for reforms in the administrative practices of the UN. He said the present system leads to organizational deadlocks and "a great deal of dirty horsetrading."

Marion McVitty, formerly the Federalists' own representative to the UN, said member governments had created a profusion of powerless agencies at the UN in order to avoid giving the organization itself real authority.

And the UN itself "has been running away from world government," she said.

Czech Boy Scouts Disbanded

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Czechoslovakia will disband its Boy Scout organization Sept. 1, apparently because the Communist-run Young Pioneers cannot compete with it, it was learned Tuesday.

No official reason was given for the abolition, a scouting source said. But the Boy Scout association, called Junak, has been attacked by Communists in Czechoslovakia as a "bourgeois company" whose leaders include clargymen and others who are not helping to mould youth for socialism, reported Prujob, the North Bohemian regional communist party daily newspaper.

Junak is not a member of the international Boy Scout organization, but is a successor to the pre-Second World War scouting movement, which was affiliated with Lord Baden-Powell's Boy Scouts.

BBC GETS THE BOOT

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian foreign ministry ordered the BBC today to close down its radio and television operations in India by Saturday and withdraw its correspondents, a foreign ministry spokesman reported.

The spokesman said the decision was conveyed to the British high commissioner, Sir Morrice James, today after word was received from London that the BBC refused to discontinue showing a series on Indian poverty.

B.C. Judge Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — A member of the British Columbia Judicial Council said Tuesday Provincial Court Judge Bernard Isman, 63, has been suspended from his duties pending investigation of an incident alleged to have occurred Aug. 7.

Cariboo District Judge Kenneth Arkell, a member of the commission, confirmed that the suspension had been ordered, but declined to discuss details of the alleged incident.

NO CHARGES

The Sun says it has learned the incident involved routine investigation by Vancouver police and RCMP of suspicions of prostitution and drug use against a woman. It says no arrests were made and no charges laid in the investigation.

The suspension order, handed to Judge Isman Monday, was signed by Provincial Court Judge Cyril White, chairman of the judicial commission.

Judge White was away from Vancouver Tuesday and unavailable for comment. He is scheduled to return Sept. 8.

HEARING

Judge Arkell said a hearing will be held at a date to be set and "all sides will be given an opportunity to be heard before a further decision is made."

The seven-man judicial council has power to suspend provincial court judges temporarily. Permanent removal would require an order-in-council by the provincial cabinet.

Judge Isman has been on the bench here since 1962.

Seek Jobs, Domestic Liberation

Times News Services

With slogans, stickers and speeches, women liberationists demanded equal rights today in a United States-wide demonstration for jobs, free abortion and 24-hour child-care centres.

Little active support for the cause was shown by Canadian women although members of the Women's Liberation Movement Tuesday set up picket lines in front of The Edmonton Journal demanding an end to want ad classifications which they said "foster discrimination against women."

NO SYMPATHY

In Vancouver today members of the Women's Lberation Movement said they plan no actions in sympathy with those in the U.S. Lack of liaison between Canadian and U.S. liberation organizations, differences in problems confronting women of both countries and a rift in the local movement were cited as the reasons.

In the U.S. the National Women's Strike Coalition, sponsor of Strike for Equality, had urged women to stay off the job if possible.

The Commerce and Industry Association in New York said it had checked 30 large firms and found a few women had asked for and been givn the day off. Figures were not available.

ALL ON HAND

"We're pretty advanced here," she said. "About 40 per cent of our departments are managed by women."

Jordan Troops Battle Guerrillas

Times News Services

Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian security men battled in downtown Amman today, with one guerrilla reported killed and three civilians wounded. Lebanese demonstrated against guerrillas in the Biblical city of Sidon and in Beirut.

The cause of the Amman street battle was not learned immediately. But eyewitnesses said a group of guerrillas on one side of the street and security men behind a parked car on the other blazed away at each other with pistols and submachineguns. Joint army-guerrilla patrols raced to the scene, stopped the fighting and made several arrests.

It was the eighth such incident reported since the guerrillas vowed to sabotage the ceasefire agreement, in which King Hussein of Jordan joined Egypt and Israel on Aug. 7.

The demonstration in Sidon took the form of a general strike in the wake of street battles Monday between guerrillas and pro-Nasser followers of Maaroui Saad, the city's representative in parliament. Two persons were killed, more than a dozen wounded and Saad was kidnapped for a time by the guerrillas.

Saad's followers called the strike because one of his relatives was still being held by the guerrillas, entrenched behind sandbags on roofs and at street intersections.

The demonstrators in Beirut were from the South Lebanese village of Chebaa. Blaming the guerrillas for Israeli strikes against their village, they sealed off the main street outside the office of the Palestine Liberation Organization with barricades of burning tires and demanded that the guerrillas

City 'Hesitant' To Block CPR

By PETER McNELLY

The City of Victoria decided not to oppose the E and N Railway's bid to end Dayliner passenger service at an informal meeting held at least three weeks before the Canadian Transport Commission hearings began, Ald. Peter Pollen said today.

Pollen said he, other aldermen, Mayor Courtney Haddock and top city staff attended the meeting. He said Haddock and city manager Dennis Young told the meeting a stand against the E and N would jeopardize land negotiations between the city and the CPR.

Acting mayor Percy Frampton and Young today denied knowledge of the meeting. An in-camera meeting of city council was held the day before the hearings began, and as a result, city solicitor T. P. O'Grady was instructed to attend the hearings with a watching brief.

Pollution Curb On New Cars Set

The provincial government has officially empowered itself to ban the sale of new cars which fail to meet pollution control standards after Sept. 1.

But no standards have yet been set, an official said, and enforcement may not begin until Jan. 1, 1971.

The new power, which also includes a potential ban on operation of cars violating standards, is contained in an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act passed at the last legislative session.

It isn't known whether the B.C. standards will exceed those already in effect in Ontario for new cars and already incorporated in new Ontario-built cars in B.C.

Government officials indicated earlier this year that operating standards for pollution control devices on existing motor vehicles would be phased in gradually after the new car restrictions were law.

No Decision Reached On Postal Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet today discussed the continuing postal dispute, but Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp said no decision has been reached on what may be done if current mediation efforts fail.

He said the cabinet will discuss the issue again early next week.

Mediator Thomas O'Connor said Tuesday night that a "considerable gap" still remains between the two sides in the dispute.

O'Conner issued a formal statement Tuesday night with the official purpose of commending the 27,000-member Council of Postal Unions on its decision to suspend rotating strikes from Thursday to Monday to deliver old-age pension cheques.

Closed by strikes today are the main post office and 41 staff offices in Toronto, Cobourg, Ont., Regina and Thunder Bay, Ont.

OTHERS SHUT

Service also was suspended by the post office at nine staff offices in the North Bay, Ont., district and Picton, Ont., as well as four in the Saskatoon district and five in the Calgary district.

But in the statement, O'Connor, a Toronto labor relations specialist, also said:

"There is a considerable gap that must be bridged to achieve a fair settlement as desired by both parties. Both negotiation committees are ably led and are capable of doing the job."

Congressmen Urge Freeze On SST Funds

WASHINGTON (WP)—A joint subcommittee of the United States congress recommended today that all federal funds be withheld from the 10-year-old effort to build America's supersonic transport (SST).

Every argument used to justify federal support for the controversial project was disputed by the economy-in-government subcommittee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), a long-time foe of the SST.

Cong Keep Up Attack On Cambodia Capital

PHNOM PENH (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces kept up their attacks against Phnom Penh's outer defences for the third day today, but a Cambodian military spokesman said: "The worst of this latest Communist assault appears to be over."

Two Communist battalions attacked Cambodian forces at Prek Tameak on the Mekong River nine miles north of Phnom Penh.

Cambodia's military command believes the Viet Cong are trying to establish a supply and infiltration route to the Mekong Delta along old Viet Minh trails used before 1954.

The Viet Minh trail was used before the 1954 Geneva agreements that ended the first Indochina war. It followed an approximate line from the Laotian border past Kompong Thom, 75 miles north of Phnom Penh around the end of the Tonle Sap Lake and Lompong Chang, 50 miles northwest of the capital, and into the mountains of southwest Cambodia.

Maj. Am Rong, the Cambodian military spokesman, said a certain amount of movement has been spotted along the old route, with Kompong Thom under constant pressure.

War Defoliant Ban Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate refused by a 62-22 vote, to ban United States use of plant-killing chemicals in the war in South Vietnam.

Bare Facts Given By Rejected Nudist

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Let's get down to the bare facts," Judge Edward S. Northrop said as he heard testimony about the refusal of the Baltimore police department to hire a nudist as probationary patrolman.

Police Commissioner Donald P. Pomerleau told the judge Tuesday that he declined to hire the nudist, John J. Bruns III of Glen Burnie, Md., because "nudism is not a commonly accepted mode of life."

Pomerleau also said Bruns's membership in Pine Tree Associates Inc., a nudist club, would prevent the 30-year-old man from complying with a requirement that patrolmen "carry side arms 24 hours a day."

Pomerleau was the only witness to testify in the $50,000 damage suit brought by Bruns after he was denied the job in 1968.

Bruns said he was first among 40 men on a civil service eligibility list. The 39 others were hired, he alleged in the suit.

'Cheque' Just Cowed Up and Never Said Moo!

LONDON (UPI) — Punch Magazine today paid its most senior writer with a cheque written on the side of a cow.

In 1930, Herbert wrote about a man presenting a cheque written on a cow to the tax inspector.

"We thought we'd celebrate Sir Alan's 60th year with Punch by doing something connected with his campaigns," Davis said. "He's been campaigning for 60 years."

Sir Alan said "I was campaigning against the income tax process when I wrote about the cow. The system hasn't gotten much better since then. I think if everybody paid their tax bill with a cheque on a cow, it would shake the state into doing something about the system."

Sir Alan led the cow into the bank, where the chief cashier handed over five new one-pound notes ($2.40 each). The bank manager wrote "paid" across the cheque.

In the columns of Punch and as an independent member of parliament for many years, A. P. Herbert helped win with wit and wisdom the reform of liquor and divorce laws and of entertainment and betting taxes.

In the current issue of punch, published today, "APH" looked back over the 60 years since the magazine accepted his first contribution — "a horrible piece of verse for which I was paid one guinea (about $3)."

Herbert's greatest foe has been the income tax. In 1962 he had to pay a surtax and accompanied his payment with a scorning poem. The tax man replied, in verse, that the people's champion had sent 30 cents too much. Herbert admitted defeat this way:

"I thank you, sir, but am afraid
Of such a rival in my trade:
One never should encourage those—

Congressmen Urge Freeze On SST Funds

WASHINGTON (WP)—A joint subcommittee of the United States congress recommended today that all federal funds be withheld from the 10-year-old effort to build America's supersonic transport (SST).

Every argument used to justify federal support for the controversial project was disputed by the economy-in-government subcommittee chaired by Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), a long-time foe of the SST.

Bare Facts Given By Rejected Nudist

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Let's get down to the bare facts," Judge Edward S. Northrop said as he heard testimony about the refusal of the Baltimore police department to hire a nudist as probationary patrolman.

Police Commissioner Donald P. Pomerleau told the judge Tuesday that he declined to hire the nudist, John J. Bruns III of Glen Burnie, Md., because "nudism is not a commonly accepted mode of life."

Pomerleau also said Bruns's membership in Pine Tree Associates Inc., a nudist club, would prevent the 30-year-old man from complying with a requirement that patrolmen "carry side arms 24 hours a day."

Pomerleau was the only witness to testify in the $50,000 damage suit brought by Bruns after he was denied the job in 1968.

Bruns said he was first among 40 men on a civil service eligibility list. The 39 others were hired, he alleged in the suit.

'Cheque' Just Cowed Up and Never Said Moo!

LONDON (UPI) — Punch Magazine today paid its most senior writer with a cheque written on the side of a cow.

In 1930, Herbert wrote about a man presenting a cheque written on a cow to the tax inspector.

"We thought we'd celebrate Sir Alan's 60th year with Punch by doing something connected with his campaigns," Davis said. "He's been campaigning for 60 years."

Sir Alan said "I was campaigning against the income tax process when I wrote about the cow. The system hasn't gotten much better since then. I think if everybody paid their tax bill with a cheque on a cow, it would shake the state into doing something about the system."

Sir Alan led the cow into the bank, where the chief cashier handed over five new one-pound notes ($2.40 each). The bank manager wrote "paid" across the cheque.

In the columns of Punch and as an independent member of parliament for many years, A. P. Herbert helped win with wit and wisdom the reform of liquor and divorce laws and of entertainment and betting taxes.

In the current issue of punch, published today, "APH" looked back over the 60 years since the magazine accepted his first contribution — "a horrible piece of verse for which I was paid one guinea (about $3)."

Herbert's greatest foe has been the income tax. In 1962 he had to pay a surtax and accompanied his payment with a scorning poem. The tax man replied, in verse, that the people's champion had sent 30 cents too much. Herbert admitted defeat this way:

"I thank you, sir, but am afraid
Of such a rival in my trade:
One never should encourage those—
In future I shall pay in prose."
